SEEDING at this time of the year may or may not prove to be a profitable enterprise, but a number of area farmers are finding fields workable and are going to take a chance. In the above photo, Louchlin Cameron is shown as he plants wheat on a 24-acre field on the Noper farm just southwest of the city. The ground was wet, a few low spots had to be skipped and it was the first day of summer but optimism was present. Whether or not the fall will bring a harvest remains to be seen.

Pilot Project Progress . . .

CD Heads Elated On Self-Help Plan

Pennington county Civil Defense authorities were enthused with the capacity turnout for the initial meeting of the medical self-help training program held last Wednesday at Northwestern hospital cafeteria. Interest by persons attending the first session was also apparent since all indicated that they intended to complete the course.

"We are now looking for representatives from 4-H clubs, rural organizations, local clubs, fraternal organizations, auxiliary groups, church groups and other organizations to serve as instructors under the program," stated Kendall Gustafson, county Civil Defense director. "Advance training is not necessary, all material is furnished, the course is completely outlined. All that is needed are individuals who will accept the responsibility of handling a course and presenting the prepared material."

Courses are designed to accommodate eight two-hour sessions. There is no restriction as to age or sex of persons who may take the instruction. Pennington county is serving as one of 11 pilot projects in the state with the ultimate goal being training in emergency medical self-help to at least one member of every family in the 50 states.

"We all hope that such knowledge will never have to be used," Gustafson said, "but we also believe that the nation's citizens should be prepared for such an emergency if it does occur. Preparedness is one of the greatest assurances that such an emergency will not happen."

Any persons interested in serving as instructors for their organization are urged to contact Gustafson, Ellsworth Jorgenson, assistant director, or Norman Peterson, administrator at Northwestern Hospital.

FHA Agency Will Continue Making Emergency Loans

Extension Approved for 12 Northwest Counties Including Pennington

The Farmers Home Administration has extended its year-old emergency designation for 12 northern Minnesota counties where heavy rain and some flooding have damaged grain crops.

The extension permits farmers to apply for emergency loans for operating expenses. It covers Beltrami, Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau and Wilkin counties.

Leo Brown, assistant state director of the GHA announced the extension Thursday and said it will continue through June 30. On July 1 a new designation will be issued, permitting emergency aid to continue without a break.

The same counties received emergency designation about a year ago. At that time it was because there was too little water, rather than too much.

Duane A. Wilson, Minnesota commissioner of agriculture, said all of the counties except Wilkin have applied to the U. S. Department of Agriculture for an emergency order to permit them to cut hay and graze livestock on soil bank land.

Government Agency Officials Give Open Ear to Study of Flood Area

by Marvin Lundin
City Editor

Standing room only was the situation at the Thief River Falls municipal auditorium Saturday when a calculated estimate indicated 1,300 persons had come from a 14-county area to attend the emergency planning conference held in this city. Representatives of numerous government agencies, some making a special trip from Washington, D.C., to attend the event, gathered to hear testimony on the crop and livestock situation and review the assistance that they were able to provide under existing legislation.

Opening at 10 a.m. with Charles Kotaska, Thief River Falls businessman and conference committee chairman, calling the meeting to order, the morning session of the all-day conference was devoted to review of the existing situation. Kotaska turned the meeting chairmanship over to Ed Christianson, president of the Minnesota Farmers Union, who presided at the day's program. J. B. Holter, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, gave the welcome.

The meeting was billed in advance as non-political but several legislators and announced political candidates found their way before the microphone in presenting testimony. Introduced as an area farmer and aerial crop sprayer, Rep. Ben Wichterman of Plummer spoke on the importance of needed action. Sen. Roy Wiseth of Goodridge and Art Stenberg, Thief River Falls, annouced legislative candidate, spoke briefly on area needs.

Bergland

Robert Bergland, state ASCS and disaster committee chairman, formerly of Roseau, presented the official report which had been submitted by the disaster committee to the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington. He noted that the area had little serious damage from flooding of rivers and streams and that the problem was a result of almost continuous rain which prevented normal planting, harvesting of h..y and grazing by livestock.

Bergland estimated that 20,000 farmers in 13 counties were severely affected and that an additional 1,500 farmers in five other counties were affected to some extent. "With this condition following the abnormally dry season last year, the problem is even more pressing as many farmers in the area are hard-pressed financially," Bergland said.

"The area involved produces about $100 million in cash crops annually. This is about 30 per cent of the income from cash crops in the entire state of Minnesota. The Red River Valley, all of which has been seriously affected, produces about 70 per cent of the potatoes and 80 per cent of the sugar beets grown in Minnesota each year." Annual gross value of farm production normally in the Valley is $140 million with 17,596 farms having 6,065,000 acres and 69,459 people living on farms.

Area included in the conference and the above figures include the counties of Becker, Beltrami, Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau and Wilkin.

"The economic impact of this emergency has not been felt yet," Bergland said, indicating that no crop revenue this fall would be the major economic factor. He estimated a loss of $50 million to $70 million, "assuming that crops now planted in the area can be harvested with a normal yield".

Drying Sonditions Generally Good —But Too Late

Generally good drying conditions have been noted throughout the area during the past several days but for the most part they have come too late to be of any agricultural benefit. Most fields are still too wet to work and the planting season has advanced to a point where it is questionable if a harvest will be forthcoming for grain planted at this time.

High and low temperatures during the past several days include 76 and 52 on Thursday, 77 and 53 on Friday, 79 and 50 with .38 inch of precipitation on Saturday, 82 and 55 on Sunday and a low reading of 55 degrees last night. Total precipitation for June to date is 2.93 inches.

Forecast calls for mostly fair with no important temperature changes for today, tonight and tomorrow. Winds will be light and variable with moderate humidity. High temperatures will be 78 to 88 degrees today with lows of 52 to 58 degrees tonight.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of
MRS. GRESMOND BRUGGEMAN

The first of our series of summer food suggestions comes to us from Mrs. Gresmond Bruggeman of this city. It is a hearty summer salad, a meal in itself when accompanied by sandwiches, but equally good with meats and as part of more filling meals. She says her children are especially fond of this salad, and it is one which husbands do not frown upon either. Besides its taste appeal, it has another attraction for the busy homemaker, as it can be prepared well in advance and brought out of the refrigerator just before mealtime.

TOKAY GRAPE SALAD

8 Oz. package cream cheese
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 tablespoons pineapple juice
24 marshmallows, cut up
1 No. 2 can pineapple tidbits, drained
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
2 cups Tokay grapes, halved and seeded

Soften cream cheese with mayonnaise and blend. Add pineapple juice, which has been drained from the tidbits, and blend well. Add marshmallows and pineapple. Fold in the whipped cream and grape halves. Pour into large bowl and chill until firm, preferably in the freezer compartment of the refrigerator.

The Bruggeman family bread-winner is employed as custodian at the local armory and is a member of the National Guard. They have five children, two boys and three girls, ranging in age from fifteen years to nine months. Quite understandably, Mrs. Bruggeman says that her activities as a homemaker fill her days quite completely. She also cares for her semi-invalid mother, Mrs. Caroline Walter, who makes her home with them. When she does have time for extra activities, she sews for the girls, and tries to get in a bit of gardening.

The Library Corner

by Tom Lynskey

How many days has the newspaper strike been going on now? It's been so long since I've seen a Minnesota newspaper, that I've almost forgotten what the printed word looks like. I wonder how many people (like myself, although I really shouldn't admit it) have found themselves reading last month's business circulars, or the back of a cereal box for the nteenth time? Well, such desperation is hardly necessary when you pause to consider that Thief River Falls has by far the finest library in Northwestern Minnesota. I'm sure that many people would be surprised to see the number of great new books on the open stacks in the library. So why not quit worrying about the end of the newspaper strike, and begin instead a refreshing novel or possibly a documentary of the controversial times in which we live?

Last week the Friends of the Library publicly announced its membership campaign to be officially underway. Anyone interested in promoting the Carnegie Public Library is encouraged to become a member of this organization. The membership fee is only one dollar for two years and may be obtained from Robert Flynn at the Union State Bank or at the check-out desk at the library.

One of the prime objectives of the Friends of the Library is to promote interest in good reading habits. Of course you have to have good books for good reading habits, and beyond a doubt the library does have the very best selection of good books to be found anywhere. With the Civil War Centennial in full swing, the amateur military strategists are reading in a virtual paradise of exciting new books and documentaries. And for those numerous backroom politicians of the community, the library has the very latest of the controversial political testimonials hot off the presses, ready for devourment.

The field of reading enjoyment is even greater for the numerous casual readers and book browsers. A regular feature of this column, which I hope will be well received, will be a review of the book of the week. I hope that I can interest at least one or two readers every week, and perhaps I can wake up a potential reader who just hasn't gotten around to visiting the library in some long time.

Even the title of this week's book strikes a quick note of interest: "Children of the Ashes", by Robert Jungk. This fast moving documentary retells the tragedy and triumph of Hiroshima in the years since the bomb, and of the struggles of its people to heal not only the scars of the body, but of the spirit also. The author sharply presents the inhumanity of many officials, some of them American, who reacted with only a cold, morbid curiosity to the horrible disaster.

The book is full of interesting anecdotes and stories. For instance, the work of Professor Nagaoka who traded scrap metal for any well-preserved shadows. Yes, that's right, shadows. When the atomic bomb burst over Hiroshima, its brilliant light bleached everything it touched. Thus, whenever a plant, an animal, or a human being happened to be in front of a flat surface, a shadow would be cast, as clear cut as a silhouette — an unbleached area upon a whitened background.

In contrast to such frightening elucidations, the book has many poetically beautiful scenes. Most beautiful of all would be the two blackened, twisted, charred cherry trees that miraculously bloomed again with hundreds of white blossoms. For the people of Hiroshima, these two cherry trees served as living symbols that a power even greater than the bomb was silently at work in their ruined city.

"Children of the Ashes" is one of the most interesting books that I have ever read. I'm finished with it now, and it's back on the shelf in the library. Why not pick it up the next time you're in? I'm sure you'll like it.

H. B. Rafteseth and son Duane returned Friday from a week's visit with Felix Arlington, a brother-in-law of the elder Mr. Rafteseth, at Medicine Hat, Alberta, Canada.

Heart Disease Hints Offered to Farmers

Work and moderate exercise are good for almost everyone, including people with heart disease. But it is important not to overload the equipment. This applies to the farmer as well as to farm machinery, according to the Minnesota Heart Association.

Your physical capacity depends on many things — age, health and body build, for example. Your capacity to work is also affected by such factors as experience, weather and your state of mind.

In the summer, you are more likely to overload your heart- the chores you may do easily in cooler weather put more stress on your heart when the temperature goes up. This is because the heart must supply more blood to the skin to cool the body while it is also supplying blood to the working muscles.

Your body will gradually adjust to summer heat but this takes time. So go easy during the first two or three weeks of hot weather.

Some of the pointers worked out by research scientists to help the farmer with heart disease can be wisely applied to your own outdoor work, whether or not you have heart trouble.

Clothing should be absorbent as well as loose fitting, moderately thick and light in color. A hat, preferably a foil-lined sun helmet, is a necessity.

A slow steady rate of work, with short rest periods taken in the shade, will get the job done without doing you in. When your work makes you short of breath or causes chest pain, either you are working too fast or the work is too hard for you. Report to your doctor whenever a job you are accustomed to doing easily seems difficult or causes discomfort.

People must learn to live within their physical capacity at any age, whether they are sick or well Thoughtful planning and good organization will get the job done with much less effort. Poor planning and waste motions make a person use far more energy than necessary.

Tips for Visitors at Seattle World's Fair

When you visit the Seattle World's Fair between now and October 21, you'd better bring along walking shoes and plenty of patience.

That's the advice of Dennis Blenis, manager of Minnesota's domestic travel department, just back from an inspection of the Century 21 Exposition.

"There's a lot of ground to cover at the fair—74 acres to be exact, Blenis said, "And comfortable shoes are a must."

"Secondly," he continued, "it doesn't pay to enter the fairgrounds armed with an impatient attitude. You'll soon discover that lines form for every building or display of any worth, and the only thing you can do is wait them out—patiently."

Seattle weather through October is generally fair, with mild temperatures. "However," he added, "it is necessary to bring sweaters, perhaps a sport coat and by all means, a light rain coat," he added. "Sunglasses are helpful too."

According to Blenis, it's a good idea to buy all film and camera equipment at home, because prices generally are more reasonable and the items are more readily available.

Since Seattle is so close to Canada, many fair-goers decide to visit that country. In that event, the AAA official said, they should have papers to prove their U. S. citizenship.

Cashing personal checks away from home is always a problem, and for that reason, traveler's checks come in handy.

Among Blenis' other tips for fair-goers are these:

Get to the fair as early as possible, because as the season continues, the crowds get larger. You can easily see the fair in two days, but you may want to stay longer and take in special events.

Get in line for the space needle your first day at the fair. This is the tallest building west of the Mississippi. The 600 foot needle is topped by a revolving restaurant. Then try to concentrate on the things you really want to see

Best way to travel on the fairgrounds is by the electric taxi or rubber-tired train.

Expect to be educated. Theme of the fair is the World of Tomorrow and many displays deal with science and art. Among the most popular spots to visit (the longest lines form here) are the Ford Motor Company exhibit; the Century 21 Pavilion, and the U. S. Science Pavilion.

You can leave the fair grounds and re-enter the same day. No extra charge is made.

According to Blenis, there's no evidence of price-gouging at Seattle restaurants, hotels and theatres.

"Such people as cab drivers and waitresses are most courteous and seem to have an enormous amount of patience," he said.

The Carol Linwicks of Los Angeles, California, are spending a two weeks' vacation at the parental home here. They will also visit with friends while in the area.

GRADUATE of the University of Minnesota recently with a Bachelor of Science degree in home economics education is Miss Carol Schjeldrup, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Schjeldrup of Plummer. She has accepted a position as home economics instructor at the senior high school in Morris.

Regional Meeting Held Here on CD Communications

On Wednesday, June 20, a regional meeting was held at the Thief River Falls municipal Auditorium with 30 civil defense communications officers present from 12 counties in Northwest Minnesota.

Presiding over the meeting was O. I. Buckmaster, Commander of MSA III, the Northwest Minnesota Civil Defense Area.

Speaking at the training session were Rod Canning of Northwestern Bell Telephone company, state coordinator of communications service; Robert Smith, training officer Minnesota department of civil defense; and Don White, district plant manager of Northwestern Bell.

Bike Licensing Period Reopened

Four additional days for licensing of bicycles by the Thief River Falls police department have been scheduled, according to Chief Elton Cummings. They will be Tuesday and Thursday, June 26 and 28 and July 3 and 5. Testing and licensing of bicycles will take place from 1 to 5 p. m. on each of the scheduled days.

Langen Requests Assistance for NW Minn. Farmers

Notes Emergency Loans Are Available Through County FHA Facilities

Congressman Odin Langen of Kennedy has urged Congressional and departmental action to assist flood-ravaged farmers in northwestern Minnesota, according to a news release from Langen's office last week. The Congressman acted on recommendations received from Governor Elmer L. Andersen, numerous ASC offices and individual farmers in the district.

Rep. Langen also joined with North Dakota Congressmen in asking the Department of Agriculture to reopen the signup period for wheat and feed grain under the diverted acreage program.

The Congressman also reminded farmers in the flood-stricken counties of his district that emergency loans are available through the Farmers Home Administration and that certain counties listed as disaster areas last year are still eligible to obtain feed grains from Commodity Credit Corporation stocks under a special purchase program.

A deep concern for the farmers of Minnesota was expressed by Langen as he noted many of them had struggled through drought conditions last year only to be faced with flooded farm land this year. He said he could truly understand the problems being faced, since his own farm in Kittson county, farmed by his two sons, has been experiencing both problems.

Ag. Agencies Hear of Area Farmers, Plight

Needed Action

In reviewing events leading up to the present emergency situation, Wichterman stated that the picture this year was the most serious in the history of the area. Even pioneer farmers who have lived in the area prior to the turn of the century could not recall a year when crops could not be planted, he said. Army worm damage in 1954, fall floods in 1957, drought last year and now the continual rain have combined to create the disaster, the Plummer man claimed.

Young farmers who have extended themselves to start in business may face financial ruin, soil conditioning programs have been set back five years or more. Foundation herds may have to be sold to meet financial obligations, he added. Assistance must come from state and federal government or there will be an unbearable burden on local welfare budgets.

Ideas Proposed

Wichterman proposed a number of ideas that he believed were needed to provide necessary assistance. Among them were revamping of the FHA credit system in the area to provide more liberal financing with low interest loans on long-term repayment; land rehabilitation program to permit farmers acreage payments for putting ground in condition for crop planting next year; increased payment for field ditching and new practice for ditch cleaning under ACP; extension of the emergency feed program for hay, grazing and feed grain; deferment of CCC loan payments; federal money to counties and townships for repair of roads and bridges; special works program to provide jobs for farmers who will have no crop income; and creation of an area watershed and flood control program.

"If I were to give priority to the things I have mentioned," Wichterman said, "I would, say that credit is the first and most important need. Second would be feed for cattle and third would be feed for cattle and third would be land rehabilitation."

Touch of Philosophy

Dr. B. E. Youngquist, superintendent of the Northwest School of Agriculture and Experiment Station, injected a bit of philosophy into the session when he said, "Maybe this is good for us once in awhile. It's pretty easy to sail along as we have been doing and maybe we need to be headed in from time to time."

He stated that in the 64 years that continuous records have been maintained at the Crookston station, this was the second wettest period from May 1 to June 15. The record year was in 1899. Land and water are the only real resources in the Valley, he said. "We are doing a pretty fair job on handling our land but on water we are doing a miserable job." Attention was called to the fact that only one-fourth of the agricultural income in this area comes from livestock and three-fourths comes from cash crops—the exact opposite of the rest of the state.

Resolutions Offered

Christianson opened the meeting to representatives of groups who had resolutions to present at the meeting and a total of 17 persons took the floor to read resolutions or give personal comment. Among them were Ed Helfel of Plummer, Robert Parnow of Goodridge, Aurel Melby of Oklee, James Glenn of Roseau county, John Kolb of Warroad, Al Gerner of Beltrami county, Dale Bergen of Lake of the Woods county, Everett Schumacher of Trail, Sam Brattell of Grygla, John Grenier of Red Lake Falls, Frank Fraser of Roseau county, Roy Wiseth of Goodridge, Hans Hanson of Beltrami county, Art Stenberg of Thief River Falls and Albin Berry of Red Lake county.

Bratteli, a member of the Beltrami county board of commissioners, received spontaneous applause when he advocated a public works program for ditch cleaning and said, "I am opposed to money in any form of relief without giving the recipient an opportunity to work for it." Grenier's proposal was unique as he called for a grace period in 1963. "Let the government leave us alone for one year and let us plant what we want. We may add to the surplus but we'll add to pocketbooks too and not have to go to Congress with our hat in our hand."

Work Already Done

Following a noon recess at which a number of the persons attending were served dinner at Lincoln high school, Bergland reviewed work already accomplished to provide assistance to the area. He stated use of soil bank for hay and grazing had been authorized for Kittson, Marshall, Red Lake, Clearwater, Norman, Pennington and East Polk counties and approval sent to Washington for similar permission in Beltrami, West Polk, Roseau, Clay, Lake of the Woods and Wilkin counties.

Government movement of all stocks of feed grain in the area were stopped about June 13 and such stocks held for the emergency feed program. Farmers who borrowed money from ASC to purchase granaries were assured that the payments would be deferred or the loan re-negotiated to accommodate the farmer. Meetings are being held with USDA officials to coordinate activities and facilitate action on programs when they are needed.

Replying to the request for $10 per acre payments for soil rehabilitation, Bergland said that $20 million would need to be spent in the Valley to fulfill this request. In the USDA budget there is only $9 million for this summer fallow practice in the entire United States.

Agencies Report

Presenting positions of their respective agencies at the afternoon information session were Earl Hogan, Rural Area Development; Ron Anderson, Railroad and Warehouse Commission; Arthur Hansen, Farmers Home Administration; Herbert A. Flueck, Soil Conservation Service; Clarence Cowles, Small Business Administration; A. T. Mace, Rural Area Development; J. W. Brainard, Federal Crop Insurance; Duane A. Wilson, Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture; and Kal Makela, Minnesota State Employment Service.

As a conclusion to the meeting, the group adopted a resolution presented by Wichterman which called for continuance of the conference committee as a planning group; authorization for the committee to enlarge its membership to include a more representative group; study by the committee of resolutions presented at the meeting; continued contact between the committee and the agricultural agencies; and keeping the public advised through news media and additional meetings of progress being made.

Selma Knutson Rites Conducted At Silver Creek

Funeral services for Miss Selma Knutson, 58, a resident of Thief River Falls and community for many years, were held Saturday afternoon, June 23, in the Silver Creek Church. Rev. Milton Wilson officiated, and burial was in the Silver Creek cemetery, with arrangements handled by the Green Funeral home.

Born in Excel township, Marshall county, on January 15, 1904, she attended school there for some time, after which she continued her education at Fisher, Minnesota, graduating from the Fisher high school and later from the teacher's college at Bemidji, Minnesota. Upon graduating from there, she taught school for several years, both in Marshall and Polk counties.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Gunhild Knutson; two sisters, Mrs. Anna Johnson and Miss Bernice Knutson; two brothers, Otto and Knute, all of Thief River Falls, and by two uncles and five aunts.

Her father and one brother preceded her in death.

Rites Tuesday for Lars Berg, 80, Who Died Thursday

Funeral services for Lars Berg, age 80, a longtime resident of Beltrami County, who passed away Thursday, June 21, at the Erickson Rest home of this city, will be held Tuesday, June 26, at 2:30 p. m. at Our Savior's Lutheran Church at Grygla. Rev Julian Erickson will conduct the rites, and interment will be made in the church cemetery. Sinding's Funeral chapel is in charge of arrangements. Visitation hours at the chapel will be until 11 a.m. on Tuesday, and at the church one hour before the services.

Lars Berg was born in Hyllestad, Satersdal, Norway, on June 23, 1881. In 1900 he and his sister Julia came to the United States, settling in this city with their father's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Knute Ose. They made their home with the Oses for some time.

Later, Mr. Berg and his sister moved to Grygla, and homesteaded near Thorhult, in which community he spent much of the remainder of his life, with the exception of the past few years in Thief River Falls.

He is survived by two nephews, Tellef Torgerson of Grygla; Andrew Torgerson of Washington; Inga Quale, a niece, also of Washington, and the O. K. Ose family of this city.

His sister Julia, five half-brothers, and one half-sister preceded him in death.

of Rhyme & Reason

BY MARY LUNDIN

FILINGS ARE OPEN for county offices and other governmental positions in the area. A number of persons have already placed their names before the voters and there will undoubtedly be a number of others tossing their hats into the political ring before filings close and campaigning begins in earnest.

To those who seek elective positions which provide full-time occupations and a living wage, I would presume there is some attraction in the offices they seek. As for the other posts concerned with operation of the government itself, it is difficult indeed to see any attraction in the positions. Pay, if any, is small in relation to work performed and this work is, at best, a thankless labor.

It is not difficult to see, however, why it is difficult to get qualified men to serve in such elective positions. As public representatives from wards or districts, the men are constantly besieged with requests and complaints. They spend a great deal of time, apart from regular and special meetings, discussing real or imagined ills with voters in their areas. They can never do enough for some and others maintain that everything they do is done wrong.

Personally, I doff my stained and battered hat to these champions of democracy in action. Many of them are not so affected by the visions of prestige that they are above dedication to the duties of their respective offices. Most are sincere in their efforts and nearly all have the best interests of the public at heart.

These men are not without a certain amount of intestinal fortitude. Take for instance the stand of the city council at its last meeting to deny a labor union request for wage increases. These requests come as regularly as leaves turn on the calendar with little regard to community situations, cost of living, financial situation of business and related factors. Believeing wages to be adequate and in line with other salary schedules and having the best interest of the taxpayers at heart, the council said "no" to the request. Outside of the city employees who would benefit from a raise in wages, the public owes the council a vote of thanks.

The Times goes to great lengths to provide the best in reading entertainment for its readers. Some may have wondered how we ran a picture of Miss Thief River Falls in our Monday edition following the Saturday evening Miss Minnesota contest recently while having a photographer covering the American Legion convention in this city the same weekend. It wasn't easy.

Ralph Foster, Jaycees president, who was Miss Susanne Pitblado's escort at the Miss Minnesota pageant, was equipped with my 35mm camera, film and bulbs. When he learned that flash bulbs could not be used, he took the initiative of purchasing a roll of fast film. Since he did not return to Thief River Falls the next day, the film was returned with Roger Tunberg, queen committee chairman, who also attended the event. Huck Olson, Times sports editor and 35mm camera fanatic, picked up the film for processing. On Sunday night I made the print and on Monday we made the engraving for use in the paper. This is just one of the many "behind the scenes" stories of how we go about getting what our readers want.

And speaking of the Miss Minnesota contest, Mrs. Mary Hill, formerly of Radium and now living in Warren, writes that Judith Ann Lerstad, Miss Minnesota of 1962, is a daughter of her niece, Mrs. Oliver Lerstad of Minneapolis. It was a busy week for Judy, Mrs. Hill writes, gaining the Miss Minnesota title on June 2 and the next day celebrating her 22nd birthday and graduating with honors from Augsburg College in Minneapolis. Miss Minnesota will be here for the annual Jaycees Aquacade on August 4.

Collective thanks from the community to the men and women of the Sow and Hoe Garden club for the beautiful flower plantings on the traffic islands on highways 32 and 59. This poem from the club's program booklet will serve as the rhyme for today's column:

SOIL CONDITIONER

When the garden club starts dishing the dirt,
A lot of the girls are frank to assert
That the soil conditioner still unmatched
Is a simple spade with a spouse attached.

To which we add:

My wife an awesome garden plants
Despite my constant raves and rants.
Year in and out I know 'tis so—
She plants much more than I can hoe.

Harlan Pester Is Hurt as Tractor Upsets Tuesday

Harlan Pester of Crookston was injured Tuesday evening when a tractor tipped over on him at his farm 16 miles west of Thief River Falls.

Pester was alone at the time of the accident and was pinned under the tractor for about an hour and a half. When he was found it took about an hour to get him out from under the tractor.

He was taken to Northwestern Hospital where he was treated for severe bruises and burns received from acid in the battery. He was brought to a Crookston hospital by ambulance Thursday.

Brooks Man Buys Vorachek Tax and Insurance Agency

Gordon Smith, New Owner, Has Record of 16 Years Service with U.S. Army

Announcement was made today of the sale of the Charles W. Vorachek Insurance agency and income tax service to Gordon W. Smith of Brooks. The sale was completed early this month. Mr. Vorachek, who has been in the insurance business here since 1925, will remain associated with Mr. Smith in offices located in the Elk's building, and he will continue active in the life insurance field.

Formerly a native of Owosso, Michigan, Mr. Smith came to this area in September, 1957, after serving 16 years active duty in the army. His overseas duty included service in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations, in Trieste, Japan and Korea. Stateside, he held assignments in the contract audit division of the Budget and Fiscal Office, U. S. Air Corps, Washington, D. C., serving as regional termination auditor and later as plant termination auditor at the Boeing Aircraft plant at Seattle, Washington.

Upon his return from Japan he held assignments as Post Commander, Fort Mason, California, and at the time of his retirement from the Army was deputy comptroller at the U. S. Army Transportation Terminal center, Fort Mason, California. He is a graduate of the San Francisco State College, where he earned the degree of bachelor of arts in 1956.

Mrs. Flora Allison and Diane were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Platt of Red Lake Falls. They accompanied the Platts to Crookston on Sunday, for a visit at the home of Mrs. Allison's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roman Zins. Diane remained in Red Lake Falls to visit her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Zins for a time.

Fishing Reported Good This Sprng

Game and Fish Division Says Luck Good at L. of W.

Fishing has been quite good this spring says John B. Moye, research supervisor for the conservation department's game and fish division.

At Lake of the Woods the walleyes are still in close to shore and good catches of two and three pounders are being made.

In Grindstone lake near Hinckley, which is being managed experimentally as a two-story trout lake, 12 to 15 inch rainbow trout are in shallow water and are being taken on flies and by trolling. Some lake trout have been caught from the lower story of deep water in Grindstone.

On Leech lake fishing was recently reported as being too good for best resort business. Anglers have been catching limits of walleyes and going home after only a short stay.

Experimental trout management is being tried for Kabekona lake near Park Rapids. Kabekona creek, which flows into it, was stocked with small steelhead trout last summer. It is being used as a nursery stream for the lake. Bob Schumacher, who is in charge of trout research, reports that the young steelheads are now about six inches long and are still in the stream. They will probably migrate into the lake in July.

He asks that anglers cooperate in this lake rehabilitation project by returning to the stream the small steelheads and rainbows they catch. Let them have a couple years in the lake, Schumacher says, and they will be two and three pounders that are much more fun to catch.

Hartz Team Takes Lead in Softball

Comes from Behind to Win 9-8 over VFW Thursday

In last week's feature game, played on Thursday evening, the Hartz Stores team made a come-from-behind effort to edge out the V. F. W. squad by a 9-8 score and take over first place in the city softball league standings.

The Vets, with Joey Poole clouting a bases loaded home run, took an early 6-1 lead, but the Hartz club, pecking away at Wally Gravum's delivery, pared that lead to one run, 6-5, entering the sixth inning. Dennis Bakke connected for a three-run home run to give the Hartz an 8-6 lead in the top of the seventh. Marv Olson poled out a solo home run, and this tally proved the game-winning run as the Vets rallied for two runs in the last half of the seventh.

This week's slate will find Bridgeman's playing the Thief River Grain on Monday evening, the Vets meeting Holsum Bread on Tuesday evening, and the league-leading Hartz meeting the Hamm's Beer on Thursday evening.

Sportsmen's Store Team Tops Golfers

Holds Two-point Lead over Hardware Mutual

The Sportsman's Store quartet of Nicky Carlson, Rod Max, Bob Gaarder, and Gene Sack, posted a net team total of 145 strokes to break their first place deadlock with the American Hardware Mutual squad and take a two-stroke lead in the city golf league standings.

For the leaders, Carlson had a 47 gross and net 39, Max carded a 43 gross and a 37 net, Gaarder tallied a 39 gross and 30 net, and Sack had a 47 gross and a 39 net.

The players gaining low net honors in Wednesday evening's play were Gaarder, with a 30, and Lowell Swenson, who also had a 30. The low gross scorers were Gaarder, with his 39, and Steve Embury, also with a 39.

A steak dinner is being planned for this Wednesday evening's stag.

Honors for Oscar

The sports fans of the hockey-minded Roseau area held a gala gathering in the Roseau high school cafeteria on Saturday night, paying homage to Oscar Almquist and his twenty-five years as a high school hockey coach.

Almquist, a product of Eveleth high school, where he was a top-flight goalie on some of coach Cliff Thompson's early teams, played his college hockey at St. Mary's college in Winona He gained All-American recognition at St. Mary's, and following his graduation from college he put in several seasons with the St. Paul Saints in the American Association hockey circuit.

Oscar, after putting in a couple of years at Williams, joined the high school faculty in Roseau in 1939, and has been a stand-out in Minnesota prep coaching circles ever since. In his twenty-five year career in coaching, Oscar's teams have won 319 games, lost 114, and tied 16. His Roseau Rams have won four state high school hockey titles, winning in 1946 1958, 1959, and 1961. And three times, in 1947, 1957, and 1962, the Rams were runners-up.

It's been my good fortune to have witnessed all of Oscar's state-championship teams in action. And they have all played in typical Almquist-coached style. Team play and discipline and condition have been the fundamentals of these Roseau teams. He has had numerous outstanding individuals on these teams, and other teams, but these stars always sacrificed their opportunities for brilliant solo work in order that team play could be stressed.

Of his state championship squads, it is doubtful if Oscar could make a choice as to which he believes to have been the strongest. They all were manned by stellar performers. As a personal opinion, I would give a slight edge to the 1959 team. That team placed five players—Jim and Larry Stordahl, Don Ross, Richard Roth, and Dale Olson—on the all-tournament squad.

Oscar well deserved the honors given him Saturday night.

Sent Down

Bemidji's Corky Johnson, who had been on the pitching staff of the Tacoma Giants of the triple A Pacific Coast league, has been sent to the El Paso team of the double A Texas league.

Corky, who moved up into Organized Baseball by signing a contract with the San Francisco Giants while a member of the Erskine Merchants several years ago, had been used mainly in relief with the Tacoma club this season. He has been troubled by a sore arm, and it is hoped that the hot weather that prevails in Texas will be to Corky's benefit.

And with the El Paso Sun Kings, who are currently leading the Texas league standings, he will be given more opportunity to earn a starter's role. At Tacoma, which is the number one farm team of the San Francisco club, Corky was competing with a number of pitchers who were just below major league caliber. In fact, several of the hurlers on the Tacoma staff had been on the San Francisco roster earlier in the season.

A Return Visit

The Dick Siebert-Wheaties baseball clinic will pay a second visit to this area when, on Tuesday, July 31, Siebert, along with Hal Younghans, baseball coach at Minneapolis Patrick Henry, and Tom Warner, baseball coach at St. Paul Cretin, will be at the Fair Grounds diamond for an all-day session.

Siebert plans to split the youngsters into two separate age groups this summer. The morning session will be devoted to boys in the 9-12 year bracket, while the afternoon session will be spent with boys 13 years of age and older.

The clinic held here last year was very well-attended, and it hoped that several groups from the near-by towns will avail themselves of the opportunity to receive this valuable baseball instruction.

Russ Says:

Russ Embury, who is one of the executives of the local chapter of the New York Yankees fan club, has been on the receiving end of a number of snide remarks concerning the relative ineptness of the Yankees' play this season. To the uncouth remarks of these fans, Russ has been making this answer: "We'll see you in October."

I imagine that Russ implies that the Yankees will be in the World's Series. But it could also mean that he is referring to the partridge hunting east of Fourtown next October.

LEADER in the home run department for the Thief River Falls Thieves this season is Dennis Bakke, former Newfolden high school athlete, who has been handling catching duties for the local baseball club. Bakke has three round-trippers to his credit, two slammed over the fence and one of the inside-the-park variety.

This husky walleye took his artificial lure and Hoglin took the fish which tipped the scales at nine pounds. It was the largest reported catch from the river this season.

Dow Key Expansion Program Completed

Jobs, Inc., Repaid on $15,000 Loan a Year Ahead of Schedule

by Marvin Lundin
City Editor

"We're not complaining" is the happy comment of officials of Dow Key Company, Inc., local manufacturing firm which recently doubled the size of its building and is already beginning to feel cramped in the new quarters. Ability to meet the exacting demands of industry has resulted in the firm receiving an ever-increasing quantity of orders.

More tables are being built for the production department and 10 persons have been hired by the firm in the past two months. As it is needed, new equipment is being added piece by piece to the engineering department and machine shop. From the total of about 12 employees, hired when the firm moved from Warren in 1958, the payroll has now increased to about 30 full-time workers.

Dow Key company located in Thief River Falls at the invitation of Jobs, Inc., through which a five-year loan in the amount of $15,000 was made available. This loan was over-subscribed by Thief River Falls citizens. Stanton Dahlen, who acted as trustee, has announced that this loan has now been repaid a full year ahead of the maturity date.

Completely remodeled this year when a new addition was built, the plant now has a total of 11,000 square feet of floor space, more than double the previous working area. Exterior of the building has been changed from brick to stone appearance and a company sign, which will be illuminated by spotlights at night, will be placed on the building. Landscaping remains to be done and a custodian has been hired to maintain the building and take charge of care of the grounds.

Supplies Complex Field

More and more the company is supplying the complex industrial field with relays and large manufacturing firms are becoming increasingly interested in Dow Key products. The firm has built its reputation on quality and service and plans are in the making for setting up a plating department where the company can electroplate its own parts for products manufactured. This will permit even better service to customers where speed of delivery is required.

Various pieces of testing equipment have been installed in the expanded engineering department to check the working effectiveness of relays which are built to fit specific needs. Many types of relays have been built and a number of these have become re-order items for the companies requesting them. Company officials and employees seem to enjoy the challenge of creating relays which are needed by industry and which other companies can not or do not provide.

Severe Tests

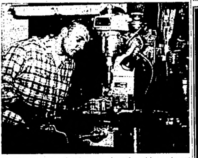
Building and testing of equipment for extreme shock and environmental conditions is all part of the business. Relays in some cases must be operational at a range from minus 55 to 125 degrees Centigrade (—67 to 257 degrees Fahrenheit). Water at sea level boils at 212 degrees Fahrenheit They must withstand 2,000 vibrations per second, 15 "G's" pressure, exposure to salt spray and be operational at altitude of 50,000 feet.

Relays have been shipped from the local plant to Cape Canaveral, Fla., Radio Corporation of America in South America and many other points around the globe. Military sub-contracts are gradually becoming a larger portion of the company's business.

The future looks bright. Like company officials say, "We're not complaining."

DRAFTING department at the Dow Key Company, Inc., located just east of highway 59 at the east edge of Thief River Falls, is part of the expanded engineering room provided for in an expansion program recently completed. Shown here is Gerald Becker, Thief River Falls, electrical engineering student at the University of North Dakota who is employed by the company for the summer. He will be a senior in the college of engineering this fall.

ASSEMBLY Area at Dow Key Company, Inc., was approximately doubled in size in a recent remodeling and addition program of the company in this city but is rapidly becoming cramped. Additional tables are being placed in the assembly area to provide working space which will allow an increasing volume of orders to be filled. Ed Senum, final assembler at the plant, is shown in the above photo putting the finishing touches on one of the relays manufactured by the firm. About 30 persons are presently full-time employees of the plant.



TRUING UP the vise on a piece of precision equipment at the Dow Key company in Thief River Falls is Wayne Olson of this city, machinist at the plant. Olson learned his trade while on the job and has been employed by the company for four and one-half years. The machine shop was also enlarged in a recent expansion of the company and new equipment is being added on a limited scale as it is needed. Unskilled help is easily obtained, company officials report, but qualified machinists are difficult to find.

Field Day at N.W. Station July 17

To Observe Centennial of Land-grant Colleges

The centennial of the land-grant college system will be observed at seven University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station field days in July.

President Lincoln signed the Morrill Act on July 2, 1862. This act provided grants of public land to the states for support of colleges and universities that included "agriculture and mechanic arts." The University of Minnesota is a land-grant institution.

Dates and places for the field days include July 17 — Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston. Morning tours of experimental crops and livestock projects and afternoon speaking programs are being planned. Special features are being arranged for the ladies. A. C. Hodson, head of the department of entomology and economic zoology at the University, will speak at Crookston.

A feature of the field days again this year will be a plant problem clinic. Visitors may bring insect, plant disease or weed specimens for identification and control recommendations. University specials will be on hand to answer questions.

The oldest incorporated trade association in the country, the United States Brewers Association, was organized in 1862 . . . the same year that

IN MINNESOTA, hearing of the gallant fighting of the 1st Minnesota regiment against the Confederacy, during the Peninsular campaign, folks all over the state toasted their troops' bravery with foaming steins of beer.

For then as now, beer was the traditional beverage of moderation. Beer still provides real enjoyment for folks in Minnesota, and a good living for the employees and suppliers of the Brewing Industry.

TODAY, in its centennial year, the United States Brewers Association still works constantly to assure maintenance of high standards of quality and propriety wherever beer and ale are served.

UNITED STATES BREWERS ASSOCIATION, INC.

Both Parties Back Amendment No. 2

Removes Present Limit on State Indebtedness

Amendment No. 2 now has received vigorous endorsement from both major political parties in Minnesota.

This is the amendment which would remove the out-dated limitation on state indebtedness and permit essential state building programs to continue.

The Minnesota Republican party, meeting in state convention in Minneapolis earlier this month, gave its endorsement to Amendment No. 2, as well as to Amendments 1 and 3. Similar action was taken at the state convention of the Democratic Farmer-Labor party when it met in Duluth on May 26th

The Minnesota State Bar association, meeting in Minneapolis on June 13-15 gave its endorsement to Amendment No. 2. These are three of the more recent endorsements of Amendment No. 2 by a growing number of groups throughout the state, including the League of Women Voters and the American Legion.

Governor Elmer L. Andersen has described Amendment No. 2 as "a sound, necessary step when viewed from every aspect. By providing for legal financing of state buildings through a 60 per cent favorable vote in both houses of the Legislature it guarantees adequate protection as to spending levels established.".

"Minnesotans," he continued, "cannot afford to ignore Amendment No. 2 on the ballot. Failure to vote on the amendment is an automatic vote against it. Leaving the ballot blank is the same thing as voting 'No' and going on record as opposing any improvements in state buildings."

Goodridge Supt. Delegate to U.S. Educators Parley

Minnesota delegates to the 100th convention of the National Education Association in Denver July 1-6 will include several from northwestern Minnesota. Delegates will include Supt. David M. Brown, Goodridge; Mrs. Gladys M. Larson and Mrs. Lily Roleczynski, both of Hallock; Mrs. Martha M. B. Roberts and O. A. Roberts, both of Humboldt; Norman Arneson and Murray Warren, both of Crookston, and George Nornes, Climax.

Canada Votes

Our Canadian neighbors have emerged from another election that seems to have left several important questions unanswered. The conservative government headed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker retained control by a plurality but not by a majority. What the Canadians will have for the time being will be a coalition government of some kind, facing the probability of another election in the near future.

The surprise factor in this election was the strength of the Social Credit party which won 26 seats in the province of Quebec under the leadership of a French-speaking garage operator. Just what the Social Credit party stands for is not very clear. The leader is against higher taxes but he favors printing more dollars. He is against more welfare but he is in favor of increased old-age pensions and family allowances as a means of adding to the purchasing power of the people.

They seem to be almost as confused politically in Canada as we are here in the States. Party names mean nothing and the struggle is largely a meaningless battle between the ins and the outs. Regardless of what the election results may be, the people lose.

How Dependable Our Allies?

How dependable an ally is Japan? This question was discussed intelligently in a recent issue of the Christian Science Monitor by Takashi Oka. After reviewing a few of the differences that have become controversial within Japan recently, pertaining generally to American naval and air force bases in Japan, the writer concludes:

> "There is no easy answer to this question. Militarily, Japan is still almost completely dependent on the United States for its own defense, to say nothing of the Far East as a whole. Throughout the post-World War II period, the Japanese have become so accustomed to the fact of American protection that they cannot conceive of a situation in which this protection will not be available.
> "The uninterrupted fact of American military protection appears to have fostered the belief that Washington has more to gain from its defense relationship than does Tokyo, because it needs the latter as part of a world defense posture against the Communist bloc.
> "How deeply has the corollary fact that Japan also needs the United States penetrated the two-thirds of the electorate who support the government and refuse to go along with Socialist arguments for removal of American bases? Here is the crucial question, upon the answer to which hinges Japan's dependability as an ally of the United States."

What Takashi Oka has stated about the Japanese might properly be said about all of our allies. Their dependability as allies in an emergency probably would be determined by their ideas of our importance in the protection of their own interests. It is reasonable to assume that in such matters we all are guided largely by selfish considerations.

Which points up the importance to us of remaining strong — the importance of maintaining a sound economy — recognizing the fact that remaining financially solvent can be just as important as being militarily strong. The growing weakness of our dollar probably is the greatest threat to our security at the present time.

Indonesian Invasion

UN secretary-general U Thant probably is right when he says there is a "dangerous psychosis" abroad in the world today. That dangerous psychosis has been abroad in the world for many years, and it was one of the objectives of the United Nations organization, which U Thant now serves, to get this phychosis under control.

But the immediate problem with which U Thant, as secretary-general, seems to be confronted is keeping the United Nations organization united. The Communists have been striving for years to destroy it and they now are close to achieving their objective. And, unfortunately, there is a question in the minds of many as to whether it deserves to survive.

U Thant, for instance, is being criticized for the way he is handling the Indonesian invasion of West New Guinea. The Winnipeg Tribune has this to say on that matter:

> "While the attention of the world is focused on such affairs as Algeria, Laos and Latin America, the Indonesians continue to violate the United Nations charter and every concept of international law. Not only does the UN secretary-general not rebuke Indonesia but he sends "cease and desist" letters of equal force to Indonesia the aggressor and to the Netherlands, the victim of that aggression.
> "There is even more involved in this matter than a mere aggressive action in a remote island. The Netherlands government, at considerable expense, has been trying to bring the Papuan natives of West Guinea to such an educational standard that they will be able to govern themselves in a reasonable span of years. What Indonesia is trying to do by force of arms is to compel the Netherlands to surrender this island and leave the natives to the tender mercies of President Sukarno and his corrupt and inefficient regime."

Then, in closing, the Tribune suggests that maybe our government should be a little more concerned about the Indonesian invasion, that is, if we are concerned about the survival of the United Nations as an effective peace agency. It concludes:

> "It is astonishing that U Thant cannot relate his remarks about a "dangerous psychosis" to this situation. It is equally astonishing that the United States with its oft-repeated adherence to the principles of the self-determination of peoples should not use its influence directly to restrain Sukarno and indirectly to spur U Thant to an understanding of his duty."

Senator Byrd is Right

President Kennedy now is talking about tax cuts and increased spending as a means of stimulating business activity. While there is a very real need for tax revision at the national level, there is no justification for decreasing tax revenue and at the same time increase deficit spending. The right answer would be to reduce spending and balance the budget. That would be the most effective shot-in-the-arm to restore the health of our sick economy.

President Roosevelt tried in vain to spend our country rich. He poured billions of borrowed dollars into various activities to restore properity but it wasn't until we got into the war that our unemployment problem was solved. Roosevelt spent us poor, and we should not have more of that kind of medicine which the political quacks are now prescribing.

The future of our nation would be much brighter if President Kennedy would follow the advice of Democrats of the Senator Harry Byrd type. Senator Byrd said recently:

> "This nation has been on a deficit-financing basis for 25 of the past 31 years—
> "We are told that the fiscal situation will be all right if we balance the Federal budget over a cycle of years, and that this will be taken care of automatically if the Federal Government will only spend enough to raise the gross national product high enough to produce the necessary revenue.
> "This is evil fiction. It never has worked. It is not working now—It will not work in the future, and it is dangerous to rely on it.
> "A prudent Government would balance its budget by stopping nonessential expenditure. This is not being done. The hard fact is that continuing deficits ultimately end in bankruptcy.
> "When a nation goes bankrupt, its assets are not taken over and sold to satisfy its debts. Its money becomes worthless; its economy disintegrates; its form of government falls and changes—"

President Roosevelt inherited a government that was solvent and he came close to making it insolvent. President Kennedy inherited a government that was in grave danger financially. We cannot afford more of the nonsense that already threatens us with a worthless dollar. It is high time that we start thinking straight.

A Good Idea

It now appears that this year our corner of the state is going to do more than its proportionate share of reducing crop acreage. Obviously we are not going to contribute to expanding surpluses.

Our curtailed production is not going to be voluntary. Nature is enforcing the more rigid regulations on production rather than the Department of Agriculture.

All of which prompts Senator Donald Sinclair of Stephen to suggest that our enforced acreage curtailment of this year be offset by increased acreage allotments next year. He argues that inasmuch as we will be contributing more than our share to acreage reduction this year, we should be permitted to increase our acreage proportionately next year.

We think the canny Scot from Marshall county has a good idea. That might provide a partial solution to the problem. Most of the adverse effects of this year's crop failures will not be felt until next winter. That will be the time for us to determine our relief needs. Possibly our needs may be provided for in part by next year's increased acreage allotments given to farmers who this year have not been able to take advantage of the allotments they were entitled to.

Interesting Opinions

"If you are walking over a chasm on a narrow plank, you are much more likely to fall if you feel fear than if you do not. And the same thing applies to the conduct of life. The fearless man will likely pass through many difficult situations in which the timid man will come to grief."

THE ANDERSEN LETTER

from

Gov. Elmer L. Andersen

Jobs and Income

Employment is at an all time high in Minnesota! In May it was 981,900 and should go over a million before the summer is over.

Since January, 1961, when I became Governor, employment has increased 12.4 per cent as compared with a national average of only 3.7 per cent. There are now 161,800 more people working than 18 months ago.

Earnings are also increasing at a more rapid rate than the national average.

One fact that I mentioned many times in 1960 was that Minnesota has outstanding natural resources in soil, water, forest area, minerals and tourist attractions. We also have far above average people in education, training and productivity. Yet our per capita income was less than the national average. This I was determined to correct.

Now we are improving. We are gaining on the national average. I will not be satisfied until the per capita income of our people is above the national average. I believe we can accomplish this in 1963 or surely by 1964.

In the last year and a half a great deal of progress has been made in creating the attitudes and providing the conditions that encourage business growth.

There's a better spirit — a new pride in Minnesota — more boosting of our state and its assets — more promotion of our people and products. I'm working at this all the time, and so are a lot of other people.

The weak spot in our state's economy is still in northeastern Minnesota. Even here employment is up and some progress has been made but the big job remains to be done — get more taconite plants.

I'm positive the taconite amendment would be a major factor in revitalizing the mining industry — and restoring the jobs and payrolls so sorely needed. I can't see what there is to lose by trying it. I think it is outrageous that a few politicians keep the people from having a chance to vote on it.

Maybe it will take another election to convince some of them that the great majority favor the taconite amendment and are sick and tired of the obstructionists who oppose it and offer nothing in its place.

Minnesota can have the greatest economic growth in its history right now if we but work hard and insist on sound policies.

NW Hospital Has Loss of $1,586 Last Year

Reduced Rates Given As Reason at Annual Meeting Mon. Night

Northwest Hospital in Thief River Falls showed a net loss of $1,586 on 1962 gross revenue totaling $733,519, it was reported at the annual meeting of members of the Northwestern Hospital association held Monday evening in the hospital cafeteria. James Winjum Sr., president of the board of directors, presided at the meeting. The 1962 fiscal year ended on April 30 of this year.

Total income of $733,519 during the past year compared with $742,106 in revenue in the previous year while respective expense totals were $735,105 in 1962 and $680,069 in 1961. Reductions in rates in numerous departments resulted in the decreased revenue although admissions increased from 3,215 in 1961 to 3,250 in 1962 and adult total patient days in the same period increased from 22,467 to 23,638. Average daily census was 64.8 in 1962 as compared with 61.5 in 1961. Average daily income per patient day was down from $31.40 to $29.49 while expense was up from $28.64 to $29.55.

In a comparison of the 1962 report with the previous year's figures, it is noted that increases in salaries, fees and payroll taxes comprised most of the jump in total expense during the past year. This division of the report indicated an increase from $401,517 in 1961 to $468,221 in 1962. Addition of highly qualified personnel to the hospital staff during the past year is the major reason for the increase.

Rates Reduced

Experiments were tried in the rate structure of a number of departments in order to operate the facility as near as possible to a break-even proposition. Reduced rates from a set daily fee of $20 per day in the rehabilitation department to nearly half of that figure resulted in a loss of about $17,000 in that department, according to Norman Peterson, hospital administrator. Additional cuts in rates directed by the board also resulted in a drop in total revenue during the past year.

Other expense items listed in the report for the past year include dietary, food and supplies, $50,804; fuel and utilities, $29,686; repair and maintenance, $2,444; depreciation, $40,087; nursing education, $1,209; drugs, medicine and medical supplies, $49,580; other supplies and expense, $56,510; and provision for care of indigent patients, $36,531.

Increased Capital

Total current working capital and plant fund capital of the local institution is $1,336,229 with working capital totaling $104,715 and plant capital totaling $1,231,514. This represents an increase of about $17,000 in the net plant capital and decrease of about $7,000 in the net working capital. Buildings and equipment are valued at $1,298,330 less $239,984 for accumulated depreciation.

During the course of the year the hospital noted 89 deaths, 655 operations performed, 36,735 laboratory examinations, 10,371 x-ray films taken, 527 blood donors drawn, 133,675 meals and lunches served and 316,408 pounds of linen processed.

A printed report of the financial condition of the organization was given and included reports by the president, the administrator, the SPLASHING happily in the Tindolph Park swimming pool provided cool entertainment for hundreds of youngsters during the current heat wave in Thief River Falls. Not the least used of the pool facilities was the slide which gave swimmers a refreshing breeze prior to a sudden dip into the river pool. During most of the afternoon when this photo was taken yesterday, youngsters were lined up on the ladder for a rapid succession of splashy pool entrances.

Crazy Days Plans Being Generated for July 27-28

Thief River Falls business fraternity is beginning to generate steam for the annual Crazy Days promotion which will be unveiled to the public on Friday and Saturday, July 27 and 28. Clifford Bjorkman is promotion chairman for the retail trade committee of the local Chamber of Commerce with Phil Hess and Gene Gaer as committee members.

Several new ideas will take form for this year's Crazy Days but announcement of these will take place at a later date, Bjorkman said. Continuance of the sidewalk sale, the bargain bonanza which lends a festival-carnival atmosphere to the event, has been assured. The committee chairman urges all merchants who have not already begun their planning to begin preparation of advertising and sale material immediately.

Prizes will again be offered by the retail trade committee to the three employees who are wearers of the best costumes during the days. A parade of costumed people is being planned for 9 a. m. on Friday, July 27.

One new innovation which has been announced for this year is the blocking off of at least two blocks of the downtown business area to permit operators of outside business places to display their goods in the downtown area and take advantage of the large crowds expected. These displays will be placed in the center of streets in the blocked off area.

Friends of Public Library to Stage July Flower Show

There will be a silver tea during the afternoon with Mrs. L. B. Hartz as chairman.

Flower growers of the area are urged to mark the date on the calendar and to enter in as many categories as they wish.

Ralph A. Luhman, committee chairman, told of plans for the publication of a mimeographed Lions club bulletin, and requested the cooperation of all members.

Gordon Relerson, club president, announced the cancellation of next Wednesday's meeting, which falls on the Fourth of July. Newly elected club officers will be installed July 11.

C of C Approves Sponsorship of Job Climate Meet

Approval of the sponsorship of a "Job Climate Conference" in Thief River Falls was given by the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting held Tuesday evening. Tentative date of October 4 was set for the conference which would be held for all interested individuals in the northwestern Minnesota area.

Discussion was held on the conference which would be one of two in northern Minnesota on successive days. It would be designed to provide information and opportunity for exchange of ideas in regard to stimulating job interest in the state and preventing the annual flow of young people from Minnesota into other states.

Possibility of a general membership meeting in July was mentioned in connection with an agri-business day which is again being planned this year. Approval was also given to having a Chamber of Commerce booth at the Pennington county fair and sponsoring a float in the IWVA parade which will be held the same weekend as the annual Jaycees Aquacade.

Progress reports were given on the industrial survey which is nearing completion and the county fair membership sale which is now in progress. Membership was reviewed and satisfactory progress noted and Operation Airlift was also noted to have a favorable bank balance.

Warden Gives Game Laws at Rotary Monday

Carl Sundstrom Tells Members of Pertinent Fishing Regulations

Carl Sundstrom, state game warden stationed in Thief River Falls, reviewed the duties of his office and answered questions in regard to state game and fish laws at the noon meeting of the Thief River Falls Rotary club on Monday.

He called attention to the fact that Minnesota law permits persons fishing on Minnesota-Canada boundary waters such as Lake of the Woods to take an aggregate of 14 walleyes and saugers per person of which not more than six fish may be walleyes. The limit of 14 in aggregate may be all saugers or any part saugers as long as not more than six walleyes are included.

Walleyes may be filleted for transportation but saugers must be left "in the round" or will be counted as walleyes if filleted. Residents of the state can fillet their own fish for transportation but non-residents must have fish packaged by one of several licensed packers in the state.

Residents of Minnesota under 16 years of age can take a limit of fish without a license with the rule of thumb being that the youngster must be old enough to catch his own fish, Sundstrom said. "Putting a four-month-old baby in the boat so you can catch more fish is definitely against the law," he said. Non-residents under 16 years of age can fish without a license but their fish count against the limit of the parent or guardian.

Asked if a fisherman can take both Canadian and Minnesota limits of fish, Sundstrom stated, "Yes, you certainly can. The only stipulation is that the two catches of fish may not be comingled. Fisherman who have fished both sides of the border must be able to show investigating wardens which parcel of fish was taken in Canadian water and which in Minnesota."

Sundstrom noted that the Youth Firearms Safety Training program had recently certified its 100,000th graduate in a boy from Brooks. He added that the acquiring of public access to lakes has been turned over to the warden service and is meeting with good success. Negotiations for public access at Lake Sarah are currently being made, he said. Legislation enacted several years ago provides that there will be no fish stocking or management by the department of conservation in lakes which do not provide public access.

Preliminary steps are being taken to establish the "Conservation Volunteers", the warden said, in an attempt to provide a youth conservation education program. Goals of the program would be to reach youth with information on water, soil, ground cover, forestry and animal life, provide teaching aids and a sense of direction, and encourage establishment of permanent youth clubs and furnish them with practical projects.

Volunteer instructors in the program will receive training at

JUST AS SURE as summer was sure to come there was sure to be action at the Tindolph Park swimming pool. And just as sure as the water is an attraction to youngsters of all ages, the swimmers are an attraction to spectators. When the attraction is as attractive as the group outlined by the arm of Gary Kelly, watchful guard assistant at the pool, who can blame a poor shutter-snapper from taking advantage of the situation and recording the view for posterity.

Come One and All . . .

Oral Polio Clinic Set on Saturday

IT'S EASY to receive the Sabin polio vaccine which will be offered at the oral polio clinic to be held Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Thief River Falls city auditorium. Required dosage of the vaccine will be placed on a cube of sugar for children and adults and may be merely swallowed to provide full protection. No need to fear the needle—none will be used. To find out who the model for the above photo is, readers of the accompanying story may check the continuation for the information.

Persons who have a natural distaste for "shots" need not worry about the polio clinic which will be held Saturday from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. at the Thief River Falls city auditorium, according to Dr. H. Paul Wendt, city health officer. Sabin oral polio vaccine will be used, permitting those who receive it to merely swallow the vaccine and still receive thorough protection.

Advance registration has been conducted in order to determine what amount of vaccine should be ordered for the all-day clinic. Medical authorities express the wish that all county residents over six weeks of age would receive the vaccine as an aid in completely stamping out polio in the nation. Cost of the vaccine will be 30 cents per person.

A dose of the vaccine can be mixed with distilled water and taken by cup or spoon; it can be given to infants by dropper or put on a sugar cube for older children and adults. If shots of the Salk vaccine have already been received, the oral Sabin vaccine may still be taken to increase protection and help protect other persons in the community. Sugar cubes will be used in the local clinic.

The oral vaccine acts to produce an intestinal barrier against poliovirus as well as antibodies in the bloodstream and it is thus expected that the vaccine will help prevent vaccinated persons from carrying the disease as well as help protect them against poliovirus.

Three Polio Types

There are three different known types of polio virus which cause poliomyelitis. In order to be protected against polio, an individual must be protected against all three types. There are separate oral vaccines against all three types of poliovirus. Sabin oral vaccine is a live virus vaccine which helps the body develop immunity and, unlike many other baccines, it can be taken by mouth. This will be done at Saturday's clinic.

Salk vaccine is a killed virus vaccine. Although three types are combined into one vaccine, four shots are given over a period of nine to 15 months. With the Sabin oral vaccine, each type is given separately by mouth, four to eight weeks apart. The vaccine works fast, usually within a week. Sabin vaccine has been given to more than 100 million people throughout the world with satisfactory results reported. Millions of doses have been given in the United States.

First Dosage Saturday

Since it is not recommended to give polio vaccine during the summer months, only the first dosage will be provided at Saturday's clinic. This Type I vaccine will provide immunity to up to 85 per cent of paralytic polio. Types II and III will be offered this fall, with all three types to be of the oral variety.

A member of the medical staff of Northwestern Hospital will be in attendance throughout the day with assistance being provided by the Mrs. Jaycees, hospital auxiliary and BPO Does. Persons may receive the vaccine although they have not registered in advance since the advance registration was designated to provide authorities with an idea as to the quantity of vaccine which should be ordered. Registration will be continued

Circus To Appear at Fair July 19-22

Youngsters from one to 101 will find something to enjoy in the grandstand program to be provided at the Pennington County Fair this year, according to Kenneth Onken, secretary. Fair dates are July 19, 20, 21 and 22 with the Marlo Bros. three-ring circus to be presented before the grandstand on Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon and evening. The World of Tomorrow Shows will be on the midway.

Again this year there will be a free outside gate with any and all persons admitted to the grounds free of charge. The free-gate was initiated last year as an attendance booster and resulted in larger total attendance at the annual exposition. Grandstand prices will be one dollar for adults and 50 cents for children under 12.

With more 4-H club members in the county this year, an increased number of 4-H club exhibits is expected although fewer entries are anticipated in the crops and garden divisions due to last year's drought and the wet spring this year. It is also expected that about 75 demonstrations will be given by county 4-H club members.

The Marlo Bros. Circus carries a full array of acrobat and animal acts. Sure to make a hit with the youngsters will be Woodcock's Performing Elephants, an act classed as one of the finest elephant acts in the northern hemisphere, and Nicolini's Chimps, direct from Madrid, Spain, an amazing and amusing display by trained chimpanzees. Also included will be an array of ponies and performing dogs.

There will be an aerial ballet with beautiful girls on the swing- [illegible] ladders and flying trapeze and [illegible] famous circus troupes as the Incomparable Dukes, internationally known juggling troupe; the Four Astleys, Risley performers; the Bounding Meldons, trampoline act; the Flying Mores, trapeze act; performing clowns, high wire, equilibrist and other acts designed to thrill and entertain the audience.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ward of Winnipeg, Manitoba, visited Sunday with Mrs. Stephen Praska and girls, and with Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Jensen.

May Not Be Too Late to Seed Some Grains, County Agent States

Many farmers are asking whether it's too late to seed grains. In terms of growing days the answer is no. But so much depends on the weather that no one really knows the answer says County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk.

Killing frosts normally hit the area about September 20. This leaves about 90 days of growing days if the temperatures are moderate farmers could produce a good crop if rainfall is adequate from now on

To reduce risks farmers would do well to go heavily into oat production at this time for three reasons. Oats is deeper rooted and can stand more abuse in weather variations than barley. Secondly, it is much more resistent to diseases than barley. Thirdly, with all the rains to date the lime in the soil has moved up with evaporating water and oats can take high pH conditions much better than flax or barley.

Farmers should use early oats like Andrew of Minhafer. If they can't buy these varieties now they should use mid early varieties like Clintland 60, Portage, Ajax, Minton, Goodfield, Burnett or many other good varieties. Seeding at heavier rates crowds the crop into earlier heading and maturity. Phosphate fertilizers also speed up maturity. Nitrogen fertilizer builds leaf and delays maturity if applied at heavy rates so farmers still seeding should keep these factors in mind. The above practices hold true for all crops. Early oats can mature in about 75 days so there is time to put this crop in if conditions from now on are average. Farmers also remember last year, 1961, where the first growth was very ragged because of poor germination and some waited for, and harvested their second crop and got a fairly good yield.

Because farmers have committed themselves on certain costs a half a crop would be better than no crop. Machinery depreciation costs, building costs, land taxes, are costs which are about the same whether a farmer puts in a crop or not.

Some other crops which should be considered by farmers at this late seeding date are:

Flax: has been planted as late as July 1 and still made a crop. Again, high temperatures during boll and seed formation is critical. Research at the University has shown that maximum yields are obtained at 3 weeks after full bloom. It would be wise to swath at this time rather than waiting until the seed is dead ripe. Harvesting 3 weeks after full bloom should help avoid frost and bad fall weather.

If seed is available, farmers should be encouraged to plant the variety Marine.

Corn: In your area corn planted now will probably not porduce high quality grain. Early hybrids should still produce silage.

Millet: There are several kinds of millet but Proso is the only one used for grain production in this area. Foxtail millet and barnyard or Japanese millet are used mostly as forages.

Buckwheat: Can be planted until July 10. Variety designations in this crop have no meaning. Yields at Rosemount have been about 650-750 pounds per acre. It should be sown with a grain drill at 40-50 pounds per acre. This crop is indeterminate in growth habit and may, therefore, be rather difficult to havest and some seed may shatter. Volunteer buckwheat plants will probably appear in the field for several years after growing the crop.

Buckwheat should not be sprayed with 2,4-D. Feeding value of buckwheat averages about 5-10 per cent less than oats according to Morrison.

chief of the medical staff and the president of the hospital auxiliary.

Peterson discussed various phases of the year's operation and explained the expansion program now in the making that will provide 36 additional rooms with special facilities for rehabilitation and chronic and convalescent care. This unit has been approved by the state department of health and will be qualified for a Hill-Burton federal grant. Construction must be started by May 1, 1963. Peterson called attention to the progress that has been made in the rehabilitation department during the experimental stage and expressed confidence in its continued growth.

Dr. G. B. Martin, chief of the medical staff, supplemented his printed report by brief remarks, stressing particularly the progress that has been made in the rehabilitation service during the period in which the services of Dr. Miland E. Knapp, professor in the department of physical medicine at the University of Minnesota, has been available. Dr. Knapp has spent one day a month here working with medical and hospital staff members and assisting in the diagnosis and prescription for patients.

The services of Dr. Knapp have been made possible by a $1,000 grant by the Thief River Falls Foundation from the bequest of the late Frank A. Rinkel, former president of the hospital association, with matching funds by the hospital. Dr. Martin stated that arrangements have been made for a continuation of Dr. Knapp's services indefinitely.

Mrs. J. J. Womack, president of the hospital auxiliary, was not present but a vote of appreciation for the valuable assistance by the auxiliary in its various services was adopted.

Reelected to the board of trustees were Gene Belto and W. E. Dahlquist. Clyde Christensen was elected to replace Howard Hoel who declined to be a candidate for reelection. All were for three-year terms.

Art Moe to Circulate Petition Asking Repair On Ditch in Flood Area

Circulation of a petition requesting repair and cleaning of State Ditch 83, part of the Thief river in Marshall county, will be undertaken in the near future by Art Moe of rural Thief River Falls. Moe volunteered to circulate the petition at a meeting held with the Marshall county commissioners recently in regard to flooding of farmland in the ditch area northeast of Thief River Falls.

The petition calls for the county board "to take such action as may be advisable and necessary" for ditch repair and "to clean out all of the debris, dead falls, trees, slides and do each and everything necessary to put said State Ditch No. 83 back into good and functioning order".

It further requests that the board "secure such aid and assistance in repairing said ditch as may be required from the United States Government, Department of Interior, Soil Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture, State of Minnesota Conservation Department or any other agency that may be willing to give such assistance, financial or otherwise".

Authorization is given by petition signers to grant permission and an easement to any of the lands adjoining or bordering on the ditch for a distance of 100 feet on either side of the center of the channel for effecting such repair and cleaning "and to pile such debris, refuse and surplus soil taken from said Ditch No 83 on our said lands as may be necessary" The petition was prepared by Warren A. May Shows Slight Traffic Increase over 1961 Figure

The average daily traffic count for May, as computed by the 31 automatic traffic recorders stationed at strategic points on rural trunk highways by the Minnesota Highway department, showed a .5 per cent increase over the same month a year ago.

This was the second successive month this year when the traffic showed an increase. January, February, March and part of April were all far below last year's averages because of the unseasonal cold and snow.

Notable points of increase during May were found at Station 157 on U. S. 169, northeast of Chaska, due to the opening of Interstate 494; Station 209 on U. S. 75, south of Warren, and Station 212 on U. S. 14, west of Rochester.

Caterpillars Now Feeding on Trees in Parts of State

Some shade and fruit trees are in for trouble again, according to an extension entomologist at the University of Minnesota. John Lofgren says that white marked tussock moth caterpillars, pesky leaf chewing insects, are now feeding on apple, elm, maple, poplar and other trees.

They're yellowish in color with four white tufts of hair down the back; two long tufts of black hair at the head end and one at the tail. Lofgren says the caterpillars probably won't cause much damage to older trees but may defoliate and severly injure smaller fruit and shade trees.

Recommended method of control is to spray trees thoroughly with a DDT mix; use 2 tablespoons of 50 per cent wettable powder per gallon of water.

Put up Hay Crop Silage to Beat the Weather

Farmers having trouble getting high quality hay by field curing can beat the wet weather by putting up hay crop silage.

In general, there are two ways of handling the hay crop as silage. One is by making conventional or high moisture silage. The other is low-moisture silage or "haylage".

With conventional silage, the material is ensiled at 65-70 per cent moisture. With haylage, the moisture content ranges from 45 to 50 per cent.

The high moisture silage is usually made in stave silos or trench or bunker silos. Haylage can be stored in stave silos or airtight structures.

Special precautions must be used in preserving haylage in stave silos. Moisture content must be accurately determined—and should be at least 45 per cent. The silo must be as nearly airtight as possible. A plastic sheet over the inside of the doors and a plastic cap over the top will help exclude air.

Chop the material as short as possible. The best size of cut is one-fourth to three-eights of an inch. The top two or three loads of material should be high in moisture to insure compaction and exclusion of air.

Fill the silo as rapidly as possible, and don't allow the haylage to remain on trucks or trailers overnight before ensiling.

In airtight structures, considerably drier material can be preserved.

Moisture content of early-cut forage may be considerably higher than the optimum moisture content for high quality preservation of the conventional hay silage. Alfalfa cut at the bud to early bloom stage will contain about 85 per cent moisture; half-bloom stage, 80 per cent; three-quarters bloom stage to early seed stage, 75 per cent. At these higher moisture contents, material should be wilted to 65-70 per cent moisture or should have ground grain, molasses or other preservatives added to help in the fermentation process.

The amount of grain to include is 150-200 pounds per ton of green material. If you use molasses, the amount is 80-100 pounds per ton, and with sodium metabisulfite it's 8-10 pounds per ton.

Later cut material will be easier to preserve, but will be lower in feed value.

The most accurate method of determining moisture content of hay cut for silage is by oven drying. Take a 10-pound representative sample of the chopped material, spread it out in the oven of the kitchen range, and dry it overnight at 200 degrees F. Comparing the weights before and after drying will give you the percentage of moisture in the original material.

The so-called "grab test" is less accurate. In using this test, compress a sample of the chopped material in a ball in the hand for 20-30 seconds. The release the ball suddenly. If the ball falls apart slowly, and there is no free juice, the approximate moisture content is 60-70 per cent. If the ball falls apart rapidly, the moisture content is below 60 per cent. And if there is free juice, the moisture content is above 70 per cent.

Another method of estimating moisture content is based on the stage of growth as described above.

New Chemicals for Fly Control

For the first time since Pyrethrum was introduced, a new chemical has been approved for fly control on milk cows.

DDVP may be used on dairy or beef animals for the control of face flies, stable flies, horn flies, houseflies and mosquitos.

DDVP must be applied carefully, accurately and precisely. A 1 per cent solution in oil base is generally available; this should be applied as a mist spray at no more than two ounces per head per day. Use a calibrated sprayer to be certain of the application rate.

For face flies the spray should be directed around the head and neck. For horn flies give animals' shoulders and backs the most attention. And for stable flies, spray mainly on the legs and sides.

The two-ounce application rate may be split, with a one-ounce application both morning and night

On per cent DDVP solution may be applied by means of a barn fogger in barns — including dairy barns — at a rate of 1 pint per 8,000 cubic feet. This may be applied with animals in the barn, provided they have not been sprayed directly with DDVP within 8 hours. DDVP fog will give a quick kill of flies in the barn but little or no residual action.

Ciodrin (pronounced "sig' -o -drin"), another chemical recently approved for use on milk cows, may be applied to cattle or horses as a 0.3 per cent water base spray. It has a residual effect and should be applied no more than once a week.

Ciodrin may not yet be commercially available in all areas.

In some pastures, a cow would have to be equipped with roller skates and travel 40 miles an hour all day to pick up 150 pounds of green forage. Don't let this happen to your cows.

Ever look back and notice a cloud of dust when you rake hay? A big part of it is shattered leaves. If you field-cure your hay without using a crusher or crimper, be sure to rake the hay while it's still tough.

Minnesota ranks first among the states in total dried milk output. Agricultural economists at the University of Minnesota say that the state produces about 25 per cent of the nation's dried milk supply.

Tonight at 7:05 p. m. there will be members of the medical staff conducting a discussion session in the fashion of an open forum over radio station KTRF. Following the discussion, telephoned questions concerning the vaccine and local clinic will be answered by the doctors on the panel.

Dr. Wendt noted that persons with diabetes may take the vaccine although it will be administered to children and adults on a cube of sugar. There will not be enough sugar used to make a material difference and its minor effect can be counteracted by additional use of insulin.

Sees Chance for Fair Beet Yields

Sugar Plant Chief Says 115,000 Acres Planted

"If good growing weather continues, we should have a fair sugar beet crop." This was the word Monday from Jack Tanner of East Grand Forks, district manager of American Crystal Sugar Co.

Although the planting is 3½ weeks behind schedule, Tanner says 115,000 acres are now planted in the Valley and the total through this week should be boosted to 124,000 acres.

Some of the early beets are "real good," according to Tanner, and thinning is now in full swing.

The beets are growing faster than usual, he said, because of the late planting and the warmer weather during this period.

The immediate area around East Grand Forks is relatively good for the sugar beet farmers, although there are a few wet spots east of Minto and East Grand Forks. The immediate Crookston area is quite wet, said Tanner, but the remainder of that area is good. South of Moorhead is the wettest region where the losses will be heaviest, he said.

Celebration on Trunk Highways Forbidden by Law

The commissioner of highways has sent his annual explanation of the state law regarding the blocking of trunk highways for local celebrations to all mayors and councils of Minnesota municipalities

The law reads that municipal officials have no authority to close off or detour traffic on state trunk routes for community celebrations, carnivals, festivals or similar public assemblies. In no case can the erection of stands, buildings, tents, concessions or other similar encroachments be permitted. These regulations have been established for the safety and protection of the public and to assure both personal and commercial traffic on Minnesota's trunk highway system of the uninterrupted traffic service to which they are entitled and will be strictly enforced.

The law, however, does not prohibit parades on streets which are trunk highways when use of the highway by motorists is restricted for only a relatively short period of time.

Flower Plantings On Traffic Island Damaged by Car

If candidates for the meanest person in the world are being accepted, one of the nominations should certainly go to the driver of a car which deliberately drove through the flower plantings placed by the Sow and Hoe Garden Club on the traffic island at the highway 59 approach on the east end of the city.

Police reported this morning that several tracks were made through the flowers last night, requiring some replanting to repair the damage. The sign which called attention to the fact that the local garden club had done the planting was also severely damaged.

Local authorities request anyone having information which could lead to the apprehension of the thoughtless driver to call the police department and provide them with such information.

Turkey Plant to Open Here; Expect 20% Fewer Birds

Last minute arrangement of machinery is now taking place at the Land O'Lakes turkey plant in Thief River Falls in anticipation of beginning the processing season early in July. About 20 per cent fewer birds are being raised in the area this year following the large production and low prices of 1961, according to John Lang, plant manager.

With the exception of the normal amount of turkeys held in storage for resale, Land O'Lakes has disposed of all birds accepted on a pool basis last year. Producers were generally satisfied that they received better prices for birds pooled than they would have obtained on a live sale, Lang said. Storage of turkeys in the nation is above the five-year average.

Entry was also reported to have occurred Monday evening at the Phillips Auto Wrecking warehouse on North Main avenue but it has not been determined if anything was taken.

Thieves Trip Ada Club 7-6 in 10th

The senior baseball Thieves edged out the Ada Athletics, 7-6, in an extra-inning Norman-Polk league game played on the Ada diamond Monday night. The win boosted the locals' league record to four victories and two losses. On Sunday night, July 1st, the Thieves will meet the Halstad Red Sox at Halstad.

In the game-winning tenth inning, which found the Thieves scoring a pair of runs and the Ada club rallying for a single tally to pare the locals' winning margin, Harlie Drees led off with a walk. Sammy Samuelson, who had replaced Orry Holland on the mound for Ada in the ninth inning, uncorked a wild pitch, moving Drees to second. Marv Lundin lofted a pop fly to third baseman Jerry Johnson. Dennis Bakke lined a double into left field, scoring Drees. Jack Junker, making his first appearance in the Thieves' lineup, singled to center field, scoring Bakke and giving the Thieves a 7-5 lead. Dick Williams singled, with Junker stopping at second. Fred Jensen gounded out, third to first, and Jack Hoppe lined out to pitcher Samuelson.

In the Ada half of the tenth, the Athletics threatened to again tie the game, scoring a run and having the typing and winning runs on the bases when the game-ending out was made. Steve Sitko tripled to right field to open the Ada tenth. Samuelson popped out to third baseman Ike Ellingson. Vilno was nicked by a pitched ball. Skalsky struck out, but Herb Hasz singled scoring Sitko. Jensen, racking up his tenth strikeout, whiffed Dean Bowyer to end the game.

The Thieves, scoring single runs in the third and fourth innings, held a 2-0 lead entering the last of the fifth when Ada, on singles by Skalsky, Hasz, Dean Bowyer, a walk, and a successful double steal, tallied two runs to knot the game.

Buzz Ward's single, a wild pitch, a walk, and an infield out added a run to the Thieves' total in the sixth, giving the locals' a 3-2 lead. In the Ada seventh, an error, a walk, singles by Don Bowyer and Jerry Johnson, plated three runs to give the home-standing Athletics' a 5-3 lead.

In the eighth, a walk to Ward, a double by Ellingson, and an outfield muff, gave the Thieves' a pair of runs, trying the game at 5-all, and setting the stage for the game-winning tenth frame.

Manager Rod Olstad's Crookston Pirates, manned by game-tested veterans, moved into first place in the Norman-Polk league standings by defeating the Halstad Red Sox, 10-4, in a game played at Crookston. Meanwhile the Fertile Independents, who had been sharing the league lead with the Pirates, dropped two of the three games they played the past week, losing to Fosston and Twin Valley and scoring a win over Ada.

The Thief River Falls Thieves remained in contention for the league title by edging out Ada, 7-6, in a ten-inning game played at Ada on Monday night.

The feature game of this week's league schedule is the Fosston vs. Crookston game slated for Crookston's Highland Park diamond at 6:00 P.M. on Sunday. This game was originally billed for the Fosston diamond, but the May 27 game, which was to have been played at Crookston, was transferred to the Fosston diamond because of the unplayable condition of the Crookston field. Sunday's game is the result of this switch in the playing dates.

The Thief River Falls Thieves will travel to Halstad for a game against manager Erv Warner's youthful Halstad Red Sox.

The Sauger Limit

Cliff Overum, chairman of the Vets' sauger and sunfish committee, and with directors Harlan Huseth and Am Wysoski agreeing, has given an interpretation on the number of saugers that may be taken by a fisherman in Lake of the Woods. The daily and possession limit, that is.

The Minnesota-Canada fishing rules provide that the walleyed pike and sauger (sand pike) season is open from May 12 to April 14, and the daily and possession limits are as follows: "14, in aggregate, of which not more than 6, in aggregate, may be walleyed pike and dressed (filleted) saugers."

According to Cliff, and game warden Carl Sundstrom has verified the interpretation, an angler may have fourteen saugers in his possession, but he may not have a walleyed pike in his possession in this instance. For example, an angler may catch three walleyes, then he is entitled to catch eleven saugers. Or if he has six walleyes, which is the daily and possession limit, then he may have eight saugers.

And for the information of Lauel (Bud) Schuster, the daily and possession limit of sunfish and bluegills is thirty a day and thirty in possession. And it would perhaps be of interest to Cotton Langevin to know that there is no limit to the number of carp, dogfish, redhorse, sheepshead, and eelpout that may be taken. Eelpout, now there is a game fish!

A Puzzler

The Minnesota Twins fans, and they are large numbers in this area, are puzzled by the trade of pitcher Don Lee to the Los Angeles Angels in exchange for pitcher Jim Donohue. And especially puzzling is the later aspect of the deal which found Donohue being shipped to the Vancouver club of the Pacific Coast league and the recall to the Twins of lefty Bill Piels.

Lee, who is a son of Thornton Lee, a star southpaw pitcher with the Chicago White Sox a generation ago, has been impressive in his recent outings with the Angels. He appeared to have a potential as a major leaguer.

Perhaps there was a clash of personalities somewhere along the line.

Would Be an Attraction

The Red Lake band of the Chippewa tribe will be holding a gala celebration at Red Lake on July 1-2-3-4-5-6, with all the attractions that accompany an Indian powwow. There will be ceremonial dances and other traditional Indian rites. The celebration will undoubtedly attract a large number of visitors.

The best route for local residents to take to get there is to follow the "black top", and go to Goodridge, thence north to the junction of highway 89 and go to Grygla and along the south shore of Red lake to the Agency.

It is rumored that a committee from the pow-wow were in town the other day trying attempting to sign the golfing quartet of Jack Edmiston, Don Olson, Russ Embury, and L. L. Tygeson for a performance. Jack and Don and Russ and Tyge were to wear their Bermuda shorts, carry their golf clubs, and put on a white man's war dance—the kind they do every Wednesday afternoon during city golf league competition.

Gloomy Outlook for Ducks Next Fall Seen

The interior department said Monday in Washington the outlook is still precarious for wild duck production this year.

This bad news for hunters was based on reports that the duck breeding population in the nesting grounds in the northern United States and Canada is smaller than in any year since the summer waterfowl surveys began in 1951.

Waterfowl survey teams of the Fish and Wildlife service have been covering the breeding grounds to determine production prospects

With aerial survey flights completed in the important seven portions of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, the data indicate a 37 per cent decrease in the breeding population in those areas when compared with last year. Mallard ducks are about 12 per cent in number below the 1961 count and the number of pintails was down 28 per cent.

One bright spot is the improvement of water and hibitat in the Dakotas and Minnesota. However, increased production from this U. S. area is not expected by the service to compensate for the lack of production indicated in the southern portions of the Canadian prairie provinces.

"In years of sufficient rainfall, the southern portions of the prairie provinces have been responsible for from 50 to 80 per cent of the total continental duck production," the service said.

"The significance of this region becomes even more evident when only those ducks important in the harvest are considered.

"In 1956, from 75 to 95 per cent of the mallards, pintails, bluewinked teal, canvasback, and redheads were produced in this area. These species collectively make up thwo-thirds of the total duck kill in an average year."

Two Uncommon Charges Noted in Municipal Court

Illegal License Use and Indecent Language Use Cases Produce Fines

Two relatively uncommon charges, illegal use of license plates and use of indecent language to an officer, were among the cases tried in Thief River Falls municipal court before Judge Stanley N. Mortenson this week.

In a case brought by the state highway patrol, Duane Jesperson, rt. 1, Plummer, forfeited bond of $17.50 on a speeding charge.

In police department cases, Mrs. Lois Thompson, St. Hilaire, forfeited $30 bond on a charge of having no driver's license; Howard Brandt, rt. 1, city, drive through a red light, $15 bond forfeited; Harold Hilde, rt. 1, Kennedy, drive through a flashing red light, $15 bond forfeited; Larry Kruse, St. Hilaire, fined $15 for illegal use of license plates and $15 for having no 1962 registration.

In a case tried Tuesday, Ronald Hamm, Warba, was fined $100 or sentenced to 30 days in jail and had his driver's license revoked on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. He was also given a $25 fine or 10 days in jail on a charge of use of indecent language to an officer and is in custody.

Legion Juniors Split Two Games Past Week

Coach Ralph Skay's local American Legion junior baseball squad had their schedule shortened this week when a pair of their games were cancelled. Last Friday night the Fertile juniors were to have played here, but the game was called off when Fertile informed the locals that they could not field a team; and Wednesday evening's game, to have been played here against Twin Valley, was also a last-minute cancellation, with Twin Valley being unable to have all of their players available for the game.

This evening, Thursday, the Roseau juniors, who scored an 11-7 win over the locals at Roseau on Tuesday evening, will meet coach Skay's club on the Fair Grounds diamond at 6:30 p. m. Fosston had been slated to play here on Friday evening, but that game too, has been cancelled. An effort is being made to schedule a game with the Middle River juniors for the Friday evening date. On Monday, July 2, Mike Hajostek will bring his Red Lake Falls juniors here for a return game against the local juniors. And on Tuesday, July 3, the local squad will travel to Lake Bronson for a district conference game.

In the two games played this past week, the local club marked up a win and a loss. On Monday evening, on the Fair Grounds diamond, the locals, behind the four-hit pitching of righthander Jack Leedahl, shut out the Warren juniors, 12-0. Leedahl gave up three hits in the first inning, but a double play erased the Warren threat at scoring. From then on the local righthander limited the visitors to but one hit, a fourth inning infield single by Mike Thibodo.

Leedahl whiffed eleven batsmen, and gave up but two walks. The locals did not get very many base hits off the offerings of Jerry Cook and Thibodo, nudging out but seven safeties. But the lack of control by the visiting pitchers, Cook gave up nine walks, and Thibodo issued five bases on balls, proved to be to the advantage of the local batsmen. John Aune poled out two hits in four trips, getting a two-run double in the fifth inning.

Playing at Roseau on Tuesday evening, the locals turned in a lack-lustre exhibition, committing seven miscues, as the Roseau juniors scored an 11-7 win

The line scores:

State Wetlands Program Nearly Halfway to Goal

Purchase and option of 1,166 acres in 17 tracts of Minnesota wetlands during the month of May increased the total acreage in the program to 107,577.

The conservation department's game and fish division announced that purchases to date total 94,582 acres and options to 12,991 acres. Cost to date has been $3,126,130.

Funds are raised through a one dollar surcharge on small game hunting licenses and supplemented with federal aid Pittman-Robertson funds and from regular license fees.

Primary goal of the "Save the Wetlands" program is 250,000 acres. It is designed to conserve surface waters, save wildlife habitat and to provide public hunting grounds.

April Traffic Record Shows Need for Care

Minnesota motorists just barely attained a passing grade when their driving abilities were put to a test in "Spring exams" during April of this year, according to a report released today by the Minnesota highway department.

The death rate, and fatal accident rate, were deceptive as each showed a drop of 20 per cent during the first four months, almost obscuring the fact that the accident rate had jumped a startling 31 per cent.

In April alone, there were 46 traffic deaths compared with 42 deaths recorded in the same month of last year. More than 2,600 persons were injured compared with the 2,500 hurt in mishaps during April, 1961. The overall traffic picture showed that there were 1,500 more mishaps in April, 1962 than in the same month last year, and that the four-month total of accidents was 8,000 over the total of the same period for the previous year.

The major share of the blame for this poor showing can be shouldered by the "average" driver who apparently thinks he is a better driver than he is. The "drunk" and the "speeder" cannot be blamed for all of the mishaps.

During April the drinking driver was involved in 700 accidents, including 15 fatal accidents and 298 personal injury mishaps, and the speeder was a factor in 682 accidents, including 17 fatal mishaps and 288 personal injury accidents.

However, the remaining 6,200 accidents that occurred in the month were caused by "average" drivers making "average" mistakes such as failing to obey traffic controls, failing to signal, making improper turns, following too closely, and failing to yield the right of way, as well as committin other thoughtless errors. They were the results of motorists forgetting the fact that driving during April was a full time job, requiring constant vigilance.

Of the total accidents reported during the first four months, 5,332 occurred in rural areas. They resulted in death to 94 persons and injury to 2,509 other persons.

Alumni Reunion at NW School Is Set For July 7

Alumni Association To Elect New Officers at Annual Business Meet

Annual summer alumni reunion at the Northwest School of Agriculture, Crookston, will be held on Saturday, July 7. This year's reunion is expected to bring back to the campus many of the graduates from the class of 1912 who are celebrating their 50th anniversary. Classes observing reunions this year will include all years ending in "2" and "7". The classes of 1912, 1922 and 1952 have made special plans for the reunion.

A "smorgasbord" supper will be served in the Northwest School dining hall at 6 p. m. for alumni, former students and faculty. Reservations for the supper meal should reach the Northwest School superintendent's office by July 2.

Alumni attending the reunion will have an opportunity to spend the afternoon in a social way on the Northwest School campus or attend some of the events of "Pioneer Days" which is being celebrated in the city of Crookston.

The Northwest School Alumni association will have its business meeting immediately following the "smorgasbord" supper. New officers will be elected and prizes will be awarded to alumni coming the greatest distance to attend the reunion, oldest alumnus or alumna present and most recently married alumni. Following the business meeting, there will be a social hour and coffee in the Aggie Inn where the "grads" can meet and reminisce.

Officers of the Northwest School Alumni association are: Glen Torkelson, Crookston, president; John Stromstad, Lockhart, vice president; and Larry Bergh, Hallock, treasurer. H. H. Lysaker and H W Soderburg of the Northwest School faculty will serve as cochairmen in assisting with preparations for the reunion.

Many Canadians Visit State Parks During Past Year

Figures released by U. W. Hella, director of the state parks division, show a new twist to the accepted idea of Minesota as a northern summer vacation land.

A total of 6,397, visitors from the Province of Manitoba alone were registered at state parks during the last fiscal year. Most popular spot was Lake Bemidji state park, which attracted 1,876 Manitoba visitors. Lake Bronson was another favored park with 978 from that province.

Ontario sent 3,914 statepark visitors and again Lake Bemidji drew the largest number of guests, 985.

The figures are for guests at state parks only and comprise just a fraction of Canadian visitors to state and national forests, privately owned resorts and other vacation spots.

"We in business are prone to criticize government, but in my view action by both in a co-operative spirit is the only feasible answer. Business cannot afford to think of those in government as Machiavellian overlords whose prime purpose in life is to push business around. I do not think this is the case, nor do I think we can let ourselves fall into the critical state of mind that that kind of thinking generates.

"On the other hand, it will do no good for anyone to think in terms of business as a pawn to be shunted hither and yon at executive or legislative whim. Business, after all, is nothing but millions and millions of people, organized in relatively small groups to achieve better production. And thinking of business in this way should remove much of the desire to do that kind of shunting.

—Roger M. Blough, chairman, United States Steel Corporation.

No Shelters

A recent poll of 402 small-town newspaper editors indicated overwhelming opposition to the administration's proposal for a $450 million appropriation for community fall-out shelters. The vote was 83 per cent in opposition to the proposal.

We seem to have recovered from the emotional breakdown that threatened us a year ago. In the hysteria that was generated by too much foolish talk by men in high places, we became the laughing stock of the rest of the world, which remained calm. We get the impression that more of our people are thinking straighter now than they were then.

At any rate Congress has turned thumbs-down on the proposed appropriation.

Freeman's Failure

The administration's farm bill which was defeated by the House last week, failed mainly because it would have given too much power to the Secretary of Agriculture. To administer that program Orville Freeman would have hired another army of workers, put on the payroll presumably as inspectors, supervisors and policemen.

Freeman has blasted the Republicans because of their solid opposition to the bill, but the Republicans are still a minority group. And just to keep the record straight, let's keep in mind that with the exception of one session, Congress has been controlled by the Democrats for many years, and the sorry mess that we now have as a farm program is due entirely to the unwillingness of the Democratic majorities to improve it.

Freeman is primarily a lawyer politician, and he has no background of training or experience to qualify him for the important office he now holds. It would not be in the best interests of agriculture to place it under the control of a political czar located in Washington.

Agriculture should be encouraged to organize in its own behalf, by segments, for production and marketing controls. Most farm products are now sold in a free market without government support prices and with a minimum of government regulation. Several groups have good records of successful self-management operations. Such self-regulation points the way to freedom, and only as we remain free will there be progress and development.

School Transportation

By a 4 to 2 decision the Wisconsin Supreme Court has ruled that a state law providing aid for transportation of children attending private or parochial schools is unconstitutional. The question was whether the transportation benefited the children or the schools.

The supreme courts of California, Kentucky and Maryland have upheld such laws. In Delaware, New York, Oklahoma, Washington, and now Wisconsin, the high courts have ruled the aid unconstitutional. However the United States Supreme Court has ruled that a New Jersey law to reimburse parents for the cost of transporting children to parochial schools did not violate the federal constitution but was a matter of the safety and health of the children.

Transporting children to and from school is not educating them, and considering the fact the parents who prefer a private or parochial school are also taxed to maintain the public transportation service, our refusal to permit their children to use the transportation system that they help to pay for cannot be justified.

Social Security

The government's social security program is one kitten that already has become a cat and is well on the way to becoming a tiger. President Roosevelt warned us about this danger when he proposed the program in 1935. The original plan called for a 1 per cent payroll deduction on employees and employers, based on the first $3,000 of wages. The contributions were to be increased to 1½ per cent in 1940 and then, by gradual stages to an ultimate rate of 3 per cent by 1949.

During the early years more money was collected than was needed to meet claims so Congress didn't increase the rate to 1½ per cent until 1950, ten years later than the plan called for. By then the program was in trouble. There were not sufficient reserves to meet claims so the payroll deductions increased in percentage and payroll base.

In a few years the total deductions paid by employees & employers will total 9 per cent of the first $4,800 of wages, and that will not be sufficient to pay the claims and build up reasonable reserves for the protection of the younger people who have many years of payroll deductions ahead of them.

Year after year, one profligate Congress after another, has yielded to the temptation of extending the benefits of social security without providing for the income that would be required to meet the expanded obligations.

In this campaign year politician Kennedy has made a dramatic appeal for medical care for the aged to be added to the burden of those who now are not paying enough to keep the program solvent. That may be good politics for the President but it isn't good management, and it carries with it the bad odor of dishonesty and misrepresentation.

By continued mismanagement this program threatens to become a national scandal, and there should be a thorough investigation of its operations before any additional obligations are assumed. As is pointed out by the Wall Street Journal:

"As time goes on, the people at work will take on more and more of the burden of paying growing benefits to people already retired. Is there no limit to the load America's active work force will accept?

"For the average American, even now, Social Security is a costly way of buying insurance. That's because a true insurance system operates with a reserve fund, a fund that generates interest income to carry much of the load. Americans, especially labor union leaders who negotiate pension fund agreements, are becoming increasingly familiar with this principle. Will there, at some point, be a public outcry against the high cost of Social Security?

"Entirely aside from all the social implications of expanding Social Security, the economic questions must be considered now. For the financial planning of most Americans centers on Social Security, and the system should not be lightly sacrificed for political gain.

"In these Democratic days in Washington, you'd think there would be someone willing to listen to Mr. Roosevelt's warning."

More Inflation

Reports from Washington indicate the liklihood of another across-the-board pay increase for federal employees. That is the usual thing in a campaign year.

Of course there is no justification for such a pay increase at this time, and in view of what President Kennedy has said about holding the line on prices, he should use his veto power if necessary to kill the measure. Our $8 billion deficit this year, with probably a larger one next year, would justify that position.

And another pay increase by the federal government will encourage state legislatures to take similar action which in turn will encourage wage and salary boosts at the local levels. Eventually we will all have more dollars that will buy less. More inflation seems to be inevitable.

Back to Education

(Chicago Sun-Times)

In a world in which there is increased emphasis on specialization in education and there is a proliferation of snap, hobby-like college courses, it is a pleasure to read about the MacMurray Plan.

MacMurray College at Jacksonville, Ill., is dropping about 200 courses, or 40 per cent of those it previously has carried. Discontinued will be home economics, journalism, shorthand and typing—and similar specialties.

The main purpose is to get back to education for its own sake—to turn out well-rounded individuals with a cultural basis that will serve as a foundation for specialization. Says President Gordon Michalson:

"One of the problems of modern times is that people cannot communicate with one another. Those trained in science cannot communicate with those trained in the humanities and vice versa. We are suffering from over specialization."

MacMurray would give each student a good grounding in the "essence of mankind's accumulated knowledge and culture over the ages." This will enable them to "live usefully and understandingly in a cosmopolitan world."

"By giving students a background in the best that has been thought and said in modern civilization," says Dr. Michalson, "we are giving them a basis for making the choices that are required of all humans—between good and evil, the beautiful and the ugly, truth and falsehood."

There are, of course, other colleges that traditionally bear down heavily on a basic liberal arts program. MacMurray is beginning a tradition, consciously and conscientiously. May its tribe increase.

Yet its price is right close to many models of the "low-priced" cars. So before you do any buying, come see how little extra it costs to get all the extra values included in LeSabre's surprisingly low price. Some examples...finned aluminum front brakes—safest made! A 401-cu. in. Wildcat V-8. Exclusive Advanced Thrust engineering that moves the engine forward—gives you straight tracking, flat cornering—and a nearly flat front floor! On a sparkling summer day 100 years ago—June 28, 1862—this tiny, wood-burning locomotive with two passenger cars coupled to its tender chugged out of St. Paul, Minnesota. Its destination: the village of St. Anthony—ten "long" miles away. St. Paul was an outpost of American civilization. Beyond it lay some 2,000 miles of great plains, the unknown passes of the Rockies, deep river canyons, the snow-crowned Cascade Range, and finally Puget Sound and the Pacific Ocean. St. Anthony was scarcely more than a wilderness settlement, perched on the banks of the Mississippi opposite a fall in the mighty river's course. (Later it was to grow into the modern metropolis of Minneapolis.) The William Crooks—for that was the name of the huffing and puffing little "balloon-stack"—on that day made the first rail trip between these two towns. And the event marked the beginning of a railway system now serving ten states and two Canadian provinces—from the head of the Great Lakes to the Pacific Northwest. A railway aptly named "Great Northern"—and mighty proud to be 100 youthful years old!

The only time we've looked back in 100 years

. . . and the view is crystal clear: Great Northern Railway's progress has resulted from a constant effort to further the growth and prosperity of the region it serves.

Time works harsh penalties on businesses that are not built upon a belief that giving customers an extra measure of service for their money is the key to continued corporate life and vitality.

In these 100 years, we at Great Northern have seen many an enterprise come into being, then disappear as it failed to devote itself to daily-demonstrated service to the public.

The old saying has it, "As the twig is bent, so grows the tree". And this has been our pattern for ten decades. For James J. Hill, Great Northern's founder, understood the need for service in its fullest, most meaningful sense—and formed our first and all-time policy with these words: "The railroad is in partnership with the land upon which we live and walk. It will prosper only when the land prospers or the owner prospers."

Thus, Great Northern has adhered all these 100 years to an effort to aid the region it serves by providing low-cost transportation of the products of fields, forests and mines.

While our region is blessed with a great natural abundance, it is at considerable distance from the consumption centers of the Middle West and the East.

So Great Northern looks at its job as one of "equalizing"—moving products of the Northwest to processing and consuming areas at prices that keep this area competitive with the same commodities produced much closer to markets.

In its end result this unselfishness could be termed "calculated self-promotion"—for as the area we serve grows so Great Northern grows. By putting the area's prosperity first, the railway's own well-being has followed inevitably.

This habit—ingrained from our "childhood"—has enabled Great Northern to begin its second century with more vigor than at any time in its history.

A look to the next 100 years

Today, as in all the 100 years since the William Crooks pioneered our rail route from St. Paul up-river a scant ten miles, Great Northern's officers and some 20,000 employes are ever aware that their future lies on the bedrock of downright good service to the railway's passenger and shipping customers. Our habit of service runs far too deep and is much too precious to be laid aside simply because we've completed one hundred years.

We're pretty sure that come our 200th birthday we'll be thinking the same thoughts: that the railway has progressed because it continued to help its region grow and prosper by providing efficient, low-cost transportation services.

At least, that's exactly what we aim to keep on doing.

Marshall ASC Tells of Two More Signups

Edward A. Johnson, chairman of the Marshall County ASC committee, stated that signups for the F-1-(h) practice, "Establishment of vegetative cover on summer fallowed land for winter protection from erosion", would start on July 10th and would end on August 15th, for this practice. On July 15th, the ASCS office will begin to take signups for the E-1, Stubble Mulching practice. Mr. Johnson said that anyone wishing to sign up for either of these practices, should come into the ASCS office in Warren, BEFORE starting the practice. If the practice has been started or completed the request cannot be taken. He also warned, that stubble mulching or any winter cover practice cannot be carried out on a field where an ACP practice has already received payment this summer. Stubble mulching must be carried out on a field from which small grain crops or flax have been harvested. A description of the two practices follows:

F-1-(h)—Establishment of vegetative cover on summer fallowed land for winter protection from erosion. A good stand and good growth must be obtained in sufficient time to protect the area in the fall and winter of 1962 and must be maintained on the land until the spring of 1963. None of the growth may be harvested for hay or seed. A seeding of at least 1 peck per acre of flax is required. The seeding must be completed not later than August 15, 1962. Maximum Federal Cost-share: $1.00 per acre.

E-1: Stubble mulching to improve soil permeability and to protect soil from wind and water erosion. One of the primary purposes of this practice is to encourage stubble mulching of land from which small grain crops or flax have been harvested, rather than having such land fall plowed and left unprotected from wind and water erosion over winter. A stubble mulch must be maintained by performing tillage operations which will leave sufficient crop residue on the surface or mixed in the upper part of the soil to provide protection against wind and water erosion. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed if the acreage has been burned over or grazed. Maximum Federal cost-share is $0.50 per acre.

Says 74 Pct. Covered by Health Insurance

More than 135 million Americans—74 per cent of the civilian population—had some form of health insurance at the end of 1961, the Health Insurance Council said today in reporting on its 16th annual survey of the extent of voluntary helath insurance coverage in the United States. The survey is based on reports from insurance companies, Blue Cross-Blue Shield, and other helath care plans.

The Council said both the number of persons covered, and the amount of benefits paid by health insurance reached new highs last year. Coverage increased 3.1 million during 1961 to reach a total of 135,042,000.

Benefit payments by all health insuring organizations to help cover the cost of hospital, surgical and medical care amounted in 1961 to more than $5.4 billion, up $600 million over 1960, said the Council. In addition, persons with loss-of-income policies received $855 million in benefits from insurance companies to replace income lost through disability.

Thus, a grand total of $6,329,000,000 in health insurance benefits were distributed during 1961, up 11.3 per cent over 1960, said the Council.

The HIC, a federation of eight insurance associations, said that based on early trends for 1962 it estimated that as of June 1, 1962, some 136 million persons had hospital expense insurance, 126 million had surgical expense insurance, 94 million had regular medical expense insurance, 36 million had major medical expense insurance, and 43.5 million were insured against loss of income, or had some other formal sick leave pay arrangement.

The Council said these figures also revealed the breadth of health insurance protection which Americans have. The organization said that as of June 1, 93 per cent of persons with health insurance had both hospital and surgical expense insurance, and 69 per cent had hospital, surgical and regular medical expense insurance, the last of which helps pay for doctor visits for non-surgical care.

A breakdown of the number of persons with health insurance at the end of 1961, by type of coverage and type of insuring organization, is as follows:

Hospital expense insurance was provided by insurance companies to 81,369,000 persons; by Blue Cross-Blue Shield and similar groups to 58,797,000, and by other health care plans to 5,675,000. After deducting persons protected by more than one type of insuring organization, the Council reported that 135,042,000 persons had hospital insurance, a 2.3 per cent increase over the 131,962,000 persons so covered at the end of 1960.

Surgical expense insurance by insurance companies covered 78,861,000 persons; by Blue Cross-Blue Shield and similar groups 50,120,000, and by others, 6,803,000. Allowing for duplication, 125,297,000 persons had surgical insurance, a 3.5 per cent boost over the 121,045,000 persons of 1960.

State Residents Carry $10 Billion in Life Insurance

Minnesota Families Own 3,833,000 Policies, Institute Announces

Minnesota families owned 3,833,000 life insurance policies providing $10,512,000,000 of protection at the start of this year, a new high record, the Institute of Life Insurance reports.

This compares with $9,775,000,000 owned in this state the year before and $4,457,000,000 at the start of 1952. The ten-year rise in this state was 136 per cent.

"The past decade has seen the greatest advancement of family financial protection through life insurance in all our history," Blake T. Newton, Jr., Institute president commented. "In these ten years we have seen over $376,000,000,000 of life insurance added in this country, an amount one-half greater than the total in force in the U. S. at the start of 1952. Today's life insurance ownership is more than four times that at the close of World War II. More people own more life insurance than ever before."

Of the total life insurance owned January 1 in Minnesota, $6,569,000,000 was in 1,774,000 ordinary life policies. Purchases of new insurance of this type in this state amounted to $897,000,000 in 1961, exclusive of credit life insurance.

An additional $235,000,000 of life insurance protection was owned at the start of the year in this state in 595,000 industrial policies, the type generally bought at the door in small units.

Another $3,168,000,000 was in group life insurance in this state, under 903,000 individual certificates.

In addition, there was $542,000,000 of credit life insurance, under 561,000 individual policies and certificates in this state.

Crops and Soils Day Set July 17 Near Crookston

Tour of Crop and Soil Research Work Planned at Experiment Station

Northwest School of Agriculture and Experiment Station at Crookston will have its annual Crops and Soils Day on Tuesday, July 17. The public is invited and a tour of the crops and soils research work will begin at 9:30 a. m. In spite of the late season and unusually wet weather, the grain plots look good at this time, according to Superintendent B. E. Youngquist.

A beef barbecue luncheon is planned at noon and a special program celebrating the Land Grant Centennial will begin at 1:30 p. m. For the women attending Crops Day, there will be a horticultural program and tour in the forenoon at 10 o'clock.

A feature of the day also will be a Plant Problem Clinic with specialists in plant diseases and insects, weeds, and soil problems present to discuss questions brought in by Crops Day visitors. The Red River Valley Crops and Soils Association will have a meeting at 3 p. m.

Further details on Crops Day will be given in the Times at a later date.

Egg Shell Strentgh Is Topic of Research

University of Minnesota research aimed at reducing the heavy toll in poultrymen's profits from cracked eggs was reported during the annual meeting of the Poultry Science Association at the University of Illinois Tuesday.

F. R. Frank, research assistant in poultry husbandry at the University of Minnesota, reported that he and his colleagues had found specific gravity of the intact egg rather than shell thickness to be the most reliable single measurement for determining the shell strength of eggs.

Studies show that as high as 8 per cent of all eggs laid are cracked or checked by the time they reach the terminal market. Such eggs bring 5 to 8 cents a dozen less than sound-shelled eggs. Along with eggs which are completely smashed, the toll in cracked and checked eggs represents a loss of many thousands of dollars each year to Minnesota poultrymen.

The need for strong-shelled eggs in Minnesota is accentuated by the long distances that eggs must travel from farm to terminal market—and 70 per cent of Minnesota eggs are marketed outside the state. Automation in gathering and grading eggs has also increased the need for strong shells.

In the Minnesota research, breaking strength values were determined for individual eggs by either impact or a crushing device. Other physical measurements included specific gravity of the intact egg, shell thickness, per cent membrane and per cent shell.

Protein content of the shell plus membrane true shell, shell matrix and shell pores were each determined.

The researchers found positive significant correlation between breaking strength and specific gravity, per cent shell and shell thickness. Their work indicated that protein content of the shell in itself had no significant effects on breaking strength.

The Minnesota research reported at the Urbana meeting is part of a long-time continuing study. The scientists hope to find guiding principles for practical solutions to egg cracking problems. Co-authors of the paper presented to the poultry scientists by Frank were M. H. Swanson, associate professor, and R. E. Burger, assistant professor, in the Department of Poultry Husbandry at the University of Minnesota.

PAYING GOD'S Rent

Two centuries ago a glassmaker in Pennsylvania provided the land for the erection of a church. But he attached a string to his gift. Each year the congregation must pay to him, or to his descendants, one red rose, forever.

Annually in a traditional service the members of that church fulfil the terms of their deed. In the words of a reverent visitor, "God's rent is paid in coin more worthy than man's."

What strange thrust of imagination devised such a price. Certainly it was more than a man's love of roses . . .

Wisely he realized our tendency to take for granted our blessings. Fervently he prayed that we would forever treasure the privilege of worship. Gently he reminds us that there is beauty and happiness in every sacrifice for the support of God's House.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

New Red Lake River Agency Is Organized

Formed Wednesday at Crookston to Seek Flood Control

Thirty-five persons from counties in northwestern Minnesota attended a meeting Wednesday night in Crookston to organize an area-wide committee that will seek legislation aimed at flood control and water conservation in the Red Lake River basin.

Earl L. Enright of East Grand Forks was selected to head the group, which will be named the Red Lake River Improvement Assocation.

Five directors elected were Bruce Kiefer, Crookston, A. M. Bjerke, Red Lake Falls; Dr. James Disse and Otto Rupprecht both of Thief River Falls; and Calvin Kolling, Gully. Howard Kramer, East Grand Forks, was appointed by Enright as secretary.

Main action at the meeting was the adoption of a resolution that seeks to have an extensive survey of the Red Lake River Basin made by the Corps of Engineers. Copies of the resolution are to be forwarded to all municipalities in the watershed for action by the various town and county governing bodies. The approved resolutions will then be forwarded to tors Hubert Humphrey and Sena Eugene McCarthy.

Enright said the attendance was better than expected at the organizational meeting, and the group was "pretty much in agreement that a series of dams would be the answer" Enright had been active during the past month in helping to organize water committees in the cities of Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls and East Grand Forks, and in coordinating them for organization of a general committee. Crookston previously had a water committee organized.

Enright said a partial survey had been made about 10 years ago in the area, but it did not extend much beyond Red Lake Falls, and was done primarily for the purpose of channeling water into the Red Lake River. "This time," he said, "we want a whole, complete survey, along with recommendations."

Rainfall Declines, Sun Again Shines

Severe Weather Warning Causes Alarm Thursday

Temperatures which ranged into the 80's for the past week tapered off to a moderate 70 degrees Sunday and the rainfall which has plagued the area this spring has abated considerably. A total of .16 inch of rain was reported during the past several days with .14 inch noted on Thursday and .02 inch of rain being received this morning.

Weather on Thursday created some alarm in the area as warnings of hail, severe rain and damaging winds were issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau. This area escaped bad weather and farmers were able to continue the frenzy of spring field operations which are far behind schedule.

High and low temperatures during the past several days include 84 and 72 on Thursday, 84 and 55 on Friday, 82 and 56 on Saturday, 70 and 60 on Sunday and a low of 58 degrees last night. June rainfall totaled 3.07 inches as compared with 7.53 inches in May. Scattered rain showers are predicted for today, tonight and tomorrow with temperatures in the 70's today and dipping to around 55 degrees tonight.

Annual Minnesota-Red River Valley picnic will be held Sunday, July 15, at the Salt Water State Park located between Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., according to Mrs. Clifford Johnson, Seattle, committee secretary. Coffee and ice cream will be furnished and all former residents of the Valley or present residents making the west coast tour for the worlds fair are invited to attend.

Guests at the Stanley Solheim home recently were the Nels Wahls of Austin, Minnesota.

Eight-year-old Debra was the youngest exhibitor among the 18 entrants in the show and used chili as her favorite food. Edward was the only boy contestant and displayed Spanish rice. Salads and occasional cakes are also popular with Edward who claims his older sister Barbara, also an entrant in the show, washes the dishes after he finishes his cooking projects.

4H Favorite Foods Show Held Friday

Eighteen Pennington county 4-H club members participated in the Favorite Foods Show held Friday morning in the Thief River Falls municipal auditorium. Since state fair trips are no longer given in the silent bread and silent pie demonstrations, the favorite foods show was devised to replace the silent demonstrations usually conducted at the county fair.

Mrs. Gunder Legvold served as judge for the event at which exhibitors prepared their favorite food. Exhibitors were required to understand the preparation of the food, importance of nutrition and present a neat and well-groomed personal appearance.

Favorite food itself was judged on appearance, flavor and quality and the supplementary menu was checked for balance in texture, flavor and color, balance in food value and suitability to favorite food. Also included was the table setting which included a centerpiece and suitable arrangement of dishes, silver and linen.

Taking part in the show were the following 4-H club members: Susan Geving, Linda Swanson, Alta Swanson and Lana Ellingson, Highlanding; Debra Sorvig and Kathleen Hawkinson, Black River; Kathy, Barbara and Edward Wold Sanders; Linda Aaseby and Karen Kron, New Solum; Rebecca Scholin, Sara Howick, Renee Wysocki, Valerie Scholin and Judy Haunson, City View; Amelia Gates, Lucky Four; and Renay Radniecki, Deer Park.

Miss Laura Duerst, Pennington county home agent, arranged the show and was in charge of details at the event.

SBA Offers Loans In Disaster Area

Applications Received At Fargo Branch Office

Applications for assistance from business places located in the 12-county disaster area in northwestern Minnesota will be considered by the Small Business Administration, according to Paul Olander, Fargo, branch manager. Counties include Beltrami, Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Norman, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau and Wilkin.

Loans are for business affected by loss of income to area farmers and are designed to help replace funds that have been lost or tied up in unusual inventories or accounts receivable. Interest is at the rate of three per cent per annum and the maturity of the loan will vary up to 20 years depending upon the time necessary for repayment.

While it is perhaps too early to determine the full effect of the excessive moisture conditions on area businesses, Olander said, his office will assist wherever possible. The disaster designation will remain in effect until Dec. 31, 1963

Marshall Co. Tax Collections Are Below 1961 Figure

Marshall County tax collections continued a downward trend for 1962 when the current collections for the June Settlement period, March 1 through May 31, totaled $582,372.63 or $10,270.01 less than for the same period of 1961 when the total was $592,372.63.

This information was gleaned by the Warren Sheaf from John W. Sands, county treasurer.

Tax collections for the first five months of 1962 are down $37,630.91 from 1961 totals, Mr. Sands' records reveal. The total current collections for 1962 through May 31, reached $1,137,651.41 while the total for the first five months in 1961 was $1,175,282.32.

Plans Being Made to Reroute T.H. 59 at Detroit Lakes

Project Tentatively Set for 1964 Would Reroute Highway Around City

Realignment of Highway 59 and 34 at Detroit Lakes is tentatively scheduled for 1964, according to Frank J. Pawlak, district highway engineer. This plan will make the highways bypass the city.

First phase for rerouting calls for construction of 4.6 miles of new highway between Shoreham corner at the golf club, on the south, and U. S. 10 on the north. Proposed further alignment would take the two highways north over the Northern Pacific and Soo Line tracks to join the present Highway 59 at the northwest edge of Detroit Lakes.

One bridge would be built over the tracks, which run parallel at this point. This rerouting would take the highways about 1.2 miles west of where they now run and take much of the heavy traffic away from the city.

It is anticipated that contracts will be awarded sometime after July 1, 1963, for about 18 miles of U. S. 10 from one mile west of Hawley to the eastern limits of Dilworth, to complete the four-lane stretch from Dilworth to Detroit Lakes.

A bridge would be constructed over the Soo Line tracks at the western edge of Detroit Lakes to complete four-laning into town here. The 18-mile job between Hawley and Dilworth will require an east-bound roadway. The present two-lane highway will be used as a west bound lane.

Crookston Man Is Severely Burned in Airplane Crash

A Crookston man, the pilot of a crop-spraying plane, was severely burned Friday morning when his plane crashed and burned in a beet field about four miles west of the Crookston airport.

He was Paul Linn. He was rushed to the hospital by William Reitmeier, Crookston, who witnessed the crash.

Attending physicians said Linn has "very extensive burns."

Reitmeier reported Linn's plane made two circles near the area in which he (Reitmeier) was cultivating a beet field. He said the plane was extremely low and looked like it couldn't clear a group of trees.

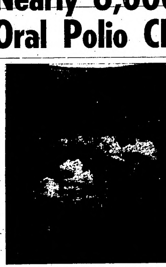
"It then swung to the left of the trees and crashed to the ground," Reitmeier said.

The witness said the plane burst into flames when it hit the ground.

Linn crawled out of the flaming plane himself, according to Reitmeier.

The plane was owned by Walter's Aviation of Crookston.

Nearly 6,000 Attend Oral Polio Clinic Sat.



HIGH into the sky rises the tower which Sjoberg Appliance is erecting to provide improved television reception on a subscription basis in Thief River Falls. About 100 feet of tower was raised when this photo was taken on Saturday. When completed the steel structure will be 480 feet high. Erection is being handled by Iola Cable TV of Iola, Kans., and the work is expected to be completed by Wednesday. Target date for initiation of the service has been set for September 15.

Two More Clinics Are To Be Held This Fall; Vaccine Is Available

Nearly 6,000 persons took advantage of reduced rates and mass clinic organization Saturday to avail themselves of the Sabin antipolio vaccine dispensed at the Thief River Falls city auditorium. Medical staff at Northwestern Hospital sponsored the oral polio clinic which was under the direction of Dr. H. Paul Wendt, city health officer.

To many area youngsters, the idea of attending a clinic where no needles were present was somewhat of a surprise. Many had to be coaxed into accepting the sugar cube upon which the vaccine was dropped by attending nurses. For some the coaxing was of long duration as they couldn't help but be suspicious of the whole procedure. For many others the looks of anxiety inspired by the white-clad nurses changed to broad smiles when the sugar cubes were offered.

Ten tables were arranged in the auditorium to handle the large crowd of persons attending the clinic. With a large line waiting when the doors opened at 9 a. m., the volunteer workers administered vaccine to about 700 persons during the first 15 minutes after the doors were opened. During the remainder of the day the crowd was handled easily.

Organizations providing volunteer workers to assist with the clinic were the Mrs. Jaycees, Hospital Auxiliary, American Legion Auxiliary, V. F. W. Auxiliary, Eagles Auxiliary and B. P. O. Does. Preparation of the vaccine was under the direction of Robert Craik and Lloyd Brunsberg local pharmacists. Gerald W. Knutson, Detroit Lakes, representative of the Pfizer company from which the vaccine was purchased, also assisted during the day.

Two other oral clinics will be held this fall to provide complete immunization against the three major strains of polio. A limited supply of vaccine is now available at local clinics and may be received there during the next several weeks. The mass clinic rate will not be in effect for vaccine administered at clinics, however.

The following is a list of the registered and practical nurses, practicing and retired, who made their professional services available for the mass immunization clinic. About 75 persons offered their assistance to handle the large number of persons registering.

Lois Stone, Mrs. Larry Ranum, Miss Lydia Dahlen, Miss Rita Flom, Miss Beverly Bakke, Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, Mrs. Eleanor Forberg, Mrs. Marilyn Wigness, Miss Adeline Iverson, Mrs. Francis Stromberg, Mrs. Edwin Olson, Mrs. Gladys Krause, Mrs. D. Liden, Miss Carol Taggart, Mrs. Jeanette Arhart, Mrs. Jeanette Hamerlinck, Mrs. Betty Roadfeldt, Mrs. Otis Wold, Miss Helen Black and Mrs. Margaret Race.

Regional Phone Book To Be Published for Northwest Minnesota

With a new regional telephone directory to be published late this fall, directory sales representatives of Northwestern Bell Telephone company will begin contacting businessmen in Thief River Falls next week to discuss representation in the Yellow Pages of the book.

First of its kind in this area, the new regional directory will be issued at the end of October and will be designed to offer telephone users an improved number information service over a wider geographical area. In addition to Thief River Falls, communities which will appear in both the alphabetical and classified sections of the new directories will include Baudette, Crookston, Malung, Roseau, Wannaska and Warroad.

Communities which will be included in the alphabetical or "White pages" section only will be Holt, Newfolden, Viking, Roosevelt, Williams and Rainy River, Ont. Each community will also have its own separate white page section, with telephone listings appearing alphabetically. Communities will follow one another in alphabetical order in the directory and will be listed alphabetically on the front cover.

Under the new arrangement there will be one common Yellow Page section for Thief River Falls, Baudette, Crookston, Malung, Roseau, Wannaska and Warroad with all business firms listed under their proper classified headings. These communities will have the town name included in the listings to make it easy to identify the location, Koller said.

The local manager added that the trained representatives who will be here next week will aid businessmen in preparing and ordering the type of Yellow Page representation best suited to promote either the products or services offered by the businesses.

Wichterman Will Head 7th District Drive for Rolvaag

State Representative Ben Wichterman of Plummer Saturday was named campaign director of the Seventh district Rolvaag for Governor committee.

John Chisholm, Rochester, state chairman for the Karl F. Rolvaag for Governor volunteer committee, announced the appointment. For the past eight years, Wichterman has represented Pennington, Red Lake and Clearwater counties in the state legislature.

Wichterman, in turn, is expected to announce campaign directors for each of the 23 counties in the Seventh Congressional District. He said a district-wide meeting of Rolvaag volunteer leaders will be announced soon.

Mrs. Len Goulet and Mrs. Josephine Goulet of this city, accompanied by the Len Goulet's daughter, Carole, went to Minneapolis last week to visit with the former's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Holm and family, of St. Louis Park. John Hancock was president of the Congress and Charles Thomson was secretary. The drafting of the Declaration was done by Thomas Jefferson and the Congress then made 86 changes in the original copy, eliminating 480 words and leaving 1,337.

The Declaration sets forth the reasons for which the Colonies were dissatisfied with British rule, and in conclusion declares the following:

"We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the World for the rectitude of our intentions do, in the Name, and by authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be, Free and Independent States; that they

Jones-Froehle Vows Are Spoken at Collegeville

St. John the Baptist Church, Collegeville, Minnesota, was the scene of the wedding of Sara Jane Jones of Evansville, Indiana, to Thomas C. Froehle of Grand Forks, N. D. on June 23 at 10:30 a. m. The marriage, solemnized by Rev. Lancelot Atsch, O. S. B., used the double-ring service.

Parents of the bride are the late Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Jones of Frankfort, Indiana. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Froehle of this city.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother-in-law, Eugene McGarvey, Jr., who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of white silk-faced peau de soie, with a chapel train. She wore a crown of pearls which held her elbow-length veil of silk illusion in place. Her bouquet was of white roses.

Attending her as maid of honor was her sister, Mrs. Eugene McGarvey, Jr. of Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri. She was attired in powder blue silk organza. The other attendants of the bride were her three bridesmaids, Karen Ullstrup, Carol Conner, and Ann McGarvey. Their gowns matched that worn by the maid of honor, and their bouquets were of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Serving as best man was the groom's brother, Harold A. Froehle of this city. Kenneth and David Froehle, also brothers of the groom, and Peter Froehle of St. Cloud, attended him as groomsmen. They were attired in coats of oxford gray, with gray waistcoats, striped trousers, and striped ties.

Little Bernadette Froehle, sister of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a white, floor-length gown of nylon chiffon over taffeta.

Her brother, Michael Froehle, carried the rings. He was attired in a gray coat with gray waistcoat, striped trousers, and striped tie, styled like those of the other men of the bridal party.

The groom's mother chose a dress of flowered nylon in tones of white and aqua, and wore a corsage of white roses.

Following the ceremony, a wedding dinner, buffet style, was served to a large number of friends and relatives in the Germain Hotel, St. Cloud, Minn.

The bride, a graduate of Indiana University, was employed as an elementary teacher. Her husband graduated from St. John's College of Collegeville, Minnesota. He is at present serving as a high school counselor while also doing post-graduate work at the University of North Dakota, in Grand Forks.

After a brief trip along the North Shore Drive and Duluth, the couple spent several days at the home of the groom's parents here. They left Saturday on a honeymoon trip which will take them to the World's Fair at Seattle, and to California.

For travel, the bride selected a gray silk sheath with matching jacket.

They will be at home in Grand Forks after August 1.

Mrs. Tom Ostby and Mrs. Pauline Myron, also her sisters, poured. The cake was cut and served by Mavis Aune and Donna Carlson, granddaughters of the honored couple. Waitresses were granddaughters, Mrs. Floyd Jesme, Mrs. Fred Hubrich, Jaylene Aune, and Kaylene Aune. Kitchen hostesses were Mrs. Thorlin Ostby, Mrs. Laverne Aune, Mrs. Olaf Aune, and Mrs. Juell Aune.

Mrs. Ed Shogren, bridesmaid at her sister's wedding fifty years previously, was present for the occasion, but the best man, Martin Aune of Dutton, Montana, was unable to attend because of illness. However, he had as stand-in, the cousin of Mr. Aune, Erick L. Erickson of Thief River Falls.

All of the couple's seven children were present. They were Olaf and Glen of Gatzke, Juell and Laverne, Mildred (Mrs. Wm. Zimmerman) and Esther (Mrs. George O'Brian), all of Minneapolis, and Marvel (Mrs. Clayton Carlson) of this city.

Twenty-five grandchildren also attended. Two were absent, Orrin Aune, who is stationed in Korea, and Denise, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Aune of Minneapolis. There were also six great-grandchildren present.

Other guests came from International Falls, Crookston, Thief River Falls, Nielsville, East Grand Forks, Roseau and Minneapolis, Minnesota, and from Hillsboro, N. D.

Schlofer-McLean Vows Were Exchanged June 2

Baskets of pink carnations and white snapdragons, and the glow of lighted tapers in candelabra provided the setting for the wedding of Donna Elaine Schlofer and Gerald H. McLean at the Eklund Lutheran church near Goodridge, on Saturday, June 2. Officiating at the double-ring ceremony was Rev. A. B. Heltne.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Schlofer of Goodridge. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McLean of Grygla.

Miss Irene Hoffman provided the nuptial music and served as accompanist for Mrs. Jack Ulrich, who sang "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white French-type Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over taffeta. The fitted lace bodice featured a Sabrina neckline and long sleeves forming a point over the wrists. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a lacy crown. Her bouquet was a cascade of pink sweetheart roses and deep red roses centered with a white orchid. The traditional custom of "Something old, new, borrowed, and blue" was carried out.

Attending as maid of honor were Miss Norma Kriel of Goodridge, with Miss Diane Lovly of Goodridge, cousin of the bride, and Miss Sandra McLean, Grygla, sister of the groom, as bridesmaids. They wore identical street length gowns of aqua taffeta, with matching headpieces. Their bouquets were of feathered carnations and deep red roses, and their pearl earrings and necklaces and white gloves were gifts of the bride.

Julie McLean, sister of the groom, as flower girl, wore a gown identical to those of the bridesmaids, with a matching headpiece, and carried a white lace basket of carnations and red roses. Her pearl necklace and white gloves were her gifts from the bride.

The attendants of the groom were, as best man, Dalton Anderson of Nevada, Missouri; and as groomsmen, Darrel Ohman of East Grand Forks, and David Schlofer of Goodridge, brother of the bride. Bobby Loyland of Thief River Falls was ring-bearer; he carried the rings on a white satin pillow. Ushering were Wallace Anderson of Minneapolis and Dale Newton of Grygla. The men in the wedding party all wore white dinner jackets, dark trousers, black bow ties, and rose carnation boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Schlofer wore a lavender print dress with white accessories. The groom's mother wore a blue-figured dress and her accessories were likewise of white. Their identical corsages were of pink carnations and deep red roses.

The grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Caroline Lovly, and the groom's grandmother, Mrs. P. I. Levang, both of Thief River Falls, wore corsages similar to those worn by the two mothers.

A reception given by the bride's parents, and attended by about 200 guests, was held in the Eklund dining hall following the ceremony. The four-tiered pillared wedding cake, decorated in white and topped with white lacy wedding bells, was cut and served by Mrs. Palmer Lovly, aunt of the bride, and by Mrs. Selmer Ramsey. Mrs. Bill McLean, aunt of the groom, poured. Presiding at the guest book was Mrs. Wallace Anderson, the groom's sister. The gifts were arranged by Mrs. Dalton Anderson and Miss Jane Holte. They all wore corsages of pink carnations. Serving as waitresses were Mrs. Iver Iverson, Miss Connie Anderson, Miss Ione Vraa, and Miss Jean Wiseth. All wore white nylon aprons, which they received as gifts from the bride.

The bride is a graduate of the Goodridge high school. Her husband graduated from the N. W. School of Agriculture at Crookston, and is currently employed at Nevada, Missouri, where they are now at home at 325 W. Lee.

For her going-away outfit the bride wore a light-blue two-piece suit and a white orchid corsage.

Those who attended the wedding from out of town were from Nevada, Missouri; Drayton, N. D.; Minneapolis, East Grand Forks, Fosston, Oslo, Warren, Moorhead, Angus, Erskine, Embarrass, Thief River Falls, Oklee, St. Hilaire, Grygla, and Gatzke.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

MRS. SHELDON C. JOYNER

Today's salad has for its ingredients "One cup of this, and one cup of that. . .". Which reminds us of the story concerning the southern Mammy who was asked to give the recipe for her fabulous 'lasses bread. It included, of course, molasses. Her measure of this ingredient was "gullups." Asked to define 'gullups,' she stated matter-of-factly, "Yo' tips de 'lasses jug upside down, and when enough runs out it says 'Gullup.' Well, yo' do dis 'zactly two times, Missy."

We "did" ours just one time in this case, and the result, we discovered, is "scrumptious." Mrs. Joyner calls it Five Cup Salad, and says that it is excellent served with sandwiches or assorted cookies, and equally as tasty topping a slice of angelfood cake, and garnished with maraschino cherries.

FIVE CUP SALAD

1 cup commercial sour cream
1 cup marshmallows, cut up (or the miniature kind
1 cup flake coconut
1 cup chunk pineapple, drained
1 cup mandarin oranges

Mix marshmallows and cream. Add coconut and well-drained fruit. Chill.

Mrs. Joyner's husband is the Soo Line agent here. They have one daughter, Mrs. William Ash, of Humboldt, Minn. Mrs. Joyner's many changes of residence led to her hobby of exchanging recipes with the ladies of each locality in which she lives. She states that these recipes, together with the name of person from whom she received them, and the date received, tells the story of many happy occasions.

Pool Concession Provides Work for Summer Months

by Marvin Lundin
City Editor

It was the coldest day of the winter when two cheerleaders at Lincoln high school became bored with staying in the house. On an impulse generated by some unknown power, they decided, of all things, to apply for the summer job of operating the concession at Tindolph Park swimming pool. The pool was frozen solid, snow was banked high against the bath house and there was a long list of applicants with Dr. W. P. Keisler—but they got the job. And they like it.

Pat Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brown, and Faye Fuller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fuller, are both 1962 graduates of Lincoln high school. Pat hopes to attend the University of Minnesota this fall and Faye is determined to enroll at Concordia college in St. Paul.

"We see so many kids during the summer that we hardly know how to talk to grown-ups any more," they admit. "Most of the kids come down here every day and they usually have a dime or nickel to spend. We really get busy when Plummer, St. Hilaire and Goodridge send buses for swimming lessons. Just about all of those kids seem to buy pop or candy or something."

For the two girls the concession operation is a strict business proposition. They make or break on what they sell. In return for taking care of baskets in which swimmers cache their clothes while at the pool, the concession operators are granted free electricity and use of the building by the city park board. Lugging the 100-odd baskets on a 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. job seems to be an endless task.

Multitude of Tasks

In addition to the handling of baskets, the girls issue and check in equipment for recreational games offered. These sports include basketball, volleyball, table tennis, miniature golf, croquet and tether ball. The table tennis is played in a room adjoining the concession counter. "That ball goes all day long and it almost drives you crazy," they agree.

The job is supposed to be an eight-hour per day operation but usually runs much more. "We would be out here anyway so we might as well work. We take turns coming in the morning to open the building and staying in the evening to lock up again. During the busy part of the afternoon we're both here to work." They handle their own ordering on Monday and Friday for soft drinks and candy and every day for ice cream and other frozen items.

Little Time to Play

Avid water enthusiasts themselves, Pat and Faye find little time during the day to cool in the pool. "We swim during our noon hour but that's about all. Everybody else gets to tan in the sun while we sit inside and stay white all summer." Both were in the Jaycee Aquacade water ski show last summer.

The season actually started late this season, June 12, and is expected to continue until about the second week in August. Last year the partners in the concession (Pat worked with Mary Lou Anderson) cleared about $400 each but the outcome of the shorter season this year is uncertain. Both girls agree that the concession operation beats most summer jobs although the work is on a seven-day week basis.

Personal Budget

"We allow ourselves 15 cents a day each for stuff we eat," Pat said. "That's wholesale, of course," Faye added. "We decided that we're going to save everything we make this year and I think we can do it."

Anything exciting ever happen? "Well, once a fuse blew out and all the ice cream melted," Faye said. "It got pretty soggy but we sold it all anyway. Kids get so hungry out here that they'll eat anything."

With such a stringent business sense, the concession should show a profit for two hard working youngsters this season.

OPERATORS of the Tindolph Park concession stand this summer are Faye Fuller, left, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fuller, and Pat Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brown. Pat worked with Mary Lou Anderson at the concession last year. Both girls are Lincoln high school graduates this year and plan to enter college in the fall. The concession is theirs to operate and the better the profit the better their chances are for a college education.

AT WORK in the concession stand in Tindolph Park are Faye Fuller, left, and Pat Brown, who are operating the concession this summer. On busy Sundays the two girls dispense about 500 bottles of soft drinks to thirsty customers, most of whom are boisterous youngsters who believe that a swim isn't a swim unless they can spend a dime or two at the concession.

The Library Corner

by Tom Lynskey

Last week I received a lengthy brochure from the University of North Dakota containing a list of seven books which the University considers basic to a general education and to an intelligent understanding of man and the world. Freshmen are expected to have already read these before coming to the University. The seven books are: "The Greek Way" by Edith Hamilton; "The Universe and Dr. Einstein" by Lincoln Barnett; 'Mainstreet" by Sinclaire Lewis; "The Shaping of the Modern Mind" by Crane Brinton; "1984" by George Orwell; "Six Centuries of Grat Poetry" by Robert Penn Warren and Albert Erskine; and "Pocket History of the United States" by H. S. Commager and Allan Nevins. The list certainly covers a wide variety of topics, ranging from the theory of relativity to the nefarious Big Brother.

"Nineteen Eighty-Four" is one of the keenest pieces of political satire to be written in modern times. The book is particularly interesting to me, because the principal character is a journalist like myself. Winston Smith had a job in the Ministry of Truth because he had the ability to write newspeak, the official language of the Party. Newspeak was abbreviated English. The Ministry of Truth eventually planned to abbreviate the language to such an extent that it would be impossible to express, or for that matter even think, any anti-Big Brother propaganda. But as the story turns out, Winston Smith gets abbreviated even before the English language does.

Plans are now being formulated for the annual flower show sponsored by the Friends of the Library. The 1962 show will be held on Saturday, July 28, at the Carnegie Public Library. Categories for entrants will include miniatures, formal arrangements, wild flowers, informal arrangements, table setting and arrangment, and children's arrangements. Flower growers of the area are urged to mark the date on the calendar and to enter in as many categories as they wish. There will be a silver tea during the afternoon with Mrs. L. B. Hartz as chairman.

"The Secret War" by Pulitzer Prize winner Sanche de Gramont is my selection as the book of the week. "The Secret War" is the story of international espionage since World War II. The book is the first complete and detailed study of Cold War espionage as it has developed on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

In the United States, distaste for secrecy and subversion can be traced back to the founding fathers. As late as the 1920's a Secretary of State declared that gentlemen don't read other people's mail. Today, the Central Intelligence Agency employs thousands to open other people's mail and commit similar indiscretions.

In the Soviet Union, intelligence operates at the heart of a system where secrecy is the air one breathes, conspiracy the ground upon which one walks. An aura of Byzantine intrigue has been the stigmata of every Russian regime since Peter the Great. As the Czars needed the Okhrana for survival, Krushchev needs the KGB (Committee for State Security).

Today, the Soviet Union and the United States employ monolithic espionage agencies considered vital for national security and kept beyond the reach of public opinion. Every Russian technique short of cold-blooded assassination is being matched by the United States.

Here too are the stories of the talkative Harry Gold, the neurotic Judy Coplon, and of John Powers, the pilot over his head in the world of espionage.

"The Secret War" is an interesting and enlightening book for any curious layman of the political sciences.

Four Denominations of Lutherans Merge

The largest merger in the history of Lutheranism in America took place Thursday in Detroit, Michigan, when the "Lutheran Church in America" was formed.

With solemn ceremony and song, four Lutheran denominations joined forces to become one.

"An epochal, long prayed-for event," said the Rev. Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, of New York.

Thousands of Lutherans, including 2,500 delegates and officials, were on hand for the occasion in Detroit's giant Cobo Hall.

The merging denominations are the 2½-million-member United Lutheran Church, of German background; the 630,000-member Augustana Lutheran Church, of Swedish descent; the 35,500-member Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church, of Danish origins.

Their merger is part of a trend toward Christian unity that is gradually bringing various denominations closer together, and is sealing the rifts in organizationally divided Lutheranism.

Their past divisions trace back to differences in national origin and languages. But these factors have faded on the American scene, leading to formation of the new united church.

Altogether, it has 3¼ million members in 6,125 congregations, the sixth largest protestant body in the nation.

Back in the 1880's, this country had more than 70 different Lutheran branches, separated along ethnic lines. They have steadily coalesced.

The new union reduces the number to 11, and brings 95 per cent of the 8½ million Lutherans in America into three major bodies.

They are the 2.06 million-member Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod; the 2.03 million-member American Lutheran Church, that was formed through a three-way merger in 1960, and the new church created Thursday.

Conservationists to Meet at Waseca

The members will meet at the Green Giant Experimental Farm, ½ mile west of Farmington on Highway 50 at 1 p. m. on Friday, July 13. From there they will go to visit the Green Giant cannery at Montgomery. En route to Waseca, they will inspect the Crane Creek Watershed.

Entomologist Tells Ways to Combat Ants

A parade of ants along the kitchen counter may greet you some morning as you're about to make breakfast. Mounds on the lawn and garden may be further warning that ants have invaded your house and yard.

John Lofgren, extension entomologist at the University of Minnesota, says that effective weapons to use against ants are such chemicals as chlordane and dieldrin. To kill the ants, however, you have to get the ants and the chemicals together.

As a first step, the University entomologist advises observing the ants to find the path of travel they use between their nesting site and food supply. Their nests may be outside the house or they may be in a space behind the molding or the baseboard.

Now take a paintbrush and apply a ready-to-use oil solution of 2 to 3 per cent chlordane or ½ per cent dieldrin, Diazinon or lindane into the nest entrance, if you have found it. Apply the solution in a strip along the back edge of the counter tops, along baseboards, on window sills and around sinks and cupboards.

Applying the insecticide along the ant path of travel will eventually kill off the workers and deplete the colony. This treatment may produce results rather slowly because the ants must crawl across the treated surfaces if it is to be effective. However, the insecticides are long lasting. A treatment once every two or three months should be enough.

When ants are a problem in lawns and gardens, Lofgren suggests making up a drench of chlordane and water and applying it with a sprinkling can to the nest. If hills are scattered over the yard, broadcast granular dieldrin or chlordane or broadcast-spray the insecticide over the yard and soak it in thoroughly with the hose.

Lofgren gives this warning: Don't allow the insecticide to contaminate food or dishes. And be sure to store it safely out of reach of children.

If you want further information on ant control get a copy of Entomology Fact Sheet 19, What To Do About Ants, from your county extension office or from Bulletin Room, Institute of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, St. Paul 1.

WHAT'S A LIFETIME'S Rxs ARE WORTH

At today's prices, the prescriptions needed by the average person would cost about $750 — during his lifetime. A lot of money? It's less than a third the cost of a car that has to be replaced every few years. It's less than the cost of 2 or 3 vacations. Yet it buys a lifetime's worth of potent, health-giving drugs. Highway Dept. Has 3-year Program

Issues Booklet Listing Construction Details

The Minnesota highway department's construction programs for fiscal years 1963 through 1965 on the regular trunk highways and Interstate and Defense highways have just been published in booklet form for the convenience of all who need a ready reference on the expanding work of the department. Distribution is being made to members of the Legislature, news media, contractors and material suppliers.

All projects are listed by construction district and grouped according to regular trunk highway and Interstate highway projects. In addition, projects are arranged alphabetically within each district according to counties. Costs shown for each project to be let represent the estimated costs of the project plus ten per cent for engineering and contingencies. The proposed lettings by fiscal year and quarter are indicated by an "X" in the appropriate column.

Periodic revisions will take note of any changes in the overall program. Such changes will be made only by the commissioner of highways and then only for compelling reasons. Among valid reasons justifying a revision are: (1) unavoidable delay in obtaining lands and rights of way, (2) delay in obtaining concurrence of local governing bodies, (3) unpredictable discovery of adverse foundation conditions or similar engineering problems and (4) lack of funds.

The estimated costs of the three year construction program are as follows:

1963, $79,527,000; 1964, $82,541,000; and 1965, $85,401,000. Total $247,472,000.

Disabled May Get Social Security

Advised to Make Check to Learn If Eligible

Over fifty million people have worked long enough under social security to qualify for cash disability benefits if they become disabled. This means that they have social security credits for five years (20 quarters) out of the past ten years, Walter D. Kistler, district manager of the Grand Forks, North Dakota, social security office, said today.

In the case of a severe disability the worker and his dependents may be eligible for monthly cash social security disability benefits if he meets this work requirement.

Disabled adult sons and daughters of retired, deceased, or disabled workers may also receive childhood disability benefits if they became disabled before they reached the age of 18.

Anyone suffering a severe disability which prevents him from doing any substantial work should get in touch with the Grand Forks social security office to determine his eligibility under the social security disability program, Kistler stated.

Missouri Synod Convention Ends

Rev. A. C. Seitz and Fred Koop Back from Cleveland

Reaffirming in a number of resolutions and essays its strict adherence to the Bible and the historic Lutheran Confessions as the basis for its doctrine, The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod concluded its 10-day convention on June 29 at the Public Hall in Cleveland, Ohio. More than 2,000 clergy and lay delegates and visitors attended the triennial meeting of the 2,500,000-member church body.

Attending the convention from this area were Rev. A. C. Seitz, vice president of the Minnesota district; Fred Koop, Thief River Falls; and Rev. M. A. Uhlig, Roseau.

In other action, the Synod voted expansion of its educational system, heard reports on its mission work throughout the world, took steps to strengthen its ministry to various special groups of persons, and elected officers including a new president, Dr. Oliver Harms of St. Louis, to succeed Dr. John W. Behnken who had broken all precedent by serving for nine three-year terms.

Resolutions were passed reaffirming the Synod's position in opposing Federal Aid to Education, strengthening the church's service to youth and the armed forces, urging higher educational standards for its professional workers, intensifying work in the inner-city and among the negroes and Spanish-speaking people.

H. Stewart, P. E., Thief River Falls, president of the Minnesota Society of Professional Engineers.

The united engineering center serves the interest of over 6,000 engineers and land surveyors in the state from all communities and all branches and specialities of engineering and surveying. Student guidance, technical improvement, registration, professional development, ethical practice, legislative work, public speakers bureau, employer-employee relations and job placement are a few of the functions carried on by the various engineering groups housed together.

Societies operating out of the joint office include in addition to MSPE, the Minnesota Federation of Engineering Societies, a federation of twenty two engineering associations and clubs headed by president Mike Baker, P. E.

Savings Groups Oppose Dividend Tax Withholding

Savings and loan associations in Minnesota have reaffirmed their position against withholding tax on interest and dividends proposed by the treasury department's tax reform bill.

According to Vernon S. Welch, executive vice president of the Savings and Loan League of Minnesota, a recent news article which appeared in news media across the state claiming the industry had dropped its tax fight was not correct and has been the cause of much confusion to associations and savers.

Miss Margaret Sherack, daughter of Mrs. Marie Sherack of this city, is receiving treatment at St. Francis Hospital, Crookston, for a leg injury sustained several weeks ago.

BY MARY LUNDIN

One of the most respected organizations in America today, the National Rifle Association of America, has seen fit to publicly express its stand on proposed firearms control legislation. For many years the association has opposed such legislation in its trade magazine, The National Rifleman, and in Congressional lobbying against such proposals when they are brought up periodically.

"Basically the NRA believes that, to be effective, fair and consistent with other criminal statues, penalties should properly be assessed against the improper use of firearms rather than against possession of them," the association statement notes. "The Association believes that experience has demonstrated that firearms legislation is of insufficient value in the prevention of crime to justify the inevitable restrictions which it places upon law abiding citizens."

Most "controls" advocated require registration of firearms. A simple listing of who owns and possesses a gun is of insignificant value in law enforcement. A criminal planning to use a gun in violation of the law need merely steal the type he prefers and the identity of the person possessing the weapon would still be unknown. Such registration would do nothing to help in the return of stolen firearms since the owner may report the description and serial number of any guns taken, just as he would with any other item.

A permit system, which has been requested in some proposed legislation, would give authority to some official to determine who shall or shall not own a gun. This could well lead to arbitrary action with no provisions for appeal or a complicated and expensive appeal procedure. Requirements for carrying a concealed weapon, for instance, should be clearly stated, issuance should be mandatory when such conditions are met, and the act of carrying should be licensed—not the handgun itself.

"Sportsmen, and other sincere citizens, have been accused of thwarting effective law enforcement by their opposition to illogical firearms legislation," the statement continues. "It would make as much sense to say that one who opposes promiscuity is therefore against motherhood."

Area, state and national legislators, who would approve such legislation if it is enacted, should be informed of the public wishes. One of the fundamental rights granted to the American citizen in the Constitution is the right to possess and bear arms. The ability of the public to use arms has always been an advantage in the time of war and will continue to be an advantage—even in this day and age.

Firearms accidents have occurred. Criminals have taken lives with guns. Throughout the nation there are constantly reports of people who are mentally incompetent being involved in shooting sprees. But for each one of these headline cases, there are hundreds upon hundreds of shots fired in training and recreation. Why penalize the law-abiding citizen for the folly of others? I stand with the NRA in opposing firearms control legislation.

TRAP SHOOTER'S LAMENT

Each Thursday night he heeds the call
Of shooting competition.
He grabs his scattergun and all—
Sets out upon his mission.

The gunner mans his given post
With fowling piece at ready.
He is not prone to idle boast
For he can break 'em steady.

The first bird sails for all to see,
Its lofty path unerring;
It floats forever fancy free.
("I'll get em all," he's swearing.)

The gunners blast the flying clay
With regular precision.
But this is not our hero's day,
Much to the foe's derision.

The empty shells lay on the ground,
The barrel's warm and smoking.
He hangs his head for he is bound
To bear the brunt of joking.

The scorn of winners I can take,
(I've done it all my life)
But how can I, for heaven's sake,
Explain it to my wife?

Ford Foundation Helps St. Thomas

Makes Grant of $1,500,000 to St. Paul Institution

The College of St. Thomas will be among twenty-one private liberal arts colleges from throughout the country which will share in Ford Foundation Grants totalling $41.6 million, it was announced today by the Foundation in New York.

St. Thomas, a Catholic liberal arts college for men in St. Paul, will receive $1.5 million to be used to advance its academic program.

To be eligible for the total grant all recipients must raise a total of $99.8 million in matching funds from other sources over a three-year period. St. Thomas must raise $3 million.

Grants were made under the Foundation's Special Program in Education, whose objective is to advance the development of selected private institutions of higher education as national and regional centers of excellence.

The College of St. Thomas was founded in 1885 by the Most Rev. John Ireland, archbishop of St. Paul. Enrollment in 1962 was 1950 students, making the school the largest private college in Minnesota. The College ranks seventh among the nation's Catholic colleges in percentage of male graduates becoming physicians and third in production of science doctorates, according to recent reports of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Dairy Day Correction

A summary of 1962 Dairy Day listed in error that Jerry Muzzy was the first Pennington County 4-H'er to win grand championship at Dairy Day. The first Pennington County 4-H'er was Richard Burtness who won the champion registered dairy animal of the show in 1953.

Dale Svendsgaard won both the registered and the grade sections of the show. In 1954 Dale showed the top registered animal and won a trip to Waterloo, Iowa. Then in 1955 he showed the top grade animal of Dairy Day.

Cost of Improving Forage Quality

Many farmers are now harvesting a good hay crop in Pennington County. The quality of hay may be maintained thru proper methods.

If you as a farmer are considering purchase of forage handling equipment to improve forage quality, here's what to keep in mind: The value of improved forage quality must be greater than equipment costs to be profitable.

If you harvest 100 tons of hay per year—or about 30 acres—the annual cost of owning a hay conditioner to fit into hay baling operations is approximately $220.

Annual cost of owning and operating a hay drying system to fit into a forage chopper operation is about $230.

These figures allow for depreciation, repairs, interest and operating costs.

Use of these pieces of equipment can reduce field losses. These losses, which may be as much as 30 to 35 per cent under normal field curing conditions, can be reduced to about 15 to 20 per cent.

The proportion of leaves saved can increase from around 20 per cent with usual methods to 35 per cent or more by use of conditioners and dryers.

With good harvest practice, protein content of the hay increases from 11 per cent to about 14 per cent. That means a farmer can grow 100 tons of hay on five or six fewer acres and feeding value of the hay is improved.

Benefits in the feeding program using about 100 tons of hay could amount to $600 to $800 per year.

Estimates show that the annual cost of owning either a hay conditioner or hay drying system can be met with as little as 15 to 20 acres of hayland.

This assumes three-time early cutting, the value of improved protein at 10 cents per pound of actual protein, and a 3 to 4 ton per acres yield potential.

Naturally, costs and benefits of different methods of harvesting hay to improve quality must be considered. Also, if capital is short consider returns from other investments in the farm business.

Whether you milk your cows every 12 hours or at an 8-16 hour interval, there's very little difference in milk production, according to research reported by A. C. Linnerud, J. B. Williams and J. D. Donker, University of Minnesota dairy husbandmen. The advantage of the 8-16 interval is that it lends itself to a shorter working day for the dairyman.

HAPPY HOMEMAKING

by Laura Duerst

PENNINGTON COUNTY HOME AGENT

Busier days are here again since the sun began shining; everyone just seemed to begin to shine happier too.

The 4-H tours are in full swing again for another season. While on these tours one learns some new ideas. One I would like to pass along to you is Bar-b-que turkey-burgers. Mrs. Eddie Anderson, TRF, uses this in place of hamburger. Meanwhile turkey is on the top of the list of plentiful foods for July, so you may wish to use Mrs. Anderson's idea. She grinds the turkey when raw, then adds pork sausage so the proportions are ¾ turkey to ¼ pork. She prepares it in the same manner as she would bar-b-que hamburger on the grill. Mrs Anderson also has tried using turkey another way which is very tasty. She slices the breast like steak and fries it in a small amount of shortening. This is an excellent idea if you feel that you have too much turkey to roast or you have become tired of roast turkey.

Idea for centerpiece on the summer table. Edward Wold, a 4-H'er from the Sanders 4-H club, used a clever idea on his table for the Favorite Food Show held Friday. He had a little wicker basket for the container. Then he used white daisies tied with yellow ribbon so they streamed out over the table as well as having daisies in the basket.

Proper rinsing will remove wash water. Your washer may have 8 pounds of water in each 8-lb. load of clothes before they're rinsed. A wringer type machine may leave up to 12 lbs. while a tumbler washer as much a 9 to 10 lbs. and in an agitator washer up to 9 lbs.

This wash water may be causing your clothes to become gray or yellow if not completely rinsed out. This is why it is so very important to rinse your clothes so thoroughly.

Study Blue Grass Disease in Roseau

University Scientists Seek Cure for Silvertop

University of Minnesota scientists are at work in Roseau county to find the cause and cure of "Silvertop," a problem which is hurting bluegrass seed production in northern Minnesota.

Silvertop is a condition marked by the premature drying of bluegrass seed heads, making the seed unfit for planting.

Preliminary work on the project was started in the summer of 1961 and field work has been expanded in the Roseau area this summer. University entomologists working on the problem are F. G. Holdaway, project leader, Karl Schurr, A. G. Peterson and David Keith. They are exploring the possibility that Silvertop is caused by insects.

Roy D. Wilcoxson and George A. Bean, University plant pathologists, are exploring the possibility that Silvertop is caused by a disease organism, or that disease organismas may be associated with the insect injury.

Evidence obtained by Karl Schurr indicates that several different kinds of insect are involved. However, it appears that one kind of insect will prove to be more important than the others.

Pen-Ro-Shall All Stars Lose 17-16

In an erratic and high-scoring game played on the Fair Grounds diamond on Sunday night, the Western Border league All-Stars edged out the Pen-Ro-Shall All-Stars, 17-16, in ten innings.

The Pen-Ro-Shall squad, with a seven-run outburst in the third inning, took a lead in the contest which they held until the ninth inning when the Border leaguers tallied four runs to send the game into an extra inning.

In the tenth, a pair of errors, a walk, two stolen bases, a passed ball, and a single by Chuck Olson scored two runs for the Border league club, and a 17-15 lead. The Pen-Ro-Shall team, in the last half of the tenth, utilized a walk to Morgan Huseth and a double by Jim Weckworth to score a run and pare the lead to 17-16.

Wayne Langen, a rangy right hander, who came on for the Border league in the seventh inning, was the winner; while Howard Hendrickson, who entered the game as a shortstop in the third inning and who took over the pitching duties in the ninth, was the loser.

Legion Jrs. Play 3 Games This Week

Defeat Roseau Juniors 7-6 Here Monday Night

Coach Ralph Skay's local junior baseball team will play three games this week. This evening, Monday, coach Mike Hajostek will bring his Red Lake Falls juniors here for a game on the Fair Grounds diamond; on Tuesday evening the locals will travel to Lake Bronson for a district conference game; and on Thursday evening, on the Fair Grounds diamond, the locals will meet a highly-rated East Grand Forks team in a conference game.

Playing a return game against the Roseau juniors, on the Fair Grounds diamond on Monday evening, coach Skay's club, with a five-run rally in the fifth inning to knot the score at 6-all and a run in the last half of the seventh, defeated the visitors, 7-6. Jack Leedahl, coming on in relief of starter Jerome (Tony) Poole in the fifth inning, received credit for the win. Dennis Nelson, who replaced lefty Gary Olson on the mound for Roseau in the fifth, was the loser.

In the game-winning seventh inning, Nelson doled out a walk to Leedahl to open the inning. Catcher Gary Johnson, in an attempt to nip Leedahl off first base, made a high throw into right field, with Leedahl scampering around to third. Nelson's wild pitch, which rolled to the backstop, permitted Leedahl to sprint in with the winning run.

All boys who will not have reached their 18th birthday by August 15 are eligible to enter the event with no entry fee being charged. Two local winners of the 18 holes of medal play will be entered in the Regional tournament which will also be held at the Thief River Golf Club on Saturday, July 7. Four regional winners will be selected to advance to state competition. Tee-off time for the local event will be 10:30 a.m. Thursday with Keith Spindler, golf pro at the local course this summer, arranging the foursomes. The local Jaycee chapter will pay regional entry fees and state fees for regional winners will be provided.

ARCHERY enthusiasts from a wide area will compete for trophies at the Second Annual Paul Bunyan archery meet to be held Sunday, July 8, at the Bemidji State College athletic field. The event will begin at 10:30 a.m. with a double American round for men and a double Columbia round for women. Trophies will be awarded in all classes. Testing their skill before the tournament are Mary Oltman and Peggy Moore, candidates for the Miss Bemidji-Land title. Archery meet and queen contest are parts of the annual Bemidji Jaycees water carnival.

The Hamm's Beer surprising 6-5 decision over the high-flying Hartz Stores on Thursday evening, the first defeat of the season for the Hartz, brought the city softball league into a three-way tie for first place. Sharing the top rung with the Hartz Stores are Wally Grovum's Vets and Bob Carlson's Bridgeman's.

In Thursday evening's game, the Hamm's Beer played strong ball behind the steady pitching of newcomer Ken Taylor.

In other games played last week, the Thief River Grain gave the Bridgeman's some anxious moments before losing 9-8; and the Vets scored a 5 to 1 win over Holsum.

This week's high-light game should be the tilt slated for Tuesday evening, with Kermit Malberg of the Hartz Stores facing Gary (Doc) Carlson of the Bridgeman's.

Canoe Derby Opens at Bemidji July 7

Explorer Scouts to Vie in Aquatennial Event

The seven-day Bemidji to Minneapolis Aquatennial Canoe Derby will begin on the shores of Lake Bemidji Saturday, July 7 with 22 teams expected to be ready at the starting line.

Once again, the race will be among teams of Explorer Scouts which took over the annual event last summer. Under the revised Derby, the teams are divided into four two-man teams changing off at specified intervals so that no tandem will paddle more than 22 miles at any one stretch. Most shifts will average eight to 12 miles.

All competing teams will arrive in Bemidji July 6 and will camp that night at the county fairgrounds. That evening, they will engage in a sprint race at the lakefront preparatory to their takeoff the following morning.

The opening lap of 32½ miles will take the teams to Grand Rapids with a lengthy portage around Lake Winnibigoshish. The second lap will end at Palisade with subsequent laps concluding at Brainerd, Little Falls, St. Cloud, Anoka and Minneapolis.

All teams will again be using identical aluminum canoes. It is expected that entries will be widened this summer to include canoes from out of the Minnesota-Wisconsin area. A move is underway in Scout quarters, to make the event a national championship including teams from throughout all parts of the country.

Shooting a four-man net total of 150 strokes, the Sportsmen's Store quartet picked up six strokes on the American Hardware Mutual foursome to lead the city golf league standings by eight strokes.

The Hamm's Beer squad, in third place and nineteen strokes behind the league leaders, turned in Wednesday evening's low team total scoring a 147. For the Hamm's, Wally DuChamp had a gross 43 and net 38, Dr. M. G. Johnson a gross 44 and net 36, Phil Jorgenson a gross 45 and net 37, and Shorty O'Hara a gross 48 and a net 38.

Justus Larson had the evening's low net total, a 32. Larson had a gross of 39, and a handicap of seven for his net 32. And Larson's 39 shared the evening's low gross score, too, with son Jon Larson, who carded a 39.

League play will be in a recess this week with the Fourth of July festivities taking precedence at the club.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

A Vote for the Nationals

The National league All-Stars should take the American league All-Stars as easily on Tuesday, July 10, in Washington as the rest of the city golf league teams are taking Roger Tunberg's Tunberg Motors squad. It's strictly no-contest.

The National league team, with Orlando Cepeda at first base, Bill Mazeroski at second, Dick Groat at shortstop, Ken Boyer at third, Tommy Davis in left field, Willie Mays in center, Roberto Clemente in right field, and Del Crandall at catcher has too much all-round class for the American league.

Lining up for the American will be Jim Gentile at first, Billy Moran at second, Louis Aparicio at shortstop, Rich Rollins at third base, Leon Wagner in left field, Mickey Mantle in center field, Roger Maris in right field, and Earl Battey as catcher. That's the best they can do.

Fact is you could pick a second team from the National league team rosters that would be able to beat the best in the American league. How's this for a second string: outfield—Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, Filipe Alour of San Francisco, and Frank Robinson of Cincinnati; infield—Ernie Banks of the Cubs at first, Frank Bolling of the Braves at second, Maury Wills of the Dodgers at short, and Eddie Mathews of the Braves at third; and catching, John Roseboro of the Dodgers.

It will be interesting to watch the strategy that manager Ralph Houk of the American league All-Stars will devise to keep the score within bounds.

It May Be His League

Last week I mentioned that the San Francisco Giants had sent down Corky Johnson from their triple A Tacoma club of the Pacific Coast league to their El Paso team of the double A Texas league.

That may be Corky's league, for an item in this week's Sporting News states that "Pitcher Corky Johnson put on an impressive one-man show for El Paso, June 16. Besides restricting Tulsa to five hits, he socked a grand-slam homer in leading the Sun Kings to a 15 to 5 rout."

It may be that Corky's potential as a major leaguer is better as a catcher and hitter, than as a pitcher. Corky's high school coach, Bemidji's Horace May, has always maintained that Johnson had tremendous possibilities as a catcher. May used Corky as a pitcher in high school mainly because of his strong arm and his fast-ball pitching. And Corky did pitch the Lumberjacks into the state tournament.

An Addition to the Fleet

When Si Schantzen and Darrell Wood get their recently purchased re-conditioned and re-activated boat, the local "fleet" should get quite a boost.

The two purchased a twenty-eight foot inboard launch the other week, and are now busily giving the boat and motor an overhauling. The boat, which has seen service on Lake Superior with the Coast Guard, and as a mail boat on Lake Vermilion, is in good condition. That the boat has power and speed can be judged by the fact that it is powered by a 350-horsepower Kermath gasoline diesel engine.

It is rumored that the boat was able to cover an eight-mile mail route on Lake Vermilion in a bit over two hours! So you can see what Si and Darrell will be doing on Lake of the Woods when they get the hatches battened down!

A boat like this, though, isn't the type to be used for sauger fishing, and that's the fish that are providing most of the action in Lake of the Woods just now.

Minneaplis Set for Aquatennial Opening

When hammers start clattering away on 1962 Aquatennial floats, you know Minneapolis' gay ten-day festival isn't far off. Aquatennial begins Friday, July 13, and continues through Sunday, July 22.

Highlighting this year's "American Folklore" theme, backyard amateurs and professional float builders are beginning to burn the midnight oil in preparation for Aquatennial's two gigantic parades.

The Grande Day Parade, a spectacle which attracts more than a half-million peprsons annually, is set for Saturday afternoon, July 14.

Immediately preceding the parade at 1:30 p. m., St. Louis Park High School's high-kicking 'Parkettes", area drum and bugle corps and those hilariously funny Aqua Jesters will present a pre-parade show at Parade Stadium. Paul Brinegar, star of "Rawhide", will join the fun and line of march.

At 2:30 p. m. sharp, the Minneapolis popiice motorcycle escort will circle Parade Stadium and head for downtown Minneapolis followed by more than 60 majestically decorated floats, 25 bands, and a score of other marching units.

After leaving Parade Stadium, the parade will proceed on Wayzata Blvd. to Lyndale to Harmon to 12th Street, then down Nicollet to South 5th Street, and end up at City Hall.

Nicollet Avenue, a shopper's paradise by day, will be transformed into a veritable "Fairyland" Wednesday night, July 18.

This is the night of Aquatennial's Torchlight Parade. More than 750,000 persons occupy every available foot of space along the two-and-one-half mile route to see this beautiful spectacle under the stars.

Beginning at 7:30 p. m., the Torchlight pre-parade variety show at Parade Stadium will feature Capt. Cresso and his Aqua Rocket Car. Cresso, a Swedish mechanical engineer, literally flies off the end of a ski-type jump and flips over in the air before landing his miniature jet-propelled car on the ground.

Other entertainment scheduled for Parade Stadium that evening includes the winners of three Aquatennial music contests and the Debutantes, an outstanding close harmony girls trio from West St. Paul.

Some of the first items to be manufactured at the Northome plant will be insulated clothing, life jackets, pillows and cushions of various kinds. Directors hope to have farmers cultivate and harvest cattails commercially.

Junior Rodeo at Crookston July 8

Event Is Scheduled in Winter Shows Arena

A Junior Rodeo will be one of the special events of the Pioneer Days celebration to be held in Crookston on July 6, 7, and 8th.

The rodeo will be held Sunday, July 8th, at 3:30 p. m. in the new Winter Shows arena in Crookston. The new arena will provide excellent facilities for the youngsters to show their horsemanship skills, say rodeo officials. Young riders of the ages of 18 years or younger are invited to participate.

The Junior Rodeo is strictly an amateur affair with the winners receiving ribbons for the first 5 places.

The events at the rodeo will be a grand entry, junior western pleasure, clover leaf barrel race, pole bending, ring spearing, harness class (a demonstration), surprise event, boot race and musical chairs.

The Pioneer Days parade on Sunday, July 8th, will begin at 2 p. m. The Junior Rodeo entrants are invited to participate in the parade as well as the rodeo. Both boys and girls are eligible for entry.

GREATEST elephant act in the United States today is the billing given to Woodcock's performing elephants which will appear with the Mario Bros. Circus July 21 and 22 at the Pennington county fair. The act features elephants trained and presented by Bill and Barbara Woodcock and includes their 8-year-old son Bennie, one of the youngest performers in this type of act. These performing pachyderms present tricks in a fast, smooth manner, seemingly without effort. Featured at all of the larger Shrine circuses throughout the northern hemisphere, the act has been booked for the 1962 season by the Mario Bros. Circus. Other animal acts include Nicolini's Chimpanzees, Sandra Jean and Her Military Ponies and Pauline and Her Poodles.

Motorists Warned of Highway Work

Asked to Heed Signs at Construction Sites

This is the season for vacations, fishing trips, picnics and road construction in Minnesota. The Minnesota highway department would like to make a suggestion to motorists to help make the season a more delightful experience.

"Heed those warning signs, slow down and drive carefully through those construction areas," is the Department's advice.

The highway department is exerting every effort to move traffic safely and comfortably through construction work. Contractors are required to install warning signs, barricades, lights and other safety devices; keep the roadway reasonably smooth, have their personnel helpful and courteous to the motorist and provide flagmen to direct traffic where necessary. However, accidents in Minnesota, as elsewhere, indicate that some drivers still fail to exercise their best judgment when traveling on highways where construction or maintenance work is underway.

But the department and its contractors can only go so far. It's up to the driver to cooperate and drive carefully to keep from endangering lives of those in his vehicle and the men working on the road.

For the motorist who encounters an ocasional detour sign or momentary inconvenience along with Minnesota's scenery, he can get consolation from this fact: such signs are his assurance of better highways on his next vacation, fishing trip or picnic.

Accidents in farm homes take approximately 2,600 lives each year. Falls lead the list. Anchor scatter rugs with skid-proof backing, and keep stairs uncluttered and well-lighted.

State Medics Offer Data on Care of Eyes

Do you know and understand the facts about good eye care? If you do, what are you doing about it?

Because there are so many myths and misconceptions about good eye care the Minnesota State Medical association lists these facts:

Television will not harm healthy eyes. Watching television can, however, make you aware of any visual defects which do exist. Most medical eye physicians (ophthalmologists) do agree that there is no such thing as eye strain. The condition experienced by an individual after long periods of reading or viewing television is known as eye fatigue. When this occurs frequently, a medical eye examination is recommended.

Crossed eyes are the result of improper control of the muscles which move the eyes. Treatment should begin as soon as possible in order to prevent possible loss of eyesight.

Glasses, eye drops, exercises, and surgery may be used to correct near-sightedness.

Eating carrots will not help you to see better. Vitamin A helps to produce the chemical reaction involved in seeing. This same vitamin is found in many other sources, including butter, cheese and cream. Because it is impossible to store up vitamin reserves beyond what the body can immediately use, it is a myth to believe that certain foods can be eaten in quantities sufficient to improve poor eye sight.

Children should have an eye examination between the ages of 3 and 5 years. At this age they will be more cooperative, and the correction of problems can be begun before permanent damage is done.

"Second sight," experienced by older persons who suddenly find that they can read without glasses is not always a good sign. This condition may be the formation of a cataract. It may also stem from a sudden rise in blood sugar as in the case of diabetes.

Consult a medical eye doctor whenever there is a sudden or unusual change in eyesight, the association advises.

Proposed Tax on Foreign Earnings Brings Criticism

Businessmen should learn about a proposed legislative measure that will be a "menace to foreign trade and a brake on business growth," the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce said today.

The Chamber, in cooperation with the Minnesota World Trade Association, is sponsoring a noon luncheon meeting for businessmen throughout the state Tuesday, July 10, at Hotel Dyckman, Minneapolis, to explain what it says are "the serious inherent dangers in H. R. 10650." The bill is the Revenue Act of 1962, and contains a provision for taxation of foreign income.

The Chamber warns that businessmen's attention has been focused on the Trade Expansion Act and proposals to lower U. S. Tariffs. "As a result, a 'sleeper' completely inconsistent with trade expansion has been slipped into H. R. 10650 and has virtually gone unnoticed," the business group asserted.

Atherton Bean, president and director of International Milling Company, Minneapolis, and Walter Slowinski, Washington partner of Baker, McKenzie and Hightower law firm, will speak at the meeting.

Businessmen throughout the state are invited to attend this meeting and may obtain further information from the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce, 701 Second Avenue South, Minneapolis 2, Minnesota.

Control Speed, Is Advice to Drivers

Speeding Among 7 Main Causes of Traffic Deaths

"Take time to be safe when you plan your week-end or vacation trips this summer," was the advice to motorists today by Police Chief Elton Cummings in announcing that the state-wide traffic safety theme for June is "Speed Control."

Cummings said that excessive speed is among the seven main causes of fatal traffic accidents in Minnesota. On the national scene, 3 out of 10 fatal accidents resulted from speeding, he said.

"Drivers must take several factors into consideration when trying to decide on a safe speed. They must consider the condition of the vehicle, the road, weather, traffic, and the physical condition of the driver himself. If you are ill or sleepy, you shouldn't be in the driver's seat", he said.

He went on to explain that the danger is not always excessive speed, but the wrong speed at the time. Most fatalities occur on rural highways, where the vacation travel is heaviest and the posted speed limits are higher. Most of the state's crashes happen in urban areas when the motorist is not always exceeding a lower speed limit, but is driving too fast for conditions.

District 'Share Fun' Festival at Crookston July 17

Minnesota 4-H'ers will participate in six district Share the Fun festivals during July. The district events in this area will be held July 17 at 7:30 p. m. at Crookston, Northwest School and Station.

District and state participants are chosen on the basis of their ability to contribute to a well rounded entertainment program. No winners are chosen.

Editorials . . .

"The man who is anybody and who does anything is surely going to be criticized, vilified, and misunderstood. This is a part of the penalty for greatness, and every man understands it; and understands, too, that it is no proof of greatness. The final proof of greatness lies in being able to endure contumely without resentment."

Chuckles Abroad

Maybe we should get a little consolation out of the fact that some of the political incidents that are so disturbing to us here at home do provide a few chuckles for our foreign friends. The following observation by the London Sunday Telegraph came to us through the Financial Post of Toronto, Canada:

"Wall Street fluctuations have produced a new Kennedy joke. The President's father is alleged to have exclaimed in dismay at the falling prices: 'To think I voted for that 's.o.b.' More knowledgeable financiers reject this remark as unlikely. Mr. Joseph Kennedy has always liked bear markets. In 1929 he not only got out before the big crash, but sold short and made a considerable addition to his fortune."

They Fear Us

Jacques Muhlethaler, a Swiss peace crusader, recently spent five weeks in Red China, and during that time he talked to many Chinese officials. He reports that:

"All of them spoke of their fear of the United States. Not one of the officials I met failed to speak of it. I had the impression that they were very badly informed. They said the United States wants war. But when I asked them why, they could not answer."

We must assume that this Swiss peace crusader has given an honest report of his reaction to Chinese opinion. If the Chinese leaders actually fear us, and believe that it is our intention to destroy them, then it is high time that we take a second look at our own international public relations program.

Possibly those who speak for our country irritate the foreigners as much as they do us and if that is true then we can understand why the foreigners mistrust us. Maybe we should take a second look at our own program of diplomacy. Possibly we will discover that we ourselves are responsible for many of the international misunderstandings that irritate us.

Working Hours

President Kennedy is said to be resisting the pressure of organized labor for a shorter work week. If the President maintains a firm stand on this issue he will regain for himself much of the confidence of the nation's business leaders.

A shorter work-week with take-home pay remaining at its present level would add substantially to the nation's labor costs and make us still less competitive in world markets. The average hours of work by an employee in manufacturing in our country is the lowest of all industrial nations. The following figures are based on a United Nations survey.

The average number of hours worked in manufacturing in our country is now 39.8. The number in other countries are as follows, New Zealnad, 40.2; Canada, 40.6; Finland 43.4; West Germany 45.3; France 45.7; Switzerland 45.8; Britain 46.4, and Japan 50.8.

These figures tell a fairly convincing story about why we have an unemployment problem in our country. There was a time when manufacturing in our country had a big advantage through mass production. But we no longer are alone in mass production methods. We now are competing with nations that are rapidly becoming just as well equipped for mass production as we are and who have skilled workers who are willing to do more work for less pay.

A further cut in our working hours is not the proper solution for this problem.

Hi Caroline

Canadians generally reacted calmly to the austerity program prescribed suddenly and unexpectedly by Prime Minister Diefenbaker shortly after the election. He told his people frankly that his government was in financial trouble and that it would be necessary for them to tighten their belts, work harder, and do their part in helping their country cut out a lot of foolishness and get back to living within its means.

Typical of the reactions thruout the country were the views expressed by the Winnipeg newspapers, the Free Press and the Tribune, one liberal and the other conservative. Said the conservative Tribune:

"The Canadian people have finally been given the harsh facts of our financial problems. The prime minister's statement of Sunday was direct. The government has acted with firm decision to cope with the immediate crisis involving a run on our dollar.

"This is a time for straight-talk and complete candor on the part of the government. Only this kind of attitude will bring the support of the people in this difficult time. Canadians have shown in the past they can take bad news as long as they know what it is all about. The emergency measures that have been announced are described by Ottawa correspondents as "mild austerity" and more far reaching actions still may be required if we are to get out of the corner we are in.

"If more bad-tasting medicine is part of the prescription for recovery then the government should not hesitate to make it known to the public. Above all this is not a time for weak-kneed leadership and for men without the courage to speak the hard truth."

Commented the liberal, anti-Diefenbaker Free Press:

"The bitter fruits of years of financial mismanagement and living beyond our means have ripened.

"Since the Canadian dollar was pegged at 92.5 cents U.S. in May, Canadian exchange reserve funds have been depleted at an alarming rate in order to stop the dollar from falling further still. Mr. Diefenbaker annouced on Sunday that Canada has, in effect, borrowed or made arrangements to borrow, $1,050 millions to bolster up the rapidly falling reserves. Undoubtedly this is necessary. But it constitutes further borrowing and cannot of itself get this country out of the hole into which it has dug itself. That will require sacrifice on the part of us all; and the more important half of the prime minister's weekend statement was devoted to the form this belt-tightening will take.

"None of this is pleasant. But it must be done; and a great deal more may have to be done if confidence is to be restored abroad in Canada. It is perhaps only justice that it should be Mr. Diefenbaker who has been forced to make the announcement, for it is in no small way due to his government's string of ever-increasing budgetary deficit's that the situation is as bad as it is. But the blame cannot be laid entirely at Diefenbaker's door. The previous Liberal administration must shoulder part of the responsibility. It too had payment deficits, although the effects of these were hidden by inrushing American capital. But had a Liberal government been elected last Monday, it would have been Mr. Pearson's unpleasant task to do what Mr. Diefenbaker has been forced to do."

The Financial Post, Canada's Wall Street Journal, devoted a page of charts explaining the country's difficulties, addressed to Miss Caroline Kennedy, suggesting that she show it to her father; a nice way of telling us that what has happened north of the border may happen to us. Along with the charts went the following interesting commentary:

"Hi Caroline. The fuss in Canada is no pony talk. Look at the simple pictures, sweetie. Dief's got problems. Show THIS to your Dad.

"Our government has been spending piles and piles of money. Ottawa's budgetary expenditures have tripled since 1949.

"But because we're producing Canadians faster than goods, everybody's share is smaller—. After removing the effects of inflation, each Canadian's share of Gross National Product rose by 22% between 1949 and 1956. Since 1956 real per capita GNP has dropped by 3½%.

"And lots more Canadians haven't got any job at all. The per cent of Canada's work force looking for jobs has increased from 2.6% in 1953 to 5.6% in 1962.

"Sales to foreign countries aren't bringing in as much money as they used to. Canada's foreign sales contribute 10% less to national income than they did in 1949.

"And businessmen aren't earning as much profit as they used to. Since 1960 profits have dropped from almost 6% to 3.2% of sales.

"So they aren't spending as much on new plants and machinery. Corporate outlays which powered Canada thru the 1956 boom, are down 15%.

"What with all these troubles the government has got itself into debt. Deficit this year originally estimated at $745 million may now be cut to $295 million by new austerity measures.

"And we owe more to foreign countries than they owe to us. We have nine successive years of running in the red.

"So people think our dollar isn't worth nearly as much as yours and that, Caroline, is trouble.

The Financial Post's letter to Caroline, and the expressed hope that she would pass the information along to her daddy, was not prompted by a benevolent concern for our welfare. Our Canadian neighbors have a selfish interest in our welfare. Their economy is geared closely to ours, and if our economy should suffer a collapse, Canada would be adversely effected along with us.

The Financial Post obviously is hopeful that we will take the necessary action to strengthen our economy before such action is forced upon us by national bankruptcy. The Canadians now recognize their stupidity and are taking the steps that are necessary to restore the health of their sick economy. They are hopeful that we now will pro t by their mistakes.

We are all hopeful that their message to Caroline will somehow get through to her pa.

When in Washington a couple of months ago I invited Conrad Wirth Director of the National Park Service (son of Theo. Wirth of Minneapolis park fame) to come back to Minnesota, to dedicate Bear Head Lake State Park at Ely-Tower—and then to tour some of Minnesota's border lakes country with me.

He accepted and last week he was here. The program at Bear Head Lake was excellent. This new state park of 5,000 acres, with a potential of 15,000, includes several lakes, and rugged well-forested terrain. It is 8 miles from Ely, 12 from Tower and there is not another state park within 50 miles. We have a program of development underway and campers and picnickers are already enjoying this lovely spot.

From the Ely area we drove to International Falls and early last Wednesday were on the water to inspect the Kabetogema Peninsula. The group included Mr. Wirth; Mr. Howard Baker, Regional Director of the National Park Service, Russ Fridley, Director of the Minnesota Historical Society; Sigurd Olson, well-known writer and devotee of the border lakes country; Clarence Prout, Commissioner of Conservation, and a number of other departmental and private individuals.

The Kabetogema peninsula is east of International Falls in the Rainy Lake area. It is large—over 100,000 acres. Although there has been some cutting of pulp wood, and vacationers have used it for years, it is for the most part in its natural state. There are bear, moose, deer, many smaller animals, and hosts of birds. There is a rugged shore line and occasional sandy beaches. We went all around it, stopping for lunch at Kettle Falls where the Williams gave us a great feed.

Mr. Wirth was greatly impressed with the vastness, rugged beauty, clear blue water and everything else about the area. We agreed it should be made available for more people to use—and also that its wilderness character should be preserved for posterity.

One way to do this very effectively would be to have the U. S. Congress establish it as a national park. As the day drew toward a close and we continued to be overwhelmed by the spectacular beauty of the peninsula and its enormous recreational potential, I drafted a statement as the consensus of the federal, state and private interest representatives present. In effect it said that the possibilities of this area as a national park were so encouraging that all parties involved should cooperate to make a detailed study to determine if a national park should be established. We even thought of a possible name — The Voyageur Waterways National Park.

A national park in Minnesota would be a tremendous magnet drawing tourists to our state, as well as a great recreational resource for our own people. It would be saving for all time a unique natural area.

You will be hearing more of this. It is a big job, and won't be accomplished over night but there is no time to be lost. As all of us went our separate ways we were happy and refreshed from a visit to this lovely part of Minnesota and from a knowledge that we had participated in a significant, yes, even an historic, meeting.

Former Editor of Holt Weekly Is Poetry Publisher

Ben Hagglund Featured In Palo Alto Times for Hobby of Publishing

Ben Hagglund, former editor of the Holt Weekly News, was featured in a recent edition of the Palo Alto Times in California. A member of the Redwood City Tribune staff, Hagglund was featured for his quarterly publication of "Caravel", a poetry magazine which he publishes as a hobby.

The article notes that the 4½ x 7½ inch book contains 24 pages of poetry and is printed on a foot-powered press in the Hagglund home at 1065 Runnymede street, East Palo Alto. His publishing of poetry dates back to 1928 at Holt when he published a monthly poetry magazine called the "Northern Light".

'Caravel" pays five cents a line with a minimum of $1 for poems used and gives aspiring poets an opportunity to have their works published and distributed. Hagglund feels he has had a part in launching several notable writers, including Clement Wood, Frank Yerby and David Cornel deJong.

Most of the poems are short, ranging from 16 to 100 lines, with scope of acceptance restricted to verse that dramatizes people and places and shows richness of the world's cultures. Hagglund and his wife Isabel have lived in Palo Alto since 1954. He is the brother of Mrs. John Reed of Thief River Falls.

Water Safety Program Given To Rotary Club

Roger Dorn, William Herzog Present Talks At Monday Meeting

Roger Dorn, director of the Tindolph Park swimming and recreation area, and William Herzog, Red Cross water safety instructor and lifeguard at the pool, presented the noon program for the Thief River Falls Rotary club on Monday.

J. M. Roche, new president of the local organization, accepted the gavel from past president Milton Schlecter and presented Schlecter with the past president's pin and name button. Schlechter announced that the local club was represented at the Baudette club's charter night Friday by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dow, Mr. and Mrs. Russ Embury, Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Prichard, Roche and Schlechter. A total of 197 guests attended the charter night ceremonies.

In presenting a review of what the beach area has to offer youngsters, Dorn noted that the pool is open seven days per week with hours from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. Monday through Saturday and noon to 9 p. m. on Sundays and holidays. In addition to swimming facilities and water equipment, the area offers a playground for sports enthusiasts of all ages.

Herzog stated that about 250 youngsters participate in the water safety program which is sponsored by the American Red Cross. About 110 of these are in the beginners class, he said, with one group of this class being for youngsters five and six years old and the second group for children 7-12. These classes are designed to help take away fear of water from the youngsters, develop respect for the water and in the older group to teach them to propel themselves through the water.

Intermediate training teaches different swimming strokes and gives the water enthusiasts additional confidence. Recipients of certificates in beginner and intermediate classes may advance to the Swimmers section of the program. This is the most advanced phase of swiming instruction and includes the mastering of the various swimming strokes.

Interested young swimmers may advance to junior lifesaving if they are 11 to 16 years of age, Herzog said. At the completion of this course they must be able to swim 250 yeards, dive off the high board, stay under water for 15 seconds and swim for a distance under water. In senior lifesaving the class member must swim 440 yards, using three strokes, stay under water for 20 seconds, swim under water for a greater distance and know how to remove outer clothing while under water. Planned Highway Construction in District Listed

1963-1965 Projects Are Published; Pennington To Have One Project

State highway construction in the Second District of the Minnesota Highway Department during the fiscal years of 1963 through 1965 will total $7,424,000, according to a schedule of projects released recently by the department. The total covers 23 projects in the construction programs for regular trunk highways in the counties of Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Marshall, Beltrami, Koochiching, Polk, Pennington, Red Lake, Norman, Clearwater, Hubbard and Itasca.

During the 1963, 1964 and 1965 period, a total of $47,472,000 is expected to be expended on regular trunk highways and interstate highways in Minnesota. Of the total, regular highways will cost $95,735,000 and interstate routes will cost $151,737,000.

Only one project is slated for Pennington county, that being the grading and bituminous base for Highway 1 from the north county line to the north junction of Highway 59, a distance of 13.5 miles, at a cost of $463,000. Proposed letting of the contract will be in the second quarter of 1964.

Marshall county has two projects scheduled. They include base and surfacing of 8 miles on highway 220 from seven miles north of highway 1 to highway 317 at a cost of $285,000; and grading and surfacing of 1.4 miles on highway 317 from the west state line to highway 220 at a cost of $65,000. Both projects are scheduled for letting in the last quarter of 1964.

Nine projects will be carried on in Polk county with one of them being the Minnesota share at $900,000 of a bridge on highway 307 over the Red River in East Grand Forks. Another $900,000 project will be grading and surfacing of 4.5 miles on highway 307 from the bridge to highway 2. Third largest project in Polk county will be the grading and bituminous base of a second roadway 8.8 miles in length from Fosston to .2 miles west of the east county line on highway 2 at a cost of $740,000.

Grant Extension On Soil Bank Hay

Enactment of a law which makes permanent the one-year authority for soil bank hay harvesting has now been accomplished and will allow farmers in northwest Minnesota to harvest soil bank hay after June 30. Without the new legislation, the authority would have expired last Saturday and soil bank hay would not have been available to farmers needing it for livestock feed.

Notification of the extension was made by Senators Hubert H. Humphrey and Eugene J. McCarthy early this week in a special letter to the Times. Both Senators worked for Congressional approval of the legislation after being informed of the shortage of hay in this area due to extremely wet field conditons.

The Senate and House of Representatives acted quickly on approval of the bill to make permanent the one-year authority for soil bank hay harvesting which was enacted after last year's severe drought in western and northern Minnesota. Under the bill, farmers pay a fair price for harvesting hay from soil bank areas under the supervision of county ASC committees.

Seventeen of the county disaster committees, including Pennington, Marshall and Red Lake, are expected to request authority to take advantage of the program.

Elaine's CHATTER

Did you ever stop and think what we do with all the time we are saving in this modern age!

Many years ago man used to walk, then came the Ox and cart to get places faster — to save time. Then came the horse and buggy, faster and more time saved. Then the first cars, which got you at least 20 miles per hour, saved some more time.

Now we have the high powered cars, super highways and jet planes — get there faster, save some more time. What are we doing with all this time we are saving? Wouldn't it be nice if we could deposit all this saved time in the bank, then when we reach the age of 65 or more, just write out checks on this time.

Guess we Americans just don't know how to live, relax and really enjoy life. With all the modern automatic things we have to save us some time for relaxation — we can't. We have all the modern, automatic gadgets — washers, dryers, roasters, toasters, lawn mowers, etc., all to save time for relaxation, but we have no time for relaxation. Here is what happens to all this time we save. We have to get extra jobs, work longer hours to make more money to pay for all these time saving items.

Why not take a little time and stop in at Elaine's and get a dress FREE. Sure, you buy one of regular price and get another one free. If you can't use two dresses, bring a friend and divide the cost.

Save time and money at Elaine's. Open 'till 9 P.M. on Friday nights.

660,000 4-H'ers Wage Safety Drive in U.S.

The impact of 660,000 dedicated boys and girls working for safety is bound to make a sizeable dent in accident statistics. These safety-minded youths are 4-H club members representing just about every county from coast to coast.

Based on last year's statistics, it is estimated that around 5,000 members will qualify for a 1962 safety medal award. One 4-H'er from Minnesta will be selected to be safety delegate to the National 4-H Club Congress opening in Chicago, Nov. 25.

The trip plus eight $400 college scholarships will again be sponsored by General Motors, donor of the national 4-H Safety program awards for the 19th straight year.

Activities in virtually every kind of safety are undertaken by the 4-H'ers. For example, Jefferson County, Colo. is credited with pioneering rifle safety in the state with the cooperation of several state, county and national agencies.

Residents of Rock County, Ill., benefited from stepped up information on the Civil Defense program brought about through the efforts of local 4-H clubs. Safety tips on use of power lawnmowers reached about 4,000 residents of Portage County, Ohio. Club members personally delivered and explained the bulletins to neighbors.

Obeying safe driving rules is urged, especially during vacation months when thousands of cars throughout the state take to the open road. Safe operation of automobiles and tractors is another facet of the 4-H program.

In 1963, special emphasis will be placed on fire prevention, including fires likely to start from faulty electrical wiring or appliances, according to the national 4-H safety development committee.

Legion Jrs. Bow to Lake Bronson

The Lake Bronson juniors utilized their extra-base power to defeat the Thief River Falls juniors, 5-1, in an American Legion district conference junior baseball game played at Lake Bronson on Tuesday evening.

Coach Ralph Skay's local club will meet the East Grand Forks juniors on the Fair Grounds diamond on Thursday evening, July 5, at 6:30 p. m. And on Monday, July 9, the club will travel to Fosston for a 6:30 p. m. game.

With the bases loaded and two out in the first inning, Lake Bronson's Alan Anderberg poled a two-run double to the fence in right-center to give Lake Bronson a 2-0 lead. Tony Poole struck out Lake Bronson's lead-off batter, Marsh Vagle, but walks to Wally Sele and Jim Erickson, and infield out, and a walk to Roy Larson, filled the bases.

The locals picked up a run in the third inning when, after Rick Jensen had struck out, Mark Anderson drew a walk, advanced to second when Gerry Erickson also was given a walk. A passed ball moved the runners to third and second, and Mike Aune's fly ball to right field, which was caught by Bill Olson, permitted Anderson to score what proved to be the locals' lone tally.

Lake Bronson added a three-run cluster in the fifth inning when, after Rick Jensen had stuck out, Mark Anderson drew a walk, advanced to second when Wally Sele opened with a double, and after Jim Erickson had whiffed, Poole gave a walk to Gene Prosser, and the southpaw-swinging Roy Larson drilled a home run over the right field fence.

Jack Leedahl came in from left field to take over the pitching duties for the locals, and he gave up but one hit in the one-inning plus that he hurled.

Meanwhile righthander Gene Prosser was limiting the locals to a lone safety, that being a looping single into left field by Jensen in the fifth inning.

Falls Speedway Racing Season Opened Sunday

Spud Manning Captures Three Events; More Cars Promised This Sunday

Racing at the Falls Speedway got off to a fast start Sunday, in spite of threatening skies and rain which fell heavily in other areas and discouraged a number of area drivers from coming to participate. Seven more cars are promised for this Sunday's races which begin with time trials at 7 p. m.

Spud Manning of Thief River Falls, driving a hot number 10 car, had a field day at the Sunday races. He monopolized the time trials with a dazzling 17.5 seconds, swept the first heat of racing and also won the Class A feature race. Dale Sevre won the trophy race. Additional entertainment was provided by Gabby the Clown who will be a new contender and participant at the speedway this year.

Results of the time trials were as follows: Spud Manning, TRF, 17.5; Red Monroe, TRF, 19.2; Lyle Bjorge, TRF, 19.2; Dale Sevre, TRF, 20.5; Bob Scheets, TRF, 21; Larry Jensen, Middle River, 21.2; Larry Miller, Ada, 23.2; and Butch Manning, TRF, 23.5. A match race between Monroe and Bjorge will be a feature in this Sunday's racing.

Sevre finished second to Manning in the first heat of racing Sunday with Red Monroe finishing third in the heat. Miller swept the second heat with Butch Manning in second place and Larry Jensen third.

Finishing in order behind Manning in the Class A feature race were Bjorge, Miller and Butch Manning. Jensen won the Class B feature with Miller second and Bob Scheets third.

Road Outlays Now $2.6 Billion a Year

Total Is 35 Times as Much as Sixty Years Ago

The approximately $2.6 billion per year currently being spent on America's rural roads is almost 35 times as much as was spent on them at the turn of the century.

In 1906, the bureau of public roads estimate, the nation's counties and townships spent about $75 million to build and maintain rural roads. But, as automobile use spread to the farm, rural roads required higher and higher outlays. By 1915, says the BPR, the total expenditure was $280 million. It reached a billion in 1921, $1.3 billion in 1930, dipped during the depression years to $600 million in 1934 and has soared to its present level in the years since World War II.

The methods of raising rural highway funds have changed too. At the turn of the century, most funds were raised through property taxes. In addition, many areas levied "labor taxes." These replaced the citizen's traditional duty of contributing his own labor to construction of his comunity's roads. But in some areas this labor was still required.

Until the 1920's, these sources remained the main providers of rural highway revenue. Gradually, borrowing and road-user taxes became more popular. Today, all sources provide substantial portions of the rural highway funds.

Roseau Co. Bridge Job Let by State

The Minnesota highway department has announced the awarding of $496,864 for ten federal-aid secondary road improvement jobs in nine counties let during the week of June 11.

The work includes sand-gravel sub-base, gravel, crushed rock and road-mixed bituminous base, road-mixed and plant-mixed bituminous surfacing on 30.7 miles of secondary roads and the construction of a bridge.

The projects included one in Roseau county. CSAH 3 — Construction of a bridge over the Roseau river, 9.2 miles north of Badger. Swingen Construction Co., Grand Forks, N. D., $61,455, lowest of five bids. Work is scheduled to begin July 9 and be completed by September 1, 1963.

Heavy Rainfall Noted Tuesday, More Expected

Heavy rainfall in Thief River Falls Tuesday evening curtailed some early July Fourth preparations but the day itself was generally free of precipitation. North Central Airlines records at the municipal airport recorded only .59 inch of rain Tuesday evening but much heavier rainfal was noted in several other portions of the area.

High and low temperatures for the past several days include 69 and 56 on Monday, 81 and 63 on Tuesday and 78 and 59 on Wednesday with a low reading of 54 degrees last night. Highs today are predicted to hit 78 degrees with low readings tonight of 42 to 48. Scattered showers and thunder showers are also predicted.

A Welcome Visitor

A welcome visitor in town, and making his first visit here since 1942, is Arnold Stadum of Portland Oregon. To old time high school fans, Arnold is well-known for he was a guard on coach Roger Dooley's Prowler basketball squad of 1931-32. This is the team that brought the first state high school basketball championship to Lincoln high school.

The years have treated Arnold kindly, for he carries the same weight as he did as a Prowler all-round athlete.

On that 1932 squad, in addition to Arnold, were John Chommie, Wendell Kielty, Art Myrom, Lloyd Aanstad, Paul Dahl, Lawrence Nicholson, Ing Hendrickson, John Langseth, and Les Ihle. And the coach, Roger Dooley.

The team posted a season's record of twenty-three wins and no losses. In tournament play the Prowlers had a comparatively easy time except for the district finals. In district play the Prowlers scored a 53 to 5 win over Oklee, a 38 to 10 win over Warren, and a 19 to 18 win over East Grand Forks.

In Region Eight play the Prowlers defeated Twin Valley in a first-round game, and then scored a 29 to 19 over coach Buck Robbins' Bemidji Lumberjacks. Moving into the state tourney, the Prowlers defeated Balaton, 31 to 17, in a first-round game. Then defeated Winona, 17 to 12, in the semi-finals; and won the state title by defeating the Chisholm Blue Streaks, 21 to 15, in the finals.

Not Quite as Fast

It is evident that the Norman-Polk league, which has sent a representative to the state tournament the past couple of seasons, is not as fast a league as in former years.

A league can't lose such ballplayers as Ken Weber of Ada, Arlo Brunsberg of Fertile, Harold (Smokey) Johnson of Twin Valley, Bill Korn, Bob Hallameck and Daryl Foster of Erskine, and expect to produce a comparable brand of baseball.

Weber and Brunsberg are making a bid for careers in professional baseball. Weber signed with the Pittsburgh Pirates organization and is with the Grand Forks Chiefs. Brunsberg joined the Detroit Tigers' Thomasville, Georgia club. Foster is playing with the Bagley Merchants; Johnson is manager of the Detroit Lakes Lakers; Korn is in summer recreation in central Minnesota; and Hallameck has just returned from college and has not joined a club.

The Crookston Pirates, who are currently sharing the league lead with the Twin Valley Twins, are considerably stronger than last season, being well-supplied with veterans. Rex Rupert, the former Northern league pitcher, and he hasn't been out of pro ball very many years, heads the Pirates' pitching staff. In addition, manager Rod Olstad can call on righthanders Dick Palmer and Orv Bergman for pitching duty. The Pirates will be the club to beat.

Some Problems

The age limit for boys participating in the American Legion's junior baseball program has, over the past couple of seasons, been increased by about a year. And this increase has made for a better brand of baseball, which is natural as the boys participating are more mature and experienced. But it has created problems, too.

The local team has had three of their home games postponed or cancelled because the visiting teams were not able to have their players available for the games. Many of these older boys, on the Legion teams, are engaged in summer-time jobs, and it is impossible for these working boys to always get time off. This is especially true in the smaller towns where the squads are small. The Legion posts in such cities as Fargo, Moorhead, Grand Forks, Crookston, Thief River Falls, are favored by having a large player pool. On the occasions when some of the "regulars" can not be in action, these teams can call on their "benches" to complete their lineups.

Area FU Youths Go to Colorado

Fifty-eight Farmers Union Young people and their leader, Mrs. Lura Reimnitz, state education director for the Minnesota Farmers Union, leave their home area July 5th and 6th in two Farmers Union buses to spend ten days in the Rocky Mountains of Colorado; attending the National Farmers Union allstates camp.

Enroute to the Camp they will visit the Bad Lands of South Dakota; the Black Hills area, Mt. Rushmore, and other scenic spots. At the camp they will be a part of some 250 campers from eleven states where they will participate in discussion groups.

Those from this immediate area who are on the trip are Ronald Dargus, Thief River Falls; Larry Arnold, Angus; Walter Straus, E. Grand Forks; DeVere Chapman and Bonnie Rokke, Newfolden and Carole Ostby, Grygla.

Bit and Bridle Club to Elect Officers Sunday

Annual meeting with election of officers will be held by the Bit and Bridle club of Goodridge on Sunday beginning with a pot-luck dinner at 1 p. m. at the Robert Prestebak farm. The business meeting will follow the dinner and all prospective members, 12 years of age or older, are invited to attend.

Horsemanship competition during the afternoon and several awards will be given in various divisions.

A number of club members presented an amateur horse show on Wednesday at the Fourth of July celebration held at Highlanding. Taking part in the show were Robert Prestebak, club president, Lynn and Norma Hanson, Jerry, Jim and Danny Cullum, Karol Sevre and Linda Swanson and several members of the Thief River Falls Saddle club. The Goodridge riders were attired in their riding habit which includes white hats and shirts and black boots.

Telephone Use Shows Increase at Local Office

Increase of 3,771 long distance telephone calls during March, April and May at the Northwestern Bell telephone office in Thief River Falls over the corresponding period a year ago was noted this year, according to James Koller, company manager. A greater number of calls would have been expected if it were not for the wet spring season when there was little rush for supply shipments, Koller said.

Overall during the period the Bell companies gained 731,000 telephones as compared with 618,000 in the same months of 1961. The volume of long distance messages increased by 8.5 per cent over the 1961 corresponding period. Number of telephones locally increased by 33 over the same period a year ago.

Fewer Drownings Reported in State to June 25, 1962

"If this year's safety record continues, 57 persons will be alive by January 1 who might have drowned in Minnesota. State deaths from drowning to June 25 were 34, compared with 53 at the same date a year ago," said Carl W. Moen, chairman of water safety for the Minnesota Safety Council.

"Projected over the entire year, the current drowning figure would indicate a total of 78 deaths for the season, far under the 10-year average of 135," Moen said. "It even could fall below the low record of 87 set in 1956. This should in no way relax the vigilance of those responsible for safety, particularly of youngsters."

Moen noted that the drowning table closely parallels the summer temperatures. A cool early season has lessened water activities.

Rain and wet grounds forced postponement of Sunday's three-game schedule in the Norman-Polk league. On Monday night, the Twin Valley Twins, with Tom Hanson hurling a one-hitter, defeated the Ada Athletics, 3-1, in a game played at Ada. The win boosted the Twins into a first-place tie with the idle Crookston Pirates.

On Thursday night, manager Joey Poole's Thief River Falls Thieves will travel to Twin Valley for a game. This is a rescheduling of the Thieves vs. Twin Valley game of June 10, which was postponed because of rain.

The league's All-Star game will be played at Fertile Thursday night, July 19. A squad selected from the teams in the north half of the league — Crookston, Fosston, Erskine, and Thief River Falls — will meet a team chosen from the clubs in the south half of the league — Fertile, Ada, Twin Valley, and Halstad.

Two Districts of Missouri Synod Set up for State

A resolution affecting the work of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod in Minnesota was passed at the convention of this church-body in Cleveland, Ohio, when it was resolved to divide the Minnesota district into two, thus forming a new district, "Minnesota North", and renaming the southern "Minnesota South". The dividing line will be just south of St. Cloud, Willmar, Granite Falls and Canby.

The north district will have 42,000 members and 234 congregations, while there will be 85,000 members in the south and 211 congregations.

The city in which the new "Minnesota North" district will have its headquarters has not yet been selected. The date on which the division will actually take place is to be set at the Board of Director's meeting in St. Paul July 7.

WILDLIFE in Minnesota

DIRECTOR OF GAME & FISH

Buttons sat on Lloyd Lindvall's lap! This may not sound like an earth-shaking event but it takes on added significance as the details are unveiled.

Lindvall, as you may know, is our budding Youth Conservation Program, but Buttons is not a youth. No, Buttons is a full-grown horse.

The plot thickens even more when we learn that Buttons is owned by Lindvall's compatriot, Don Murray, who heads up the Youth Firearms Safety Program.

Murray says, "I can't understand how it happened, Buttons is a well-trained horse."

I presume a horse could be trained to sit on people but this is pure speculation on my part, and I'm sure the fact that both Lindvall and Murray come from the Warden Service had nothing to do with the incident.

Lindvall is bruised but not broken. After two days in the hospital and a few days convalescing he will be back to normal—that is, as normal as ever. One always will wonder, we suppose, about a follow who lets a horse sit in his lap. We do not wish to appear unsympathetic about this thing, and we aren't. As far as we can learn, Butons, the "well-trained" horse came out of the wrangle without a scratch.

One facet of the altercation is serious. We just cannot afford to have Lindvall lying around nursing the place the horse sat on when so much is to be done on the Youth Conservation Education Program.

Real progress is being made on this program, too. John McKane, newly-appointed editor of our Department magazine, The Conservation Volunteer, came up with an ideal name. This youth movement and the kids in it will be known as the Conservation Volunteers.

The time of the school at Whitewater State Park for volunteer instructors has been altered slightly to make attendance easier. The first session will be Tuesday thru Friday, August 21-24, and the second will be Friday thru Sunday August 24-26. Friday will be an overlap day attended by both groups.

All teachers for the school have not yet been selected, but Sig Olson has agreed to spend at least one day with us. We also are pleased that Dr. Malcolm M. Hargraves will address each group every evening — pulling together those things learned during the day. Presumably everyone knows Dr. Hargraves, whose accomplishments in conservation education are excelled only by his advancements in medical research at the Mayo Clinic.

Neither class at the Whitewater school has been filled up, so if you wish to become a teacher in the Conservation Volunteers movement write to us soon. ("Conservation Volunteers," Minnesota Conservation Dept., St. Paul, 1, Minn.)

The Whitewater is a beautiful area with many recreational facilities. However, in order to protect our highly competent C. V. leader, no horses named Buttons will be allowed in the area between the 21st and the 26th of August.

Kiddies Day Will Be Feature of Pennington Fair

Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon and evening programs will feature the Marlo Bros. Circus with a full repertoire of circus acts. These will include trapeze stars, juggling, trampoline act, foot balancing, wire walking, clowns and a number of animal acts including performing elephants, dogs, ponies and chimpanzees.

To assist in operating the four-day event this year, the last year in which the present fair group will handle the operation, the association is requesting volunteer assistance from the newly-organized Pennington County Fair association which has been formed to continue the county fair. Help will be utilized for selling and collecting tickets, handling clerical work at the exhibits and preparations of the grounds.

Another meeting of the directors is planned for Wednesday evening of next week when last-minute details will be given consideration. Any persons in the new organization who would be able to provide their services in any of the above areas of responsibility are requested to contact Kenneth Onken prior to the Wednesday meeting.

Importance of lifesaving knowledge was emphasized by Herzog when he commended Dorn for the rescue and revival of 17-year-old Donald Kooyer at the pool about a week ago. Had it not been for the rescue efforts of Dorn, Herzog stated, the boy almost surely would have drowned.

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Volume Fifty-one | Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota | Thursday, July 5, 1962 | Number Fifty-four EXPERIMENT Pictured above is State Rep. Dick Fitzsimons of Argyle inspecting his new field shelterbelt planting. This is a special planting in that Fitzsimons volunteered to try various weed control chemicals on the planting of small Manchurian elm seedlings.

He is in an area where simazine weed chemical was used. The three other chemicals, atrazine, amiben, and one other unnamed chemical are also showing good results.

Of course, Mr. Fitzsimons is aware of the caution extended by University of Minnesota Forester Marvin Smith that these chemicals furnished by them could possibly leach down into the root zone and kill some of the trees. He is willing to take the risk to see what will result in Marshall county.

So far, these weedicides have shown good results and promise to be a boon to tree planting in the area, reports the county extension office.

⅓ Federal Highway Taxes Diverted in '61

Only about two-thirds of the federal road-user taxes paid by America's motorists are allocated to the highway trust fund, according to the Bureau of Public Roads. The remaining third goes into the federal government's general fund.

In 1961 about $4.2 billion in taxes on highway products was collected by the federal government. About $2.8 billion of this was allocated to the highway program. Minnesota motorists paid $84,762,000 in road-user taxes while the state got back only $55,743,000 in federal aid.

Sources of the federal taxes are:

Four cents per gallon on gasoline, diesel and special fuels.

Six cents per gallon on lubricating oil.

Ten cents per pound on tires and inner tubes and five cents on off-highway tires and retread rubber.

Ten per cent of sales price of new automobiles and motorcycles.

Ten per cent of sales price of new trucks, buses and trailers.

Eight per cent of sales price of vehicle parts and accessories.

Three dollars per 1,000 pounds of total weight per year on vehicles over 26,000 pounds gross weight.

All of the taxes paid for fuel, tires and heavy vehicles goes into the highway trust fund. After June 30, 1962 all taxes on buses, trucks and trailers will go into the fund. Previously only 50 per cent had gone into it. None of the taxes on oil, new cars and motorcycles and parts and accessories goes to the fund.

This system though revised, has been in operation since July 1, 1956. Before that all road-user taxes went into the general fund.

In apportioning the funds thus collected, the government does not distribute money to the states in proportion to how much their citizens paid in taxes. The apportionments, as prescribed in legislation passed by Congress, are based, instead, on relative population, area and mileage of rural delivery and star mail routes in each state. On Interstate highways since 1960, the formula for distributing funds has been based on the state's portion of the total cost of the program.

Need Both Asphalt and Concrete on Interstate Roads

Highway Officials Assn. Reports on Exhaustive Tests Made in Illinois

Both asphaltic concrete and portland cement concrete-surfaced highways can be built to carry the expected heavy loads of Interstate Highways according to the report of a two-year test recently conducted by the American Association of State Highway Officials.

In the most extensive experiment of its kind ever conducted, 126 trucks were driven continuously for two years over a specially-built series of test pavements and bridges of different designs and composed of different materials. The trucks were of varying weights, including some which would normally be illegally overweight.

The complicated construction of the multi-surfaced road was done by the S. J. Groves Co. of Minneapolis. Sections of the test road will be incorporated into future Interstate Highway 80 near Ottawa, Ill.

Experiments involving asphaltic pavement, protland cement pavement and short-span bridges were conducted over 836 test sections. Each section was of a different design or thickness of pavement, with one roadway built of portland cement concrete and the other of asphaltic concrete. Six test loops were involved, each subjected to different truck loadings.

Traveling at a constant speed of 35 miles per hour, the test vehicles rolled up more than 17 million miles of travel. The trucks were driven by men from the armed forces.

In the report no attempt was made to directly compare the two types of surfacing asphalt and portland cement — but there were sections of each which proved of adequate strength and durability.

Many of the thinner sections were deliberately designed to fail under the loads. Some of these, both asphalt and cement, held up well until a critical point was reached and then failed rapidly.

Others of both types maintained good surfaces throughout the experiment. In fact, some of the thicker of these proved to be over-designed.

$2.5 Million Bid on Nine Road Jobs

Million Dollar Job Is Let in Big Stone County

Apparent low bids totaling $2,556,843 were offered on nine state projects in seven counties at the June 22 letting held at the Minnesota highway department's St. Paul offices.

The largest job is in Big Stone county where 13.4 miles of grading, concrete paving and gravel shoulders are to be constructed between Beardsley and Graceville. A joint bid of $1,095,692, offered by the Minnesota Valley Improvement company of Granite Falls and the Berghuis Construction company, Prinsburg, was the apparent low.

Two other grading jobs, one in St. Paul between the north end of the Lexington avenue bridge and Sheppard road, and the other in St. Louis county between Central Lakes and Half Moon Lake, each brought a low bid of over half of a million dollars from Johnson Bros. Highway and Heavy Constructors, In. of Minneapolis, and the Hover Construction Co. of Virginia, respectively.

Demolition and removal of buildings continues from the rights of way in the Twin Cities area of future trunk and interstate highways 47, 94 and 35W in Minneapolis and IHs 35E and 94 in St. Paul.

The remainder of the letting included work on the approach embankment and storm sewer preliminary to the construction of a new inter-state bridge over the Red River of the North in East Grand Forks, bituminous surfacing, installation of an electric lighting system and a traffic control system.

Advises Drivers How to Park Cars

Highway Department Cites Proper Techniques

Many people have more trouble parking a car than driving it. Last year persons trying to park or leave a parked position were involved in 1,980 Minnesota accidents, including one fatal and 137 that involved injuries, the state highway department reports.

But a car doesn't have to be moving to become a traffic hazard. Cars parked improperly contributed to 814 accidents in 1961, including two in which someone died and 133 in which persons were injured.

In parallel parking between two cars, follow these steps:

STOP EVEN with the car ahead and about a foot and a half away from it.

TURN YOUR steering wheel sharply to the right and move slowly toward the car behind

WHEN CLEAR of the car ahead, turn your steering wheel sharply to the left and move slowly to the car behind. Do not make contact with it.

Turn your steering wheel to the sharply to the right and pull into the center of the parking space toward the curb.

When parked, wheels closest to the curb should be within 12 inches of it. When parked facing downhill, front wheels should be turned toward the curb. When facing uphill, front wheels should be turned away from the curb. On streets without curbing, front wheels should be turned to the right on the right side of the street and to the left when parking on the left side on a one-way.

Good Citizens

Hats off and a round of cheers for the good people who contributed in various ways to the success of the polio immunization program Saturday. Several individuals no doubt deserve special recognition in an honorable mention column. The operation was well managed and there were several managers.

But it would be better to omit the special recognition and treat the action as a magnificent group effort in which there were no generals and no buck privates. In behalf of the community we commend all who participated as good citizens.

The Farm Bill Failure

Why did the House, with a solid Democratic majority, kill the administration's farm bill? That's a good question, and the answer probably is that the Democrats in the House were not sold on the bill. If they had wanted it they no doubt could have passed it easily. They had the votes.

The debate on the bill in the House indicates that the majority leadership was not concerned about what happened. Twenty-five of 70 amendments that were offered were adopted. One of them, a silly proposal providing that the Department of Agriculture could not put more people on the payroll than there are farmers, was aproved with hilarious enthusiasm. The amendment later was killed but the action indicated pretty well the sentiment of the members of the House.

It is quite obvious that the Department of Agriculture is not held in high regard by the members of Congress.

Common Sense Needed

Party names in Europe are just as meaningless as are ours here at home. There is one party name however that we recognize and that is Communist. There may be other parties by different names that favor Communism but there is no question about the Communist designation itself.

It is encouraging to note therefore that the Communist party, as such, is not as popular in Western Europe as it once was. In Italy, for instance, the Communist party at one time represented more than 40 per cent of the electorate. In a recent election the Communist party vote was less than 23 per cent.

The reason for this, of course, is the fact that in recent years Italy has enjoyed unprecedented prosperity, and the reason for this has been good government.

The present government cut out deficit spending and lived within its means. This made possible a stable currency. The lira is now a respected coin.

Good government requires not only strong leadership but common sense as well. Our economic problems will not be solved by miracles and magic.

Doctor Chaplin

Old-timers whose memories go back to the early days of silent films will be interested in knowing that Charlie Chaplin has now been awarded an honorary doctorate of literature by Oxford University. Chaplin brought his vaudeville act from England to our country and remained to make his fortune as America's favorite entertainer.

His later years in our country were not so good. He became a controversial figure and he and his fortune returned to Europe. We are sure he does not like us.

But we are glad nevertheless for the recognition he has now received and we are glad to pass along the following comment by the Winnipeg Tribune in which some reference is made to the cause of Chaplin's departure from our country:

> "Thousands of people all over the world will be pleased to hear that Charlie Chaplin, the ragged little man whose piteous absurdity brought laughter mixed with pain, to those who saw him on the movie screen, has been honored by Oxford University with an honorary doctorate of literature.
> "The decision to award this honor to Mr. Charles Chaplin was not arrived at without dissent, which is par for the course in freedom loving Britain, where dissent is given its proper place without the suspicion of subversion. In a sense it is recompense for the treatment Charlie Chaplin received in that other great English speaking country where he was persecuted because somebody or other branded him as a Communist. What this had to do with his artistic attainments has never been made clear.
> "At all events, the English speaking world has now made amends. We salute Dr. Charles Chaplin, doyen of the world's great comedians."

Tariff Revision

Republicans and Democrats in the House joined hands last week to give President Kennedy the authority he requested to reduce tariffs. Both parties were divided on the measure but the bill carried on final passage by an overwhelming vote of 298 to 125.

At one time our country was divided geographically by the tariff question, the South opposing protection as a barrier to trade that was harmful to the cotton grower. The North wanted protection for its "infant industries." The Democratic party traditionally has been the free-trade party and the Republicans have been protectionists. This division along party lines no longer exists.

President Kennedy will run into a great deal of scattered opposition as he proceeds with a gradual tariff reduction program. We may assume that all of our present barriers to imports were adopted with the active support of some group that wanted protection. Such groups will be alarmed every time that protection is threatened by modification. And no doubt some groups of our people and some segments of industry will be adversely affected by a loss of protection.

But we are satisfied that for the long range best interests of our country tariff barriers must be removed. Coming generations of Americans will have to learn how to survive in a world of people who also want to live under better conditions and who are willing to apply themselves in ways that will enable them to achieve a better life.

We have made greater progress than other countries in part becuse there have been no barriers to a free exchange of goods and services among the states, encouraging mass production and lower production costs. And, let us admit, our generation owes much of our high standard of living to the efforts and sacrifices of the generations that preceded us.

It is conceivable that the next generations of Americans will have to apply themselves a little more than our generation has had to, until there is a more general leveling off of living standards thruout the world.

The Gimlet Eye

(Wall Street Journal)

We were sorry to see the State Department walk up Capitol Hill with requests for a $300,000 home for the U. S. ambassador to Cyprus and a $1,370,000 apartment building for U. S. diplomats in Japan. Because it just got itself kicked unceremoniously down again by Rep. Wayne Hays, Ohio Democrat and chairman of a House subcommittee which passes on overseas construction for U. S. deiplomats.

Of the Cyprus project, Mr. Hays said: "Even Billie Sol Estes only lives in a $150,000 house." And: "There are only 587,000 people on the whole island." Of the apartment proposal, he said: "You are going to get that over my dead body." He added that there "has to be an end someplace" to "sending innumerable people" to Japan and that "this is a good place to start."

The upshot of the department's collision with the Congressman from Ohio is that the figures for both projects will be reworked without, one supposes, doing U. S. diplomacy irreparable harm.

The taxpayer watching this exchange can't help wondering what would happen to Federal expenditures generally if every Congressional committee had on it just one gimlet-eyed Hays.

Phooey

(Financial Post)

The June issue of Canadian Education and Research Digest, published by the Canadian Education Association, gives summaries of theses which have recently earned post-graduate degrees for teachers, M.Ed. and Ph.D. (Ed), in the country's universities.

The first summary begins like this:

"The two-dimensional theory of interpersonal stress dynamics in educational supervision, developed and tested in this thesis, states that the optimum effectiveness of an individual working in an institutional environment occurs as a unique combination of (1) the pressures, demands and role-expectations of the institution as the external drive stimuli with (2) relevant personality elements of the individual as the internal drive arousibility factors."

This appears to mean (though we cannot be sure) that how good a teacher is depends on what sort of school he is in and what sort of person he is. The gobbledegook version won a Ph.D. — in Alberta. Hi doc!

It is no wonder that Canadian education and its professionals are viewed with deep suspicion if dressing up truisms in five-syllable words is thought to be suitable mental exercise for teachers in training — or professors of pedagogy. It is not surprising that a public brought up by such educators will believe anything it is told, even Social Credit, provided the language used is sufficiently obscure.

the plate

You are witnessing one of the frustrations in Ted's life. Like his namesake, the Red Sox slugger, Ted likes to tag a good fast ball and send it over the fence. But, today, our batting-practice pitcher just can't seem to find the plate.

Another frustration in Ted's life will occur next Sunday morning. Like every American youngster Ted needs religious training. But Ted's parents, who should be offering him opportunity and encouragement in spiritual growth, can't seem to find the Church.

Our children deserve the full spiritual opportunity which our free heritage has preserved for them. Today it is their turn to develop the power with which God endowed them. And our assignment, like the batting-practice pitcher's, is to offer them our best . . . and not lost control.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Welfare Board Hikes Its Levy for Next Year

Increases Levy by $31,000 Subject to Approval by Co Board

The annual reorganization meeting of the Pennington county welfare board was held on Thursday, July 5. Elected chairman for the coming year was Donald L. Olson. Odin Hanson was elected vice chairman, and Merle Lindberg was reelected secretary.

The major business of the evening was the problem of setting the welfare budget for the year 1963. The budget as presented called for total expenditures by the board in the amount of $601,185. This is almost identical to the 1962 budget which totalled $601,051.

However, two programs are showing sharp increases in cost — the aid to dependent children fund and the general relief fund, and these increases are requiring additional financing of approximately $32,000. The board set the 1963 levy at $215,000, which is an increase of $31,000 over 1962. Following is a breakdown of the budget by programs for 1963 showing the county share of each program:

Old Age Assistance	$77,099.00
Aid to Dependent Children	46,698.00
Aid to the Blind	3,225.00
Aid to the Disabled	2,924.00
General Relief	48,095.50
Administration	36,958.50
	$215,000.00

The four programs of old age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the blind and aid to the disabled are a part of the Social Security program and are financed in part by the federal government. The state also participates in payment of these programs. General relief is financed entirely by county funds with no state or federal participation.

The budget as approved by the welfare board now must be discussed and approved by the board of county commissioners when it sets the tax levy for the county for 1963 at its July session opening today.

Center for Retarded Children Now Open in TRF 3 Days Each Week

A recreation center for retarded children, sponsored by the Pennington-Red Lake Association for Retarded Children, will open today, Monday, at the parish house of the First Lutheran church in Thief River Falls. The center, featuring a recreation program for the retarded of pre-school age to 21 years, will be open to all except those confined to cribs or otherwise requiring total care. Supervised play in a large fenced playground will be available and also group and individual classes in arts and crafts.

Tentative schedule at the center for the remaining summer weeks will be Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons, 1:00 to 5:30 p. m. Since no curriculum will be followed, nor any basic requirements made, parents may bring their children at any time to start regular attendance or just for occasional sessions. Those parents who plan to have their children attend regularly should enroll them at the center as in a school and talk over their needs with the directors to help set up a program suitable for them.

Directors of the center will be Mrs. Melvin Grinde, Rt. 4, Thief River Falls, and Mrs. Elmer Kron, Newfolden. Mrs. Grinde is a certified elementary school teacher and Mrs. Kron is a former nurse. There will be a need for volunteer help, and those who can take part in the program are asked to apply to the directors in order that a schedule may be set up.

Equipment and supplies for the center will be supplied through the Pennington-Red Lake A. R. C. Those wishing to contribute funds for the needs of the center may call or write Mrs. Gladys Odegard, 709 Atlantic Ave. or Oscar W. Johnson, Rt. 4, Thief River Falls.

Parents of retarded children who live outside the area served by the Pennington-Red Lake A. R. C. are invited to bring their children to attend the center when visiting Thief River Falls for shopping or business trips.

Too Much of a Good Thing . . .

June Rainfall Only Adds To Problems May Created

June of 1962 has now passed into history and from the weather scene it can not be considered an unusual month. Precipitation was recorded on 14 days in traceable or greater amounts but only 3.07 inches of rain fell with the greatest total for any one day being 1.15 inches on June 8. Three days had .02 inch of rain. had 02 inch of rain.

Agriculturally speaking, however, the 3.07 inches of precipitation becomes a substantial figure when added to the 7.53 inches of rain received in the critical month of May. The two monthly totals add up to 10.6 inches and very little opportunity for spring field work and seeding in the area. Heavy rain showers which missed the official weather station at the municipal airport complicated the planting season in other portions of the area.

Temperatures may well be compared with 1959 when the month of June averaged very near this year's figures. In June of 1962 the high readings averaged 74.37 degrees and lows averaged 53.40 degrees with an average temperature for the month of 63.83 degrees. In 1959 the month of June had average highs of 75.2, average lows of 53.2 and average overall temperature of 64.2 degrees.

High Reading Is 85

Highest temperature for the month this year was 85 degrees on June 27 while the low reading for the 30-day period was 38 degrees on June 2. Last temperature below the freezing point was 26 way back on May 6. Lowest high reading for June was 57 degrees on June 17 while the highest low was 72 degrees on June 28. The month had 15 highs in the 70's and nine in the 80's with 19 lows in the 50's, only three in the 60's, one in the 70's, five in the 40's and two in the 30's.

June of last year was considerably warmer with highs averaging 81.76 and lows averaging 51.17 for an overage of 66.47 degrees. High reading was 94 degrees on June 27 and six days were in the 90's. Only .44 inch of rain was received in that month and effects of the drought were beginning to show on area crops. June of 1960, according to the records, yielded 6.61 inches of rain.

The moisture trend of 1962 can be seen in the summary for the first six months. It reads as follows: January, 18.3 inches snow; February 14.9 inches snow; March 7 inches snow; April, .51 inch rain; May, 7.53 inches rain; and June, 3.07 inches rain.

Johnson-Kelley Vows Are Repeated Here June 17

Miss Janice Corine Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norval Johnson of this city, became the bride of James P. Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Kelly, also of this city, at Trinity Lutheran Church on June 17, at an 8 p. m. double-ring ceremony. Rev. T. J. Weltzin of Viking solemnized their vows in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives. The church was banked with baskets of gladioli and carnations and bright with the glow of lighted tapers in candelabra.

At the organ, Mrs. Art Hamilton of this city played the accompaniment for James D. Erickson, a friend of the couple, as he sang, "O Perfect Love," "Because", and, as they knelt at the altar, "The Lord's Prayer", and "Crown With Thy Benediction."

The bride came in on the arm of her father. She wore a floor-length gown of nylon organza over satin, styled with a fitted bodice and long sleeves which tapered to a point over her wrists. She wore a fingertip length veil, caught with a pearl-trimmed crown, and she carried deep pink roses and white carnations on a white Bible. Her pearl earrings and necklace were her gift from the groom.

Mrs. Edwin Senum of this city attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Kathy Kelly, sister of the groom; Miss Joanne Salnhus, and Mrs. Lyle Johnson. All are from this city. Miss Norma Jean Johnson, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. All were in street length gowns of light-blue organza over taffeta, identically styled, with scoop necklines and short puffed sleeves. The junior bridesmaid's dress and the matching headpiece worn by all of the bride's attendants were fashioned by Mrs. Julius Alby of this city. They all wore white gloves and pearl earrings and necklaces which were given them by the bride, except for the junior bridesmaid, who received instead a pearl necklace and a bracelet. Their bouquets were deep pink roses and white feathered carnations.

The little daughter of the Clayton Molstads, Lou Jo Molstad, a niece of the groom, was flower girl, in a white dress styled like those worn by the bridesmaids, and made by her grandmother, Mrs. Kelly. She wore a matching headband and white gloves, and carried a basket of pink carnations. Scott Johnson, small son of the Lyle Johnsons, was ring-bearer, carrying the rings on a small white satin pillow made by the bride's grandmother. He wore a white dinner jacket, dark trousers, and a boutonniere of white carnations.

Floyd Klopp, a friend of the groom, was the best man. Other attendants to the groom were Fred Huttleston, of Sacramento, California, his brother-in-law; Don Jorde, and Edwin Senum, brother-in-law of the bride, both from this city. Gary LaValley of Clearbrook, Minn., cousin of the bride, was junior attendant. The men of the party were given gifts of cuff links and tie clasps by the groom.

Mothers of the couple wore light blue dresses with white accessories and corsages of deep pink roses and white carnations. Corsages were presented to both of the grandmothers also.

About 200 guests attended the reception given for the newlyweds following the ceremony. Mrs. James Olson of this city baked and decorated the four-tiered wedding cake which was trimmed with pink roses and topped with a miniature bridal couple. It was cut by Mrs. Fred Huttleston, sister of the groom, of Sacramento, California. Mrs. Roy Storhaug of this city served punch, while Mrs. Clayton Molstad and Mrs. Dayton Backlund, sisters of the groom, poured. Mrs. Russell Lane, a friend, was hostess.

Waitresses were Mrs. Duane Olson and Miss Ardyce Troska, with Mrs. Cal Offerdahl and Miss Marcia LaCoursiere at the bridal table. The waitresses were all friends of the couple.

Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs Ray Olson, Mrs. Emil Swanson, Mrs. Walter Liefzow, Mrs. Harold Langaas, and Mrs. Olaf Peterson. Waitresses and kitchen helpers were all given aprons as gifts of appreciation from the bride.

Miss Grace Hedlund, a friend of the bride, from Fargo, N. D. was at the guest book, and in charge of the gift table were Miss Addie Knuta, Grand Forks; Mrs. Dale Swenson, Mrs. Jerry Helle, and Mrs. Clyde Swenson, all of this city.

For her honeymoon to the North Shore and the Twin Cities, the bride chose a light blue sheath with white-trimmed jacket, and white accessories, and wore a corsage from her bridal bouquet. Her travel costume was fashioned by Mrs. Alby.

The newly weds are at home at 111½ West 2nd, Crookston.

Years ago, practically all that a prescription could do was to alleviate the patient's pains and make him a little more comfortable — while nature did a slow job of curing the ailment. But today's prescription, containing wonder drugs completely unknown years ago, cures the ailment in hours, not weeks . . . keeps the patient out of the hospital or gets him out after only a few days . . . and puts him back on his feet in a hurry. Fellow-Confirmands In 70's Meet In Minot

Ole Lerol of this city was one of seven members of a confirmation class from Gang Valdres, Norway, who met recently in Minot, N. D. for another of their somewhat unusual meetings. The men, all confirmed as boys in Norway, and now all approximately 70, meet occasionally to keep alive an old friendship which has withstood the test of the years.

They have a program, often featuring a guest speaker from some branch of the government; they have Norwegian dances to bring a touch of nostalgia to their hearts; when one of the members of the group has visited the "old country" they view slides, see picutres, and swap stories about the goings-on "back there."

The men come from scattered points in Canada, Montana, North Dakota, and Minnesota.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of

MRS. DAKE AYERS

We are indebted to a young farm wife for this favored recipe. It features a sauce which goes equally well with pork or beef ribs, she says. The method of preparation is so simple, even rush-days can find this delicious item on the menu. It can also be popped into the oven shortly before leaving for church on Sunday or before leaving for shopping in the afternoon. You will notice that the ribs do not necessarily need to be browned first, but we do prefer browning ours and pouring off the accumulated fat before pouring on the sauce.

BARBECUED RIBS

1½ tablespoons brown sugar
scant tablespoon red pepper (or less, if preferred)
1½ tablespoons prepared mustard
3 tablespoons Worchestershire sauce
1 tsp. salt
dash of black pepper
3 lbs. ribs, cut in 2-inch sections

Place ribs in greased casserole. Mix the other ingredients and heat over a medium flame, stirring constantly until the mixture boils. Pour over ribs. Bake slowly two hours.

The Dake Ayers farm, west of town, has two small boys to keep it a lively place: Richard Allen (Ricky), almost 3 years, and Randall Wayne (Randy), 11 months. Mrs. Ayers informs us that she would like to find time to indulge in her favorite hobbies, which include photography, sewing, gardening, yard work, and embroidering, but that caring for her youngsters, cooking, and baking take up most of her time. She does take time out, however, for church work, being very active in WMF and other activities of parish women at Our Savior's Lutheran Church, of this city. She even helps her husband, she says, during rush seasons.

The Library Corner

by Tom Lyaskey

Recently someone stopped me on the street and asked why I didn't write about libraries, considering that the name of my column is the Library Corner. Facetious as the remark may have been, I immediately realized that I had ignored the many magnificent edifices which housed the books that I reviewed. Therefore I decided to include a discussion of great libraries in this week's column.

Among the great libraries of the world, the British Museum remains in the first rank with more than 6,000,000 printed volumes and 60,000 manuscripts. It contains such famous treasures as the Codex Alexandrinus and the Codex Sinaiticus of the Bible, the best collection of Greek papyri from Egypt, and vast collections of original historical manuscripts of incalculable value. Some 150,000 volumes were destroyed in air raids during the Second World War, but many were later replaced.

One of the finest libraries in the world is the Bibliotheque Nationale in Paris. It has approximately 6,000,000 volumes, 155,000 manuscripts, 450,000 medals and coins, 5,000,000 prints and engravings, and 40, maps.

The largest library in the world is the United States Library of Congress. In 1957, it contained more than 11,500,000 books and pamphlets, and total collections of over 36,100,000. The Library of Congress extends services to members of Congress and other governmental departments, and also offers excellent facilities for persons engaged in scholarly research.

If you recognize the following lines of poetry, you will be most eager to read the book of the week that I have chosen to review.

"In an old house in Paris
That was covered with vines
Lived twelve little girls
In two straight lines.
In two straight lines
They broke their bread
And brushed their teeth
And went to bed."

Familiar, but you can't quite place the name of the book? Well, here's a hint that should give the whole thing away.

"To the tiger in the zoo
Madeline just said, Pooh-pooh."

Millions of readers of all ages on both sides of the Atlantic have been thrilled over and over by the wonderful story of "Madeline" by Ludwig Bemelmans. "Castle Number Nine", the enchanting story of Baptiste and Count Hungerburg-Hungerburg, is also widely enjoyed.

Now Bemelmans has written and illustrated another excellent book entitled "On Board Noah's Ark." The irrepressible Bemelmans appears here in a new role: as a yachtsman aboard his own beloved pilot boat, adventuring in Mediterranean waters.

The story is the odyssey of the Arche de Noe under Bemelmans' command as he cruised with it to Monte Carlo, Portofino, Leghorn, the Bay of Naples, and back by way of Corsica. The ports of call, with their color and teeming life, were made to order for his canvas and brushes and paints. But the great charm and drama of the trip were supplied by his encounters with people and the elements.

There are sad Italian aristocrats, babes in bikinis, rich industrialists, Don Juans of the fishing villages, and children as engaging as his own wonderful Madeline. There's a regatta at Portofino that breaks all records for comic confusion. There's a love story with a touch of subtle seasoning and a tragedy with a delicate bouquet.

If you look at nothing but the pictures you will enjoy the book. If you read the book, you will never want to put it down.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Dyrdal and Terry were Friday evening visitors at the Ernest Melvie home in Viking.

Pageant TICKET Sale

George Hildre, pageant ticket sale chairman, stated that admission prices will be $1 for general admission and $1.75 for reserved seats. Tickets will go on sale in about 10 days and all seating arrangements will be made in accordance with the reserved seat ticket sale. Stage decoration and arrangements are under the direction of Kenneth Swenson and Fred Ballou.

Teenage Dance Friday

On Friday evening, August 3, a teenage dance will be held in the city auditorium with music by the Tornadoes from Fargo, N. D. Dancing will begin at 8:30 p. m., decorations will be arranged and a concession stand will be operated by members of the Mrs. Jaycees chapter. Silas Glere is committee chairman with Lee Gustafson assisting.

Sunday Water Show

Sunday's water sports show, from which the Aquacade originally drew its name, will again be presented through the cooperation of the Thief River Falls Boat Club. James Winjum is in charge of Sunday events and stated that the club members and volunteer participants are expected to provide another fine performance as they have done in the past.

Also included in Sunday events at Tindolph Park will be the annual horseshoe tournament with merchandise prizes and directed by Robert Flynn, swimming events and prizes directed by Roger Dorn and concessions arranged by Larry Evenstad. Public address facilities will be arranged by Ormond Johnson and Glenn Peterson.

Advertising in the program booklets, which will again be distributed free of charge to Aquacade visitors at the Saturday pageant and Sunday water show, is now being sold. Marvin Lundin is in charge of planning the design and layout with advertising sales being conducted by Keith Spindler, James Carlson and Bruce Hall. Business places which have not been contacted but which are interested in securing advertising space in the programs may call any of the committee members.

Button sales are now underway under the direction of Douglas Remick with a goal of 1,000 buttons sold for $1 each. Sale of the booster buttons helps to defray the cost of promotion, parade, visiting queens and other Aquacade expenses.

Freezing Fish

When dad and brother brings home a big catch of fish, freeze part of it to enjoy later.

Here are a few tips: Clean fish as for table use. Freeze small fish whole; filet or steak large fish.

To improve flavor and reduce drip in thawing, dip cut pieces of fish like sunfish, crappies, bass or pike for 1 minute in a brine made with 1½ cups salt per gallon of water. Package in foil. Or put small fish in a breadpan, fill with water and freeze. Slip the block of ice into a plastic bag. Store in the coldest part of the freezer.

Mildew on Leather Goods

To remove mildew from leather shoes, gloves and purses, wipe the articles with a cloth moistened in a solution of 1 cup denatured or rubbing alcohol and 1 cup water. Dry in an airy place.

Look for Sure-Care Symbols

Next time you stop for an item of clothing or for household linens, look for symbols which tell you at a glance how to care for your purchase. Developed by the National Retailers Association, these symbols printed on the selvedge of fabric or attached to sewn-in labels, give information on whether and how to wash, iron or dry clean. For example, an outline picture of an iron means you may iron; if it has an H on it, you may iron with a hot iron, while an X across the iron means not to iron at all.

There are four symbols—an iron, a hand (meaning you should hand launder), a washing machine (meaning you can wash by machine), and a dry cleaning drum.

Use of this sytem is on a voluntary basis by the manufacturer. That is why it is important for you as a consumer to ask the retailer about these sure-care symbols when you buy, and ask him, too, for information explaining them. The new system will eliminate complicated care instructions that are often lost. It should meet a long-felt consumer need.

At the 4-H council meeting of last week the 4-H members voted to send garden seeds to Sinipsip, Philippines. The people of this country are poor and don't have the money to experiment with costly seeds they have to purchase. A missionary in this country wrote an article in one of the late issues of the National 4-H News explaining that if any 4-H club would like to assist these people, this is one way to help. As a result, the 4-H council will have a box at the county fair July 19 for any one wishing to bring in garden seeds they were unable to plant this spring and do not want any longer. The only requirement is that you have the kind of seed and planting directions on the package. Anyone can contribute to this good will program the Pennington 4-H'ers are carrying out by bringing seeds to the 4-H building.

Friday, July 13, will be a busy day in the city auditorium for the 4-H girls enrolled in clothing. At this time the girls will be judged on modeling and later in the day on clothing construction. At 8:30 in the evening the public is invited to see the dress revue. You will be sure to see many outstanding garments made by the girls.

The county fair is fast approaching us and as one visits a 4-H home you might just find a 4-H member working on a demonstration he or she will be presenting at the county fair July 21. A demonstration is the act of showing and telling others how to do something. The demonstration helps youth approach the 4-H goal of—individual development. It should not be thought of only for an immediate reward—such as a blue ribbon—but something a 4-H'er learned and developed.

A demonstration has value, for the member learns new information, works with people in preparation, plans and organizes a task. Probably one of the greatest values is having the opportunity to talk and perform before a group.

favorite winter sports with swimming now being her number one summer sport activity.

In 1963 she hopes to enroll in Bemidji State College where she will major in English education. Playing the part of "Ma" in Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" when the senior English class presented one-act plays to the public this spring, Carolyn was named the best actress of the evening. Because of working after school, she was unable to take part in any class play productions.

Persons attending the pageant August 4 will get a sample of Carolyn's drama talent when she presents an animated humorous poem as her talent number. She hopes to find time for further drama activities when attending college.

In high school she was a member of the Thespian club, Library club, Drama club and was a member of Girl Scouts for several years, serving as secretary-treasurer of the troop for three years. Her hobbies include reading poetry, short stories and essays in addition to her sporting interests.

Carolyn's father is Chief of Police in Thief River Falls and she has three sisters, Marcheta, 16; LeAnna, 12; and Janet, 10; and a brother Tommy, 14.

to be the biggest attraction to shoppers and will be practiced on both Friday and Saturday.

by MARY LUNDIN

FAST APPROACHING IS THE TIME when Thief River Falls will again play host to the annual Pennington County Fair. To the casual fair-goer, who merely meanders into the grounds to walk through the midway, sniff the fragrant aroma of the barns or sample the popcorn and candy apples, the exposition may not seem like a significant occurrence. And to this person—it isn't.

Throughout the county there are a number of people who know that the amount of effort expended to produce the event is considerable. Among these are the directors of the agricultural association, county 4-H club members, parents of 4-H'ers, businessmen exhibiting, local organizations planning concessions, livestock producers and many more. Details involved in the production of a county fair are innumerable.

But more important than the fair itself are the long-lasting benefits to be derived from such an event. A successful fair speaks well for a community—telling the story of its agricultural productivity and the kinship of its people. To the young people who exhibit their work and demonstrate their abilities, the experience gained is extremely valuable.

It is true, perhaps, that the 4-H program could reach a final phase at some other activity than the county fair. It could be a general achievement day or similar observance. Separate final programs could be arranged for the various phases of 4-H club activity that would not necessarily have to be done for the county fair.

But there is an indefinite something about the attraction of a county fair to the young people. Perhaps it is the color and excitement of the carnival, the crowds of fair-goers which filter past the exhibits and admire work well done, or the comments of parents, friends and neighbors concerning project work. Maybe it is just the force of habit to get ready for the county fair. At any rate, and for some reason, the fair is an attraction and added incentive for youngsters.

This year's exposition promises to be a dandy. Extension personnel expect increased exhibits in all departments with the possible exception of crops and gardens due to the wet spring. Livestock should be in peak condition. The World of Tomorrow Shows is a large carnival with a variety of 17 rides. Grandstand performances will feature circus attractions Saturday and Sunday. And there will be a free gate again this year to permit the public to come when they like, see what they like and do what they like.

Whatever you do—join the crowd. Plan to attend the Pennington County Fair on July 19, 20, 21 or 22.

Received a letter last week from W. E. Trosper of Perrysville, Ind. He wrote to the newspaper office with the comment that, "While we were on our vacation we drove through your city and really liked it!" It is good to know that Thief River Falls creates a good impression on people passing through.

Mr. Trosper also wrote that he is a welder and has done carpenter work and was curious about job opportunities here. If our comunity is attractive to skilled persons, we may attract more families than we realize. Strange, is it not, the far-reaching benefit of community development?

Poetry contributions have come for this column from a number of sources in addition to the verse I write myself. Unless credit is given, the poems are original. Today two poems are contributed. They are not literary masterpieces, but they show an unusual amount of talent for two little girls.

The poems were written by eight-year-old Chris Ann and nine-year-old Terri Cuppett, both blind students in the Thief River Falls class for the visually handicapped. Minds of youngsters are always a mystery to the older generation, but the minds of Terri and Chris Ann must work overtime. Here are their poems:

WHAT MR. TOAD DOES

by Chris Ann Cuppett

Mr. Toad, Mr. Toad, busy all the day.
Mr. Toad, Mr. Toad, watch him work and play.

When he's hungry, when he's hungry,
When he wants to eat
He catches flies with his sticky tongue.
That's his candy treat.

SPRING

by Terri Cuppett

I like to hear the birds sing
In the Spring.
The trees sway, the flowers gay.
The first day of Spring
Is a wonderful day.

Joint Fair Meet Slated Wednesday

Old and New Groups To Join in 1962 Production

To plan a work program for the operation of the Pennington County Fair this year, a meeting of the Pennington County Agricultural Society and the newly-organized Pennington County Fair Association, Inc. will be held Wednesday at 6:30 p. m. in the courtroom of the county courthouse in Thief River Falls.

"We are at a critical point in that this year's fair must be set up and operated," stated Ray Oen, chairman of the new association. "This can not be done by just a few individuals. The old fair group was prevailed upon to operate the fair this year and the new group promised to help. We must now put our shoulders to the wheel."

Wednesday's meeting is not just for directors of the organizations but for the entire membership. All interested members are encouraged to attend and bring a friend or neighbor to learn more about the situation.

Four Seek Red Lake County Board Post

Lively Competition for Post in Fifth District

A four-way battle is ensured thus far for county commissioner from the 5th district in Red Lake county. Candidates who filed for the office include incumbent Arthur Christopherson, Don Ste. Marie and Leo Kalinoski of the Terrebonne area and George Ollie of Plummer.

A two-way race for county auditor has developed so far for a position now held by Arthur Prenevost, veteran county official. Robert Poirier, deputy county auditor, has filed and so has David Knakel. Both men are Red Lake Falls residents.

For county sheriff, incumbent George Hinze has filed as has Emery LaChance of Red Lake Falls.

Charles E. Boughton, county attorney, has also filed for office. The primary election is scheduled Tuesday, Sept. 11, with general election slated in November.

In the third district Arnold Person of Equality township filed last week for the commissioner post now held by Wilfred Rahler.

S. R. Dahlen Is at Savings and Loan State Convention

Fourday Sessions Open This Morning at Radisson Hotel in Minneapolis

Stanton R. Dahlen, president of the First Federal Savings and Loan association of Thief River Falls, is attending the 48th annual convention of the Savings and Loan League of Minnesota Sunday through Wednesday, July 8-11, at the Radisson Hotel, Minneapolis.

This year's convention will celebrate the League's 20th year of full-time operation. Past-presidents of the league and 20-year employes of the 82 associations in the state will be honored at an awards luncheon Wednesday.

Official proceedings began this morning with a greeting by Mayor Arthur T. Naftalin of Minneapolis. Other morning speakers included William K. Divers, Savings and Loan Foundation president; Joseph H. Williams, one of three members of the Federal Home Loan Bank board, Washington, D. C.; Gerald L. Bryan, Minnesota commissioner of banking; and Robert H. Bush, president of the Federal Home Loan Bank of Des Moines. Governor Elmer L. Anderson of Minnesota will close the morning session.

Minnesota's Junior Senator Eugene J. McCarthy will address the delegates at their Monday noon luncheon. Senator McCarthy is a member of the Senate's committee on finance which is presently studying the administration's new tax bill.

Election of League officers will be held Wednesday morning with the service awards luncheon to follow.

According to Welch the industry in the state has grown from $100 million in assets to an anticipated year-end total of $2 billion for 1962.

Linda Tollefson Elected To Head Brown Swiss Jrs.

Linda Tollefson of Red Lake Falls was elected president of the Canton Seven Brown Swiss Juniors at the annual meeting held recently at the Roy C. Johnson farm near Erskine. Miss Tollefson succeeds Jerry Kruger of Warren as head of the junior group.

Other officers elected were Adrian Wesolowski, Warren, vice president, and Mary Rantanen, Middle River, secretary-treasurer. After discussion by the group it was decided to send a delegate or delegates to the state fair meeting.

Alvin H. Hoefer Reported Drowned In Arizona Lake

Word was received by the Times this morning of the death of Alvin H. Hoefer, 30, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hoefer of rural Thief River Falls, who drowned while swimming Saturday at Lake Roosevelt near Globe, Ariz. Dragging operations were being conducted at last report last night and the body had not yet been recovered.

According to the report, Hoefer was staying with his sister, Mrs. Ellsworth (Eldora) Kezar in Phoenix, Ariz., and was employed at a steel mill. He apparently was swimming alone when the drowning occurred. Funeral arrangements are pending recovery of the body and a complete obituary will be published in a later edition of the Times.

Accident Sunday South of City Is Investigated

One accident was investigated by city police on Sunday with two cars involved being damaged to the extent of $195. Charges are pending in the mishap but no citations have been issued.

A car driven by Donald A. Hemming of Shelly was going south on highway 32 and making a right-hand turn near Family Bowl when struck from the rear by a car driven by Robert Rausch of rt. 2, Thief River Falls, who was also traveling south on the highway. Damage to the Hemming vehicle was estimated at $45 and to the Rausch car at $150.

Two Accidents Are Reported to County Sheriff

Both Mishaps Occur Early Sunday Morning; Youths Escape Injuries

After a prolonged period during which no accidents were reported to the Pennington county sheriff's office, two calls were received almost simultaneously early Sunday morning. Three cars were involved in the two accidents reported.

In a two-car accident which occurred about 12:55 a. m. Sunday, a car driven by Richard James Larson, 18, rural Red Lake Falls, collided with a vehicle driven by Harold Van deStreek of rural Thief River Falls. Larson was traveling west on CAR 54 while the Van deStreek car was leaving the Richard Mosbeck farm driveway and beginning a right turn to go east on CAR 54. Both cars were damaged considerably but no personal injury was reported.

Six young people riding in a convertible coupe escaped serious injury shortly after midnight Saturday when the vehicle ran off SAR 17 (airport road), hit a field crossing and overturned in a ditch filled with about two feet of water. The car was driven by Larry Peterson, 20, St. Hilaire, and was traveling north about two miles south of the city when the accident occurred.

All six people were able to free themselves from the car and were given a ride to Northwestern hospital by a passing motorist. Hospitalized overnight for observation were Peterson, Sherry Helgeland and Ivette Torkelson of Thief River Falls. Treated and released were Gary Peterson and Stuart Sweet of St. Hilaire and Mary Beth Folkedahl of Thief River Falls.

Both accidents are under investigation by the Pennington county sheriff's department and no citations have as yet been issued.

Thieves Tip Twin Valley Twins 9-2

Manager Joey Poole's senior baseball Thieves, defeating the Twin Valley Twins, 9-2, in a game played at Twin Valley on Thursday night, moved up into second place in the Norman-Polk league standings. The Thieves boast a league record of five wins and two losses.

The locals were scheduled to meet the league-leading Crookston Pirates at Crokston this evening, but the game has been postponed and will be played later under the lights on Red Lake Falls' Riverside Park diamond. The next league action for the locals will be on Wednesday night, when they meet manager Dave Carlin's Fosston club at Fosston.

In Thursday night's tilt at Twin Valley, the Thieves erupted for eight runs in the fifth inning to break up a game that had been moving along at a 2-0 pace, with the Twins holding a lead.

An error, a single by Frank Gunderman, another error gave Twin Valley a pair of runs in the second inning.

In the Thieves' half of the fifth, Marv Lundin led off with a walk, Joey Poole was safe on an error, and when Dick Williams drew a walk, the bases were filled and Mickey Holen was called in from shortstop to take over the pitching duties. Righthander John Peterick had been the Twins' starting hurler. John Drury greeted Holen by driving his first pitch through the mound for a single, driving in a pair of runs. Before the side was retired in the inning, the Thieves had scored six more runs for an 8-2 lead. The Thieves added a run in the sixth on an error and Jack Hoppe's triple.

Lefty Freddy Jensen limited the Twins to four hits, and struck out nine batsmen.

Of the two who lived, one was in critical condition with a skull fracture. The other escaped with only a broken ankle.

It was the worst crash of the nation's Independence holiday, and one of the worst in recent Minnesota highway history.

Dead in one car were Andrew Halunen, 56, Virginia, Minn.; his wife, Mafalda, 50; their sons, Jerry 15 and David, 25, and David's fiancee Anna Marie Johnson, 19, of Eveleth.

The locals added three runs in the second inning on a single by John Aune, a double by Rick Jensen, and a sacrifice fly by Larry Poole. And in the third inning, with the singling Gerry Erickson on first base, Paul Klungness lofted a high fly ball over the fence in right-center.

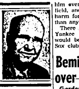
Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson



An Edge for the Americans

The odds-makers have established the National league All-Stars as 6-5 favorites over the American league All-Stars in Tuesday's game in Washington D. C.

While the Nationals have been having marked success in the recent games between the two leagues, and will have a powerful lineup on the field on Tuesday, the game should be rated a toss-up, with perhaps an edge to the Americans.

The National league will rely on righthanded batting punch, having such sluggers as Willie Mays, Orlando Cepeda, and others. But to counter this batting attack, manager Ralph Houk of the American will have such stellar righthanded pitchers as the Twins' Camillo Pascual, the Tigers' Jim Bunning, and the Indians' Dick Donovan.

And manager Fred Hutchinson must exercise care in the pitchers he sends against the American leaguers, for the American league is a fast-ball hitting circuit. He'll perhaps be doubtful about using the Dodgers' Don Drysdale, but will probably give Sandy Koufax, who has a fine curve along with blazing speed.

Down Memory Lane

Jack Leedahl, the young righthander with the fine curve ball who is proving to be one of the mainstays of coach Ralph Skay's local American Legion junior baseball club, comes by his pitching talents naturally.

Thumbing through some old scorebooks I have in the files the box score of the Thieves vs. Crookston Pirates game of May 1951 drew attention. The Pirates defeated the Thieves, 8-2, and pitching for Crookston in the game, the first four innings, was Jerry Leedahl. And Jerry is Jack's uncle, and it's with Jerry that the youngster is making his home.

In that Thieves vs. Pirates game, Leedahl gave up one hit and no runs in four innings, and Lefty Ken DuPuis, who finished up, issued three hits and two runs. On that Thieves' club were such local luminaries as Blackie Stephens, Swede Lund, Phil and Dave LeGault, Wayne Johnson, Myrle Carlson, Nicky Carlson, Stan Cockrell, and Bobby DuChamp. Don't know if it is correct usage to call Stan Cockrell a luminary.

The first sign of autumn has arrived, and it comes in the form of a press release stating that the Minnesota Vikings football squad will report to the coaching staff at Bemidji on Friday, July 13. The rookies, and they are expected to be there in numbers of forty or more, will report the first week, with the veterans slated to begin practice on July 23.

Among the rookies who will be given a careful look is Bob McNamara, the former University of Minnesota All-American. McNamara is classed as a rookie although he has had professional football experience in Canada and the American league because this is first tryout with a National Football league team. McNamara will be given a shot at a defensive corner back position, and if his previously-injured knees can take the gaff, he may make the squad. He is a tremendous competitor.

Very Interesting

The current issue of the Saturday Review carries an interesting item on the annual meeting of the New York chapter of the Red Sox Royal Rooters club. The Royal Red Sox Rooters do not necessarily have to love the Red Sox all the time, but they have to hate the Yankees.

The article states that "early at the Rooters' meeting the Cleveland Indians came in for high praise, and duly noted was the typical Yankee sportsmanship of pitcher Bill Stafford who was fined $50 for throwing bean balls at the Indians. Then the membership got down to the real business of the meeting watching a move of Ted Williams hitting. Said one member, 'He's our Mohammed' ".

The final business of the club was the awarding of the "Scrub One Award" to the worst player who ever wore a Red Sox uniform. After much debate and spirited discussion, which centered on the following Red Sox players: Micky McDermott ("But how he could sing!); Bill Consolo ("Was he, or was he not, an undercover agent for the Yankees?"); Ford Garrison ("Fearful of the fences, he was nonetheless invariably paralyzed by short pops."); Denny Galehouse ("The wrong man in the wrong place at the wrong time"); and the winner, Don Buddin ("Even in Houston, they boo him every time he comes on the field, and he did more consistent harm for a longer period of time than any other player").

There are a number of anti-Yankee fans in this area who would be acceptable to this Red Sox club.

Estes Scandal Hurts Honest Farmers, Says Congressman Langen

The U. S. House of Representatives' subcommittee on intergovernmental relations is taking a week off in its investigation of the activities of Billie Sol Estes. Congressman Odin Langen, a member of the subcommittee, issued a statement today on the progress of the hearings thus far. Langen said the hearings have been very slow-moving, but was hopeful that the broad area of the scandal would come into closer focus at a more rapid rate in the immediate days ahead.

Langen declared that at this point he feels substantial favoritism definitely was afforded Estes by the Department of Agriculture, as evidenced by many examples already reported.

"However," said Langen, "we must not let such political implications blind us. Billie Sol Estes was a con man of rare talents, who not only hoodwinked public officials, but fooled a host of reputable businessmen and farmers as well." Langen said the real tragedy of the whole mess is the reflection it casts on farm programs in general.

"The people who really suffer from this sort of thing," said the Minnesota Congressman, "are the individual farmers across the country who are forced to abide by restrictive allotments while someone like Estes is allowed to manipulate such allotments."

Langen said the duty of Congress is not so much a question of blaming one person or another, but of bringing out the true facts with which to produce laws that will keep government honest and encourage prudence in the spending of the taxpayers' dollars.

He added that the farm bill recently defeated in the House of Representatives would have encouraged such activities while penalizing honest farmers. "We need a program that would prevent such scandals," concluded Langen, "without strangling agriculture."

We shall have no better conditions in the future if we are satisfied with all those which we have at present.—Thomas A. Edison

Itasca 4-H Youth Wins Scholarship

Myron Katzenmeyer Is Recipient of $300 Award

Myron Katzenmeyer, 17, Lake Itasca, has been awarded the McKerrow scholarship given annually to a Minnesota 4-H'er with a long-time record of achievement in livestock projects.

A graduate of Bagley High School, the Clearwater County 4-H member will use his $300 scholarship at the University of Minnesota which he will enter this fall.

The award was announced by Leonard Harkness, state 4-H club leader at the University of Minnesota, and Al Booren, secretary of the Minnesota Livestock Breeders' Association.

Katzenmeyer has been a member of the Itasca Willing Workers 4-H Club for six years and during that time has served as its president and secretary. He has been an active junior leader for three years.

Since he became a 4-H member at the age of 12, Katzenmeyer has carried the dairy project and has won numerous awards on his dairy animals at county and state fairs. He has also won dairy showmanship trophies. For several years he was a member of the Clearwater County dairy judging team and won individual honors on that team. He now owns three registered Ayrshires.

Explains 3 Proposed State Amendments

An official explanation of the state's three constitutional amendments to be voted on at the Nov. 6 election was given by Atty. Gen. Walter F. Mondale Friday to Secretary of State Joseph Donovan.

The 1961 legislature porposed the three amendments: No 1, investment of school funds; No. 2, state debt for buildings; No. 3, 120-day sessions for the legislature.

Mondale said Amendment No. 1 "broadens the authority of the State Investment Board in managing the permanent school fund. The board will be the governor, state treasurer, state auditor, secretary of state, and attorney general."

The Board may invest in U. S. securities, U. S. guaranteed securities, Minnesota bonds and its subdivisions and other states, and corporate stocks and bonds to a limited extent.

Earnings from the investments will go to the school districts. No change is made in the Board of Regents' control over the permanent University Fund, according to Monday.

Amendment No. 2 provides a means of financing state buildings and capital improvements. "The Legislature will be able to authorize bonds for a term of not more than 20 years by a three-fifth vote of all members of each branch," Mondale said.

This replaces the old system described in Mondale's statement as follows: "For the past 50 years the state has financed state building partly by bonds and certificates which the courts held were not subject to the public debt conditions in Sec. 5 and Sec. 6 of Article IX. One of the conditions is a $250,000 limit. In 1960, the State Supreme Court stated that in the future this type of financing should be declared unconstitutional."

The amendment does not change other sections of the Constitution which permits bonds of highways, airports, rural credit, or the veterans' bonus.

Amendment No. 3 changes the regular session of the Legislature from 90 days to 120 days. No bill can be introduced during the last 30 days without the request of the governor, if this amendment passes.

College Graduates to Find Good Job Outlet

Employment prospects for the 1962 college graduate are bright and will continue to improve, but his untrained neighbor will find the going rocky, according to Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine.

An article in the current issue of the magazine notes that company recruiters were swarming on college campuses this spring with more jobs than were offered a year ago and with higher starting salaries. Paradoxically, the magazine reports, the prospect for untrained job seekers — youngsters who dropped out of high school before graduating and those who got no education after high school —are gloomy.

Technical and scientific starting salaries for college graduates averaged around $560 a month and non-technical about $475, the article states. "Most interesting increases in money offers were for liberal arts graduates, who are usually at the bottom of the salary heap in campus hiring — this year recruiters were having a hard time filling their quotas — first, because there were more openings, and second, because more and more students are going on to graduate work."

Nevertheless, the magazine warns, "Unemployment, in spite of everything the federal government is doing to fight it, still runs at about four to five million —as much as one in every 20 workers including many, who have not been able to find jobs for many months.

"To make matters worse for the hard core of unemployed, newcomers are pouring into the labor force in greater numbers than ever before. This year's college graduating class was the largest in history; and from now on each June's crop of graduates will set a new record."

New materials, new machines, new discoveries in medicine, weather and space create a demand for multitudes of trained workers, the article continues. "Gradually, all occupations are being upgraded. Even the simplest of office tasks will soon be done by machines, and running the machines will require training. Jobs for the unskilled and the untrained will diminish steadily and just about vanish."

By 1965, the magazine predicts, demand for high-level workers will be so great that for every seven professional and technical jobs there will be only five available qualified workers. But, "for those who haven't acquired skills or education, there will be three such workers for every two jobs available."

According to Changing Times, jobs will grow at the fastest rate in these categories: professional and technical; clerical and sales, service occupations. There will be above-average expansion of opportunities, too, for administrative and skilled workers. "But semi-skilled and unskilled workers and those who make their living on farms will find their occupations lagging behind the growth and even contracting in the face of it."

Marshall Style Revue at Newfolden July 16

Plans are set for the Marshall county 4-H style revue to be held Monday, July 16 at the Newfolden school gymnasium. Registration of participants will open at 1:30, and judging of the beginners' division is to begin promptly at 2 o'clock, the junior division at 3 o'clock and advanced division at 4:15. Judges for the revue are Mrs. G. Milford Peterson of Crookston and Mrs. Arthur Kohlhase of Warren.

The event is held each year in conjunction with the county fair. All girls enrolled in the 4-H clothing project are eligible to participate.

In the judging, a total of 100 points are divided into three categories. Fifty points are awarded for the outfit on the girl. This includes choice of texture, color and style, fit and appropriate choice of accessories. Twenty-five points are scored on the apparent quality of construction. Twenty-five points are scored on the posture, poise, grooming and attitude of the girl.

A blue ribbon group will be chosen, and the top 10 per cent of the group will be the court of honor. From the court of honor a queen and her attendant will be chosen to represent Marshall County at the state fair dress revue.

The names of the winning group are withheld and will be announced at the style revue on 4-H Night at the fair in Warren July 20. Governor Elmer L. Andersen will be present to crown the queen.

Members of the committee who worked on the final arrangements were Bonita Halfmann, chairman; Judi Olson, both of Stephen; and Muriel Jorgenson of Argyle.

Village Assessor at Roseau Is Still Working at Age 90

"No one ever shot at me, threw me out or anything like that", said Edward Overby who, despite the fact he celebrated his 90th birthday Saturday, June 30, is still actively engaged as Roseau Village Assessor. Belived to be the oldest active assessor in the United States, Overby has "pounded the beat" in Roseau for some 29 years, says the Roseau Times-Region.

Overby, who came to Roseau in 1902 to work in the Olaf Hokdahl store, is a native of Norway and left that country when he was 22. After two years in Wisconsin, he moved to Roseau where he has lived since.

He began assessing in Roseau in 1924 and served until 194. when he quite for a time. "Then I took it again in 1953 and I've been at it since."

Editorials . . .

"Our history is replete with the names of patriots who paid the supreme sacrifice in winning and protecting our priceless heritage. These were men of action—men whose extraordinary deeds bespoke their belief in a Nation conceived in liberty and dedicated to the equality of all men. Today, perhaps as never before, America has need for doers of extraordinary deeds, men and women with the moral strength and courage of our forefathers. The smoldering embers of patriotism should be fanned into a flaming spirit of loyalty so that the world will know Americans will stand, fight, and die for the dignity of man."

—J. Edgar Hoover

Independent Africa

When the United Nations was organized in 1945 there were only four independent nations in Africa. Since then 28 colonies have gained independence and three more are well on the way. Africa is going to have a lot of votes in the General Assembly of that organization.

While Africa will soon have 30 votes, North America, excluding that part of it that is Latin America, will have only two votes. Maybe, in self-defense, we will have to reorganize as fifty independent states. Or possibly it would make more sense to pass out the votes according to the financial contributions.

More Pensions?

Congress is under pressure from a group of World War I veterans for a special $100 a month pension. It is to be hoped that Congress will have the courage to put an end to this pension nonsense.

No one begrudges the assistance given to those who were disabled in military service but there is no justification for special assistance for those who came out of the service just as fit physically as they were when they went in. Military service in time of war is a privilege of good citizenship as well as a responsibility. But no American should have a special reward for just doing his duty.

Let's keep in mind that pensions are paid by the children and grandchildren of those who served. And let's keep in mind too that the government is already in serious trouble with its creditors.

Effective Medicine

At Whiting, Indiana, a judge gave 12 teenage boys a lesson in deportment they probably will not soon forget. In a drinking party they had littered up a section of Lake Michigan beach for which they were sentenced to either thirty days in jail and fines up to $65 or regular attendance at the beach each Saturday for the rest of the summer for beach-cleaning duty.

Five of the youngsters were ordered to visit a barber who had instruction to remove to the scalp their ducktail coifures. The three who had been caught drinking beer were ordered to lean over a courtroom table while each received 15 solid whacks to their rear ends by accompanying policemen and in front of about 250 spectators.

The 39-year-old judge is a public relations expert and a former naval intelligence officer who believes that kids need a good tanning once in a while when they step out of line. As we recall it that was effective medicine many years ago and maybe a little more of it would be effective now.

No Need for Despair

Old-timers are pretty well agreed that as an area we now are experiencing the most backward and the least hopeful crop season that they can remember. In the flood year of 1950 we had much more water to contend with but the crest of the flood came and went earlier. In that year most of the seeding was completed by the third week in June. This year the planted acres are comparatively few.

Now is not the time to give up in despair. Now is the time to take a closer look at our overall problem and determine what can be done to tide us through what may become a difficult winter. We are sure the situation is not hopeless. We are certain that we are better equipped to survive a few hardships than were the pioneers who preceded us.

So let's remain cheerful and hopeful, preparing for the worst and hoping that the year will prove to be better than we had expected. We have a lot of confidence in the law of averages. If the law of averages still works we have a lot of good weather ahead of us.

The Right Decision

Turkey growers of the country rejected the proposed national marketing order in the referendum that was held recently. The Department of Agriculture, which urged the adoption of the plan, announced the results last week. While a two-thirds majority would have been required to put the program into effect, the proposal failed to carry by a simple majority. In Minnesota the vote was 476 against to 390 for the measure.

The program would have put the turkey growers into a production strait jacket that would have given the big producers a vested interest and a right to remain large within a closed shop. There would be no hope for the producer of a small flock to expand.

Over a period of years turkey growers generally have done well. It has become a highly specialized operation and even the small flocks of today are large in comparison with those of the Dr. Billings era.

Last year was disastrous for the industry and the marketing plan offered by the Department of Agriculture would have set up strict production controls under government supervision. By their votes the growers have now indicated that they prefer to do their own regulating of production and it appears that they have accomplished that objective this year. With a substantial cut in production a better price is expected for this year's crop.

We are satisfied that the growers have made the right decision.

Dr. Heller to Bonn

According to Barron's Weekly, Dr. Walter W. Heller, President Kennedy's principal economic advisor, recently went to West Germany to ask Dr. Ludwig Erhard the recipe for the German economic miracle. Barron's suggests that Dr. Heller may not get a frank and factual reply because:

> "Since Dr. Erhard, in over a dozen years of public office, has lost some of the robust frankness of his earlier years, he may omit reference to one of the principal ingredients of his stewardship. It consisted of resolutely rejecting the advice of Dr. Walter W. Heller."

Inflationary Processes

Assuming that President Kennedy is sincere in his expressed desire to hold the line on inflation, and that in order to hold the line there must be curbs on wage-price increases, the administration seems to be neglecting a field of wage and salary boosts that are highly inflationary. In this field are the across-the-board pay increases for public employees at all levels. And in this field are the small battles for pay increases at the local level, not large enough by themselves to receive national recognition.

An example of this is the large number of strikes that are constantly under way in the building trades. Most of them seem to be strictly local, and, in terms of their effect on the national economy, they are not important. But in the aggregate they represent a national problem that deserves national recognition if a serious effort is to be made to hold the line on wage-price increases.

Construction costs are mounting steadily and to the point where construction, by private capital, is being discouraged.

And the continuing across-the-board wage increases for public employees, at all levels of government, must be passed along to the public in the form of higher taxes, adding to the inflationary processes by increasing the cost of doing business, costs that must be passed along to the ultimate consumer in the form of higher prices.

Financial Responsibility

We are told that when a Saudi Arabian motorist is at fault in a nonfatal accident he receives a 1-year prison sentence and loses his driving privilege for life. If an offending driver survives a mishap fatal to anyone else, he is beheaded without hesitation.

We are not suggesting that such drastic penalties be imposed as a solution for our highway accident problem, at least not all at once. We may have to resort to such extreme measures eventually but we prefer a gradual approach.

Three insurance associations, composed of companies writing about 80 per cent of the auto liability coverages in the nation, are recommending the following changes in the financial responsibility requirements of our state laws. These recommendations include:

1. Making the law applicable to all accidents resulting in property damage of $50 or more, as well as to all accidents resulting in bodily injury or death.
2. Requiring uninsured motorists involved in accidents to deposit a minimum security of $500, with this security to remain on deposit for a minimum of two years, and providing for suspension of drivers' licenses and registrations for at least two years when security is not deposited and claims not settled.
3. Requiring both owner and operator of an uninsured vehicle involved in an accident to carry insurance for five years.
4. Requiring the owner of an uninsured vehicle involved in a serious violation to carry insurance for five years even though the vehicle at the time was being operated by another party.
5. Requiring an uninsured motorist convicted of a moving violation to obtain insurance and, upon a second conviction, to maintain insurance or other proof of financial responsibility for five years.

Legislatures have been reluctant about adopting strict "financial responsibility" requirements as a prerequisite to the issuing of a driver's license. The tendency has been to require the proof of financial responsibility only after the first proven violation. The first one is for free—except for the victim.

In this matter of financial responsibility and insurance as a prerequisite to the issuance of a driver's permit, we should be guided by insurance company experience. It is not unreasonable to require that all drivers of cars and trucks be financially responsible, and there is no justification for postponing such a requirement until the driver has proven his incompetence.

Interesting Opinions

"It is time, that the railroads were restored to the dignity and responsibility of running their own business and not having it run for them, because the results of having it run for them are only too apparent . . . The current pattern of regulation puts a premium on inefficiency."

Minnesotans at Gettysburg

Sunday, July 1, in connection with our attendance at the Governors' Conference at Hershey, Pennsylvania, Eleanor and I had an opportunity to visit Gettysburg.

A new building has been built at the Gettysburg National Park to house a cyclorama picture of the Battle of Gettysburg which, when seen while listening to music and an account of the battle, becomes a memorable experience.

Here the fate of the United States hung in balance. General Lee with all his astuteness and ability was driving to encircle the union forces, defeat them and take Washington. Had he succeeded it would have likely ended the war and the United States have been divided.

The fact is, as we know, that it failed but what isn't as well known as it should be is that it was Minnesota's First Regiment that turned the tide in one of the most decisive and critical engagements in our nation's history.

After the first day of the battle, when General Lee had concentrated his attack on the outer portions of the defense without great success, he decided to mount a full attack on the center of the Union line, at Gettysburg. One section of it was penetrated and the Union forces there were yielding in confused retreat. The Minnesota Regiment was called to fill the gap in a sacrificial effort to gain time while other union forces were brought up.

Only 262 Minnesota men rushed into the breach as thousands of southern forces advanced. Eighty-two per cent of the Minnesota men fell, dead or wounded, the heaviest percentage of casualties in any battle our country has ever been engaged in. The effort succeeded, the southerners' first line turned and confused the advance of the second line. Enough time was gained to get the Union support in position and to assure the ultimate victory for the North.

This took place on July 2, 1863. Thus next year will be the 100th anniversary of this engagement.

I plan to appoint a committee to begin plans now so that a suitable 100th anniversary observance could be made of this great event in the history of our country and in the history of Minnesota.

From the Battle of Gettysburg it is but a few minutes to the Eisenhower Farm. All of the Governors and their wives were invited to meet the former President and his wife in a most pleasant Sunday afternoon gathering.

I am so happy to report that both Mamie and Ike, as everyone affectionately calls them, look wonderfully well. They were happy, relaxed, rested, and full of vitality as they shook hands with all of the visitors and then mingled with them for nearly two hours. Their farm is in a beautiful part of Pennsylvania. The former President takes great pride in his Black Angus herd and the fact that he won a couple of blue ribbons at the International Livestock Show in Chicago last year.

Recalling the critical illnesses that struck then President Eisenhower, I think all of us can be so thankful that both he and his wife have been spared. After long military service to the Nation, when they were never anywhere long enough to own a home, and then great service in the presidency, they can now have a happy time on their farm and in whatever activity fits into their program. All the Governors, Democrats and Republicans alike, seemed delighted with our visit to the Eisenhower Farm.

To Aid Young Farmers

Survey Seeks Answers for Local Agriculture Problem

Letters will be mailed soon to Pennington county farmers by the Thief River Falls Young Farmer Committee, seeking information in regard to helping young men become established in farming in this area. This community is one of seven in the United States selected for a pilot study in the program with others including Willmar, Moorhead, Fergus Falls, Oklee, Greenbush and Lancaster.

Questionnaires included with the letter represent the first stage of the long-range program. The survey is being conducted to build a file, without which the project would be impossible. The project is being carried on by local people in an effort to build a stronger agricultural community in this area.

"A farm youth program is being developed in your community to assist the prospective farmer," the letter states. "Through this questionnaire a local committee hopes to gather information to implement and guide the program. Your cooperation will greatly assist in the rural development of your community."

Little Time Required

Information requested on the questionnaire is easily answered by the farm owner and only a few minutes will be required to fill out the form. A self-addressed envelope is also enclosed for ease in returning the completed blanks. The more complete the returns, the better the committee will be able to analyze the reports and draw conclusions from them.

Committee members include John Burtness, Fred Koop, Rufus Olson, Clyde Christensen, Phillip Bergland, Fred Sorensen, Kenneth Onken, Gene Belto, Marvin Lundin and Joel Rosengren. The program also involves the efforts of the local community, Farmers Home Administration, State De-

Howick Reelected School Board Head

Lloyd Howick was reelected chairman of the Thief River Falls board of education at the initial meeting of the new board held Monday evening at Lincoln high school. The session followed the final meeting of the former board at which the clerk's report was approved subject to the annual audit.

Morris Owen was elected vice chairman to succeed Robert Bredeson with the latter replacing Dr. Ralph Helm, who was defeated for reelection, as clerk. Rufus Olson was reelected treasurer and the treasurer's bond was set by the board at $25,000, the same figure as last year.

Official depositories designated by the board were Northern and Union State banks in this city. L. W. Bulien was reappointed school attorney, the Times was again designated as the official newspaper and the regular meeting night was set at the second Monday of each month.

Following a lengthy discussion of janitor's salaries for which the union had requested a 10 cents per hour across-the-board increase, the school board gave approval to a salary increase of two cents per hour. Considerable discussion was also devoted to the classroom situation for the benefit of the new board members, Howard Hoel and K. Russell Anderson, who were recently elected.

U.S. Engineers Meet with Co. Board Monday

Confer on Water Problem in Eastern Pennington County

Two civilian representatives of the St. Paul office of the Corps of Army Engineers met with the Pennington county board at its July session Monday to confer on the regulation of the dam at the outlet of Red Lake, as well as on the water situation in Eastern Pennington county.

The two men, R. M. Cowan and H W. Harich, appeared here at the request of a local committee. Also present were a dozen farmers from the Kratka and River Valley areas and Ralph Hauswirth of the soil conservation service.

The St Paul men asked for volunteers to man check points along the river to keep the engineers better informed as to rainfall and water levels. In the afternoon they were taken on a tour of inspection of the affected area.

Gene Belto, vice president of the Carnegie library board, and Miss Frances Shanahan, librarian, appeared at the board's session to confer on the annual county contribution to the upkeep of the library. They pointed out a marked increase in rural patronage of the institution during the past year and the need for numerous improvements. Following the discussion, the board voted to increase its appropriation for current expenses to $2,000, compared to $1,400 in 1961; and again voted to set aside $1,000 for the building fund.

The meeting of the county board of equalization, scheduled for July 16, was deferred to Tuesday, August 14. It also was voted to receive bids on the winter's supply of fuel oil for the court house, the bids to be opened August 7.

County Treasurer Ellsworth Jorgenson and Sheriff Charles Richards submitted the names of county residents who had not paid the first half of their personal property taxes by July 1. None were canceled by the board, and the names of the delinquents will be published with the board minutes.

The board was notified that Milton S. Olson, who has served the past three years as probation and parole agent in this district, has resigned effective August 15 to take over a new position at Willmar, Minnesota. Robert H. Filing Deadline Is Tuesday, July 17

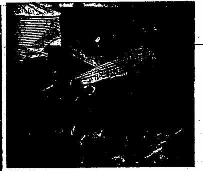
With next Tuesday, July 17, set as the deadline for candidates to file for state and county office, no additional aspirants appeared this week to file for Pennington county posts, it was announced this morning by County Auditor C. W. Rodekuhr.

REPAIR of damage wrought by Monday night's tornado was underway immediately on Tuesday. In the above photo a group of neighbors assist Carl Zinter in bracing a sagging barn roof from which one side was torn out in the storm. In addition to damage to the 32x70 barn, a large machine shed in which a car and pickup were stored collapsed and the vehicles had to be cut free with a saw.



LEVELED by Monday night's tornadic winds was this hollow tile silo on the Helmer Finstad farm which is being occupied by the Timothy Breiland family. The 31x14 silo was completely dismantled on the farm located four miles south and one and one-half miles east of Thief River Falls. Considerable damage was also done to trees, machine shed and chicken house and the barn on the farm. A section of evergreen tree about 30 feet in length was snapped off near the house and the tops of other evergreen trees were broken.

An Ill Wind Blew . . .

Tornado Travels Path Of Destruction Monday

Cutting a path in a generally east by southeast direction, tornadic winds swept across part of Pennington county Monday night and left a large number of damaged buildings and ruined trees in its wake. No personal injuries or livestock losses have been reported but property damage was extensive. Heavy rain and hail were noted in other areas of the county with Thief River Falls being in the hub of the damage circle.

Many county residents reported seeing the funnel cloud which apparently slashed across the county from a point several miles southeast of here. The whirling nature of the wind was apparent in a survey of damage which showed trees lying in every direction, barns and sheds twisted off foundations or torn apart and yards filled with debris. At one point southeast of town a drill in an open field was neatly overturned on its top.

While wind was the major cause of damage south, southeast and southwest of the city, hail was heavy in Thief River Falls itself and to the northwest. To the east and northeast there was some wind and very heavy rainfall. Here in town the hail fell for about 10 minutes around 9 p. m., at first during a lull in the rain and later with a heavy, wind-driven shower. Hail stones ranged to the size of golf balls with a few larger and many smaller ice pellets noted.

At the James Muzzy farm north of the city, there was little hail or wind but about an inch and one-half rain was received. At the LaVerne Randorf farm on the ridge about six miles northwest of town, hail damage was heavy and rainfall totaled 2.4 inches. The Edwin Swanson farm only 2 miles north of the city had high winds, more than three inches of rain and hail damage to 20 acres of wheat and oats—the only seeding on the farm this spring. At the Clyde Christensen farm five miles east and a mile south, rain totaled 2.3 inches and only a few hailstones fell.

Damage from the wind storm is shown in a number of representative pictures in today's issue of the Times. Reports of damage to at least a dozen barns have been received and other buildings in the tornado area were damaged by the twister. With each conversation with area farmers, new damage reports are discovered and it is impossible to cover them all.

Unusual Happenings

Some of the unusual circumstances indicating the freak nature of the storm are as follows:

POWER of Monday night's tornado which created heavy damage along a narrow path which cut through Pennington county south of Thief River Falls is illustrated in the above photo. Part of a siding board from a machine shed at the Albert Koop farm two miles south and one and one-half miles west was driven through the northwest corner of the house roof. The 18x30 shed was scattered through the woods with one section of the wall crashing into the corner of the house. Other damage to trees and buildings was extensive.

TWISTED stumps of large trees were common in the tornado area following Monday's storm and bear testimony to the whirling force of the wind. This large oak tree was blown down at the Helmer Finstad farm five and one-half miles southeast of the city. At the nearby David Lee farm, the roof was lifted from a barn and another was damaged. A large tree was also uprooted and fell across the farm driveway.

County Fair Given Study at Joint Meeting

Friday Night Program Reviewed Cleanup of Grounds Is Underway

Members of the Pennington County Agricultural Society and the newly-organized Pennington County Fair Association, Inc., met in joint session Wednesday evening to map combined plans for the staging of the county fair on July 19 through 22. About 25 interested persons attended the meeting.

Considerable attention was devoted to plans presented by Howard Brandt for the Friday night 4-H club show which will include a parade of champions, presentation of several share-the-fun acts, and local talent acts including the Iver Aaseby family featuring ventriloquism, hypnotism and feats of magic. All 4-H club members will be admitted to the program free of charge with reduced rates of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children 6-12 being in effect for that evening.

Friday will be Kiddies Day at the fair with merchants now offering discount tickets free of charge to customers. The 10-cent ticket strips, which will permit youngsters to have 10-cent rides at the World of Tomorrow Shows midway, will also have a registration blank attached. The blanks may be deposited at the midway for a pony to be given away at 5:30 p. m. Friday. A ticket strip, compliments of the carnival, will be published in Monday's issue of the Times together with names of merchants where tickets may be received.

Volunteers will begin tonight with clean-up of the grounds, including grass cutting and face-lifting for buildings. Albert Koop is supervisor of grounds clean-up with Christ Haugen being hired as supervisor. Any volunteer workers who would like to contribute time to the project may report to the grounds any evening prior to the fair, according to Kenneth Onken, association secretary.

Mrs. Frank Hardisty will head a committee to arrange tables and display area in the women's building on Monday and a number of women volunteered to provide assistance. The National Guard will again handle parking duties this year and fair officials are hopeful that dry weather will

Sandra Olson Becomes Bride of Gary Anderson

At Evangelical Covenant Church in Crookston, vows were exchanged recently between Sandra Joy Olson of Crookston and Gary Dean Anderson of St. Hilaire. The double ring service was used by Rev. Paul H. Webster, with Rev Albert Myhrer of St. Hilaire, the groom's uncle, giving the sermonette. Two baskets of pink and white gladioli decorated the altar. Organist was Susan Rosberg of Kennedy, a friend of the bride. She accompanied the groom's friend, Frank Conklin of Minneapolis, as he sang, "Whither Thou Goest," "Trust and Obey," and "Each Step We Take."

The bride was attired in a floor-length gown of silk organza and Chantilly lace, styled with full bouffant skirt and shirred side drapes. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped neckline and long Mary Stuart sleeves. Her veil, of silk illusion, was caught by a Swedish crown. She carried a dozen pink roses arranged with a background of ferns, and accented with a huge satin bow.

Janet Olson, of Moorhead, was her sister's attendant as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were another sister, Julie Olson, of Crookston, and Harriet Rosberg of Los Angeles, Calif. They wore pink brocaded taffeta dresses styled with round necklines, full skirts falling from bows at the waistline, round hats to match the dresses, with white gloves, a gift of the bride, to complete their attire. They carried baskets of pink daisies.

Roger Anderson of Fargo, N. D., served his brother as best man. Dennis Anderson of St. Hilaire, another brother, also attended him, as did David Bowman of Loomis, Neb. They wore white dinner jackets with black trousers. Ushers were James Bowman, Loomis, Neb., a friend of the groom, and the bride's brothers, Daniel and Samuel Olson, of Crookston.

The bride's mother wore a beige dress, while the mother of the groom was in blue. Both wore white accessories and corsages of pink roses.

After the wedding ceremony, the parents of the bride gave a reception in the church parlors, with about 200 guests in attendance. A four-tiered bridal cake decorated in white and trimmed with pink flowers and bells graced the serving table. Presiding as hostesses were Mrs. Willard Heydt, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Raymond Ortloff, aunt of the groom. Mrs Charles Olson and Mrs. Roger Anderson, sisters-in-law of the bride and groom respectively, poured, and the cake was cut by Mrs. Elmer Durdahl and Mrs. Albert Myhrer, aunt of the bride and groom. Miss Linda McCormick had charge of the guest book, and Lucy Murphy and Ramona Olson, the bride's cousins, and Marcia McCormick arranged the gifts. Serving the guests were Barbara Ortloff, Karen Myhrer, Laurel Myhrer, and Roselyn Myhrer, cousins of the groom.

Guests attended from Los Angeles, Cal.; Loomis, Neb.; Fargo, N. D.: Minneapolis, Moorhead, Erskine, Fertile, Fisher, Red Lake Falls, Plummer, St. Hilaire, Thief River Falls, Kennedy and Beltrami.

For their honeymoon trip to Nestor Falls, Ontario, Canada, the bride selected a two-piece beige dress with matching accessories, and a red rose corsage. The couple is now at home in Crookston.

The bride, a graduate of Central High School, Crookston, is employed as a secretary at the Polk County State Bank. Her husband, who graduated from Lincoln high school in this city, is now attending the "U" of North Dakota at Grand Forks.

IN A CEREMONY solemnized at Bemidji June 23 Evelyn Joan Bender became the bride of Rex Allen Stout.

Mrs. Stout is a case worker with the local welfare board. Her husband is a pre-medical student at Miami School of Medicine at Coral Gables, Florida.

They will make their home in Coral Gables when school reopens for the fall term. In the interim, they are at home in Thief River Falls.

Miss Joan Bender Weds Rex Stout At Bemidji June 23

Attendants were Craig Stout of Sacramento, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Vern Rylander, Ronald Blackman and Mary McKee, all of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Donald Miller of Bemidji.

Andrew Floms Observe Their 60th Wedding Day

The Andrew Floms, of this city, who were married just after the turn of the century, celebrated their 60th anniversary on July 2, with open house at their home. With them on this notable occasion were three of their four living children, Myrtle, of Park River, N. D., Millard, of Sheboygan, Wisc., and Thomas, of this city. An adopted son, Reubert Haugen, of Tacoma, Washington, was not able to join them.

The wedding sixty years ago was unique in that a brother and sister from one family married a sister and brother from another family. And to make the 60th anniversary of that occurrence even more unusual, all four members of that original double-wedding party are still living. The other couple are the Ole Foseides of Edinburg, N. D. They were not able to travel here for the celebration, however.

The Floms were honored by the presence of a host of friends and relatives from Sheboygan, Wisc.; Park River, Grand Forks, and Edinburg, N. D., in addition to a large number from this city. They were presented with a corsage and boutonniere by four of their grandchildren, and with many gifts, bouquets, and messages of felicitation. Devotions were led by Rev. Harold Peterson of Trinity Lutheran Church of Thief River Falls.

The table where the honored couple was seated, was centered baked and cut by Mrs. Eddy Clemtson and Mrs. Donald Mastre. Mary Lou Flom was at the guest book, and Mrs. Thomas Flom presided as hostess. Lunch was served by Mrs. Torgus G. Flom and Mrs. Nels Flom.

Mrs. Flom is the former Mary Foseide, and Mrs. Foseide is the former Ida Flom.

Mr. Flom was born in Minnesota in 1877, and moved with his parents to the North Dakota Territory by covered wagon, in 1882. The eldest of his brothers walked the entire 250 miles, driving the cattle and sheep. The first year, since they moved in too late to plant a crop, their father had to seek employment in Grafton, about 40 miles away, traveling the distance both ways on foot, when he went home to see his family, and carrying what supplies he could.

Mrs. Flom was born in Walsh county, near Edinburg, in 1884. She married Andrew Flom in 1902. They moved to this city in 1957, from Melton, N. D. and have resided here since that time. Both are still remarkably active.

Weekend guests of the Ernest Berrys were Mrs. Berry's parents, Mr. and Mrs Frank Crawford and their granddaughter, Mary, of Cavalier, N. D.

Spending the past week here as guests of the Bob Reopelles were Mrs. Reopelle's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. William Gray, and their children, of Chicago, Ill.

Nelson-Mattison Vows Solemnized At McIntosh

The bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white Chantilly lace featuring a sweetheart neckline accentuated with seed pearls, and three-quarter-length sleeves. Inserts of lace and ruffled net, accented by bouquets of sequins, highlighted the full skirt in the front and back. The bridal bouquet was a cascade-style arrangement of red roses, white feathered carnations, and sprays of lilies-of-the-valley.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Jerome Turgeon of Red Lake Falls, the bride's sister. Her attire was a bright rose chiffon formal, with matching gloves, and a crystal necklace and earring set which she received as a gift from the bride.

Larry Turgeon of Brooks, the bride's cousin, attended the groom as best man. The men wore black business suits and black ties. The couple presented the best man with a pearl tie clip.

For the occasion of her daughter's marriage, the bride's mother wore a beige chiffon dress accented with brown accessories, while the groom's mother wore a white sheath dress with matching accessories and, like the bride's mother, she wore a corsage of red roses and white feathered carnations.

The couple was tendered a reception by the bride's parents in the church basement, attended by approximately 80 guests.

Featured was a four-tiered wedding cake decorated with bright red roses and green leaves, with the added touch of white doves and a bridal pair in miniature.

The bride graduated from Oklee high school, and the groom from Plummer high school.

The couple traveled through South Dakota, Wyoming, Montana and North Dakota on their wedding trip, for which Mrs. Mattison chose a black and white cotton dress with black accessories and a corsage of baby red roses.

They are now at home in Plummer, where the groom is engaged as a mechanic at the East Side Service.

EXCHANGING vows at McIntosh in a June wedding were Carol Ann Nelson of Brooks, and Roger D. Mattison, of Plummer.

Duane Thompson, with Mrs. Marlyn Sistad of Crookston providing traditional organ music before the ceremony and accompanying Jerome Halstad of Salol at the piano. He rendered several selections, singing "Because" preceding the ceremony, and "The Lord's Prayer" while the couple knelt at the altar.

The altar, piano, and reception room were all tastefully decorated with varied arrangements of garden flowers furnished by the bride's nephew, Harland Buck, and by Mrs. Maynard Morrissey.

The bride wore a two-piece suit of pink wool, and a corsage of a single white orchid.

Susan Kvikstad to Seek Queen Crown

by Marvin Lundin
City Editor

(Second in a series of eight personal interviews with finalists for the Miss America preliminary pageant held in connection with the 8th Annual Thief River Falls Jaycees Aquacade.)

If you hear a piano tinkling in the area of 107 Arnold av. S., the chances are that Susan Kvikstad is practicing her talent act for the Miss Aquacade pageant to be staged by the Thief River Falls Jaycees on Saturday, August 4. The 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kvikstad, Susan practices her piano rendition of "Prelude" by Rochmaninoff about two hours each day.

Such a talent number is a natural for Susan who has taken piano lessons for 11 years, almost two-thirds of her life. A 1962 graduate of Lincoln high school, Susan is 5 feet 4 inches tall, weighs 115 pounds, has light brown hair and hazel blue eyes.

Susan's father is an auditor for Standard Oil and her mother is employed at the Pennington county welfare office. The family also includes two brothers, James, 23, attending the University of Minnesota, and Ronald, 17, who will be a senior at Lincoln this fall. Ron recently won the Jaycee-sponsored regional junior golf tourney held here.

Sports Enthusiast

An avid sports enthusiast, Susan finds her life to be full of activity. Swimming and tennis are her main summer sports while skating is a favorite during the winter. She holds a senior lifesaving certificate in the Red Cross water safety program. Hockey and basketball are her favorite spectator sports, but if both were played the same night she would prefer to watch hockey.

Her recently completed high school career held many activities. She played trumpet in the junior band for three years and senior band for three years, held the office of secretary in the Prowler band, played piano and trumpet for the school orchestra, was student director of the senior class play, was a member of the production staff for the senior class play, was a member of the production staff for the junior class play, member of drama and pep clubs and played in the band for the "Babes in Toyland" operetta this spring. In her junior year at LHS she gained an A rating with a piano solo at the district music festival. She is also a past officer of Trinity Lutheran Senior League.

Sewing Hobby

In addition to her music and sports activities, her main hobby is sewing. In spite of the fact that home economics was crowded out of her schedule at school, she makes many of her own clothes, catering to sportswear and clothes for school. With her mother working, she also does much of the meal preparation at home.

Susan is a clerk at the Pharmacy where she has been employed for two years. This fall she plans to attend the University of Minnesota and will major in either home economics or music.

Survey Announced To Secure Farm Land Information

partment of Education, and the Agricultural Education Division, University of Minnesota.

The trend to larger and more specialized farms makes it more difficult for young men to become established in farming. Transfer of equity and management of farm business units from one generation to another is a continuing process. There is a lag, however, in suitable procedures which allow young men to assume operational responsibility for family farms of their own.

Four Main Problems

Four main problem areas are capital requirements to become established in farming, locating of farming operations which may be available, identifying qualified young farmers and young farmer education to assure their doing the best job possible.

There are few communities in the state where any type of "clearing house" of information on farming and other agricultural business opportunities is available to serve young farmers. The local committee proposes to establish such a file, find young farmers who are suited to good farm management and locate farms which they may be able to acquire over a period of time.

Farm Sale Problem

Frequently a farm couple ready to retire sells the business to a large operator with the capital to make the purchase and add the land to an operation already sufficiently large to comprise an economically sound family farm business. Under previous arrangements, the farm could as well be transferred to a young farmer operating it as a separate business unit.

Partnership or rental agreements incorporating an option to purchase could be entered into with a young farmer This gradual shift in equity may save much in taxes for the seller and, at the same time, provide an opportunity for establishment in a family farm by a young farmer.

Democracy will survive only so long as opportunity for maximum individual development keeps pace with the constancy of change.

Tornado Creates Much Damage in Area Mon. Night

At the Albert Koop farm southwest of town, a machine shed was demolished with one wall sailing through a heavy grove of trees and striking the northwest corner of the house, driving a section of six-inch siding through the roof and one of the eaves.

At the David Lee farm, four miles south and one and one-half miles east, one window pane was drawn out by the vacuum created and the venetian blind also was pulled outside. Mrs. Lee calmly tied the curtain in a knot and hung it on the wall to keep it inside.

At the Helmer Finstad farm occupied by Timothy Breiland, the silo blew down northeast, trees near the house blew down north and oak trees in the grove blew down straight east.

At the Ray Krohn farm southwest of town, it was reported that the mattress was blown off the bed in the farm home and one wall was bulged out while the family was gone on vacation.

At the Clayton Mathson farm southeast of town, the wind hurled a 20x50 foot machine shed north through a grove of poplar trees, leaving broken branches and scraped bark on the trees.

Arnold Engelstad, southeast of town, reported watching the funnel form almost above him with avid interest and then seeing dark black clouds rush across the horizon to the southeast. He became so engrossed in watching that when he suddenly realized the pending danger he took refuge with his family in the basement. His brother James, at a nearby farm, watch a TV thriller through the entire storm without even noticing the damage being done nearby.

At the municipal airport only .85 inch of rain was recorded and wind velocity was noted at 70 miles per hour although North Central Airlines personnel state that it likely was greater at another time than observation.

Sirens Alarm Residents

East side residents were alarmed by a civil defense siren which sounded about 3:30 a. m. and continued to wail steadily for about 20 minutes. Kendall Gustafson, county civil defense director, reported to the Times that the blast was apparently caused by lightning which sprung a relay switch to the "on" position and excessive moisture caused it to stay open, creating difficulty in making the repair necessary to stop the siren.

Most of the area experienced two heavy rain periods, one about 9 p. m. and the other about 3:30 a.m. Tuesday. A number of insurance claims have been filed for both hail and wind damage, but an estimate of damage in the area has not been made. Had this been a normal season with crop prospects bright, the damage would have been much greater.

4-H Leaders Council Asks Garden Seeds for Philippine Islands

Pennington county 4-H Council will experiment with vegetable production in the Philippines this year. The decision was approved by the council at its July meeting Mrs. Ernest Swanson explained that missionaries in the Philippines could use garden seeds to help the people in that country find and produce crops to help alleviate hunger and hardship.

The 4-H leaders decided that considerable garden seed left over from this year could be brought in and sent to the missionaries. The garden seed will be collected during the county fair with Robert McCrum in charge of the stand. Everyone in the county in addition to 4-H families is urged to bring in any garden seed during the fair for this project.

The county fair was the center of discussion at the meeting. Preregistration for the county fair indicates an increase of all exhibits in the 4-H section with 12 per cent increase in 4-H enrollment this year.

A 4-H and community program will be staged on the second day of the fair, Friday, July 20. Some acts, PTA numbers, and a ventriloquist act have been arranged. The parade of champions will precede the program. The committee in charge of the Friday night program includes Howard Brandt, chairman; Mrs. Maurice Steiger, Mrs. Orlando Chervestad, and Mrs Edgar Naplin. Ray Oen is in charge of general 4-H arrangements at the fair.

National Farm Safety Week will be held July 22-28 and 4-H clubs taking safety as a club project will be conducting special safety activities that week.

Nominations for Conservation and Health Camps to be held on September 13-16, and 16-19 respectively, are due in the extension office by July 31. The 4-H'ers must be currently enrolled in conservation or health and-or safety projects to receive the trip. They must have also been 14 years of age by January 1, 1962.

The dress revue arrangements were made for Friday, July 13. A report from junior leaders attending the state conference at St. Paul concluded the meeting.

Deanna Burtness voting delegate from Pennington county reported that state federation fees per member will now be 10 cents instead of 3 cents as in the past. She also pointed out procedures for electing state officers. Cathy Oski reported on "Education and Our Future". A report on the selection of college and kinds of information needed at different schools emphasizing proper college selection by high school graduates. Linda Tollefson reported on "Growing in Leadership". She stated that the visit to the Minnesota House of Representatives and making and passage of house bills under democratic procedure was the highlight for their group. All junior leaders expressed their thanks to the council for sponsoring their trips to the state conference.

Mrs. Ann Walter of Chicago visited at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Reopelle for the past several weeks. She returned home Friday.

TRF Given Credit for Programs on Juvenile Problem

Police Essay Contest Winner Cites City in Prize Winning Writing

Thief River Falls is listed among communities where programs to combat juvenile delinquency have been successful in an essay which won the 1962 contest sponsored by the Minnesota Police and Peace Officers association. The winning essay, written by Lawrence Kaplan of St. Paul Central high school, was published in the June issue of the Minnesota Police Journal.

In his first-place entry, Kaplan states, "Many authorities in their writings on juvenile delinquency have in the past presented to the American people various programs, some simple, some intricate, some down-to-earth, some idealistic, to combat this social disease.

"A few of these programs such as in Thief River Falls, Minn., Hyde Park-Kenwood Community, Chicago, Ill., and Santa Barbara, Calif., have been successful, but most have failed. The failure factor was and will continue to be due primarily to the apathy of the citizens of the community at large."

The contest is intended to stimulate the thinking of teenagers at the high school level on ways of avoiding and combating juvenile delinquency and carries a first place prize of $300. Sherwood Idso, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Idso of Thief River Falls, was a third place winner in the contest in 1960. A total of more than 5,500 entries were made in the contest this year.

A. Peterson Herd Tops DHIA in June

Merle Lundeen Is 2d and Clyde Christensen Third

Orville Peters, supervisor of the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement association, lists the following herds as the top ten in the association for the month of June:

	Milk	Fat	Test
A. Peterson	1312	43.4	3.31
M. Lundeen	1127	42.8	3.80
C. Christensen	1025	42.2	4.12
H. Sabo	1150	40.8	3.55
D. Svendsgaard	1051	40.7	3.87
E. Erickson	789	40.2	5.10
M. Morrison	1029	38.2	3.71
M. Mehrkens	1093	37.7	3.45
C. Swanson	976	37.4	3.83
P. Morkassel	794	36.4	4.58

There were 6 owner-sampler herds, 137 cows on test with 130 milking and 7 dry.

The herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd. The amount of milk or butterfat produced is averaged out over all the cows. This gives the farmer a record of the earning power of the herd for the month.

If too many dry cows are included in the herd then the average for that month may be low even though the cows which are milking produce a lot of milk.

Cows finishing with over 500 lbs. B.F. during the 1961-62 testing year, in a 365-day or less lactation, were:—John Burtness herd; cow-Stuby, 324 days, 15,250 lb. milk, 576 lb. fat; Clyde Christensen herd, cow-No. 25, 276 days, 11520 lb. milk, 505 lbs. fat; Clyde Christensen herd, cow-No. 49, 318 days, 16040 lb. milk, 502 lb. fat; Paul Morkassel herd, cow-Jill, 337 days, 12210 lb. milk, 522 lb. fat.

The association average per cow with 25 herds and 619 cows on test is milk, 919 lb. 33.9 lb. fat, average test 3.69. There were 563 cows milking 56 days.

7 Republicans File for State Offices Monday

The seven endorsed Republican candidates for state office went to the office of the secretary of state in a body in St. Paul Monday and paid $100 apiece to have their names put on the primary election ballot.

"It is a small price to pay for so great a privilege," remarked Gov. Elmer L. Andersen as he counted out his money. He is seeking his second term.

Lined up with him were State Rep. P. Kenneth Peterson, candidate for lieutenant governor; State Auditor Stafford King and State Treasurer Val Bjornson, both candidates for re-election; Robert Kunig, candidate for attorney general; Norbert McCrady, candidate for secretary of state, and Robert M. Johnson, candidate for railroad and warehouse commissioner.

Two of the candidates already have opposition in the primary. Kenneth Joyce, the nominee two years ago, has filed against McCrady, and Robert E. Johnson of Minneapolis has filed against Robert M. Johnson.

In a filing statement, the governor said his administration has "built a foundation of solid accomplishment during the past 18 months on which can be based great gains during the next important four years."

For the first time this year, officers will be elected for four-year terms. Up to now, all except the auditor have served two-year terms. The term of railroad and warehouse commissioners continues at six years.

King, auditor since 1931, said substantial progress has been made in accounting and control procedures during the past two years. Bjornson is seeking his sixth two-year term.

255,000 Owners of Stock Shares in Minnesota in 1962

Two-thirds Live In the Twin City Area, New York Stock Exchange Reports

Minnesota has an estimated 255,000 shareowners roughly two-thirds of them living in the Minneapolis-St. Paul and Duluth-Superior areas.

These are among the findings of the New York Stock Exchange's recently released 1962 census of shareowners, which determined that U. S. shareownership reached a new high of 17 million this year. Statistics for Minnesota, announced by Exchange President Keith Funston, show that:

Minneapolis-St. Paul and the metropolitan area—comprised of Anoka, Dakota, Hennepin, Ramsey and Washington Counties, have some 156,000 shareowners, or 61 per cent of the state's total. The incidence of shareownership for the area is one in 10.

Duluth-Superior and the metropolitan area comprised of St. Louis County (Minn.) and Douglas County (Wisc.) have some 22,000 shareowners. Duluth accounts for about 12,000 of these or 5 per cent of the state total, up by 1,000, or 9 per cent, from 1959. The incidence of shareownership for Duluth is one in 9, and for the metropolitan area, one in 13.

Dividends received by Minnesota shareowners in 1961 totaled $174,000,000. Of this total, $124,000,000 was received in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area and $13,000,000 in the Duluth Superior area.

One out of every 13 persons in Minnesota is a shareowner, compared with one out of 19 in 1959 and one out of 29 in 1956.

Minnesota's 255,000 shareowners comprise 1.5 per cent of the national total. The state total represents an increase of 80,000, or 46 per cent, over the 1959 total; this in turn was an increase of 65,000, or 59 per cent, over 1956.

Turkey Marketing Order Voted Down

Growers Reject Proposal by a Decisive Margin

Growers voted down a proposed national marketing order for turkeys in the referendum held June 18-22, according to preliminary results, announced today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Only 43.4 per cent of the growers voting favored the marketing order program.

Out of a national total of 7,188 producer votes cast, 3,116 growers favored the marketing order, according to Winton Knutson, Pennington county chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee. These votes represented marketing volume in 1961 of 815,241,000 pounds of live turkeys or 50 per cent of total volume voted.

A marketing order program can not be put into effect unless approved by at least two-thirds of the growers voting in a referendum, either by number or by volume of their production. Producers eligible to vote were those who marketed more than 3,600 pounds of turkeys in 1961.

The turkey marketing order had been proposed by the industry and formulated under existing legislation as a means of stabilizing prices to producers, many of whom lost heavily in 1961 as a result of over-production, the USDA report stated.

Sen. Louis Murray Announces Filing for Reelection

East Grand Forks Man Seeks To Represent the Enlarged 66th District

Sen. Louis Murray

Sen. Louis Murray, East Grand Forks, has announced his filing for a fourth four-year term in the Minnesota legislature. Murray has represented the 66th district since 1951 and is seeking reelection in the enlarged district which now includes Pennington and Red Lake counties.

Under the terms of the redistricting law, Polk, Pennington and Red Lake counties will have one senator. Red Lake and Pennington will elect one representative and Polk county will be reduced from two to one member in the house of representatives.

Sen. Murray is a lifelong resident of East Grand Forks where he previously served as municipal judge and city alderman. He is employed as a freight conductor and brakeman on the Northern Pacific railway and has been with the company since 1938. During World War II he served four years with the army engineers in the Southwest Pacific area.

During his term in the legislature he has been a member of committees including civil administration, general legislation, liquor control, public welfare and taxes and tax laws. He is a member of the only two existing interim committees on iron ore taxation and metropolitan sanitation. Last year he was chairman of the study commission on municipal annexation and consolidation.

Sen. Murray is interested in a survey of the Red Lake River by the Corps of Engineers to prevent flooding and crop damage. He is married and the father of six children.

"I certainly welcome Pennington and Red Lake counties into the 66th Legislative District," Sen Murray said. "I am anxious to become better acquainted with the people of this area and their problems. I hope to meet most of the citizens in the months ahead."

Smelt First Came to Lake Superior Just 32 Years Ago

Smelt, the fish that comes in a silvery horde to the shores and streams of Lake Superior early each spring, weren't always there.

Originally planted in Crystal Lake, Benzie County, Michigan in 1912, the smelt escaped into Lake Michigan. They migrated to upper Lake Huron and first appeared in Whitefish Bay at the east end of Lake Superior in 1930.

By 1936 they were found off the Marquette and Keweenaw Peninsula of Upper Michigan. It was ten years later before they were first noted in the west end of Lake Superior at Duluth by Ben Gustafson, Minnesota Fisheries Supervisor.

Today, having taken on an almost festival nature at the peak of the spring run—usually from April 20-25 the smelt spawning run stretches from Duluth along the Minnesota north shore of Superior almost to the Canadian border.

The program will begin with a tour of the field plots scheduled for 9:30 a.m. In spite of the difficult planting season, the grain plots look all the way from good to very good. Extreme wet conditions prevented the usual soils plot work on the east end of the experiment station.

In addition, there will be pictures and documents on display showing the course of experiment station work in Northwestern Minnesota.

For women interested in gardening and horticulture, a special program has been planned at 10 a. m., in the Animal Products building, with Dr. O. C. Turnquist of the University of Minnesota as speaker. A tour of the horticultural projects will be conducted at 11:00 a. m.

The noon-time period will be highlighted with a beef barbecue in the upper dining hall where those attending Crops Day may visit over the lunch hour.

A plant disease, weed, insect, and soils clinic will also be a feature of the Crops Day program. Visitors are invited to bring plant disease and insect specimens and soil samples for identification. Specialists from the University of Minnesota, St. Paul and Minnesota Department of Agriculture will be present to help with this phase of the program.

Thieves Bow 10-9 to Fosston Club

Two erratic innings of baseball, during which Fosston tallied nine runs, proved costly to the Thieves on Wednesday night as they dropped a 10-9 decision to the Fosston Jets in a Norman-Polk league game played at Fosston.

The Thieves will meet the Twin Valley Twins in a Norman-Polk league game on the Fair Grounds diamond here on Sunday, with game time scheduled for 8:15 p. m.

In Wednesday night's game, which found the Thieves raking Dick Schuchardt for twenty-one hits but being able to tally but nine runs, while the Jets utilized their nine base hits off Freddy Jensen, and seven Thieves' errors, to score ten runs.

In the Fosston first inning, Bob Rasmus lead off with a walk, Bill Cline, attempting to sacrifice, beat out a bunt for a hit, and Dave Carlin rolled a base-hit dribbler down the third-base line to fill the bases. Jensen whiffed Stan Otness for the first of thirteen strikeouts he collected. Wally Olson singled, driving in a pair of runs. Mark Carlin tripled to the fence in left-center, and a passed ball permitted Carlin to score the inning's fifth run.

In the third, Fosston garnered a run when Mark Carlin was credited with a home run as centerfielder Harlie Drees and right fielder Buzz Ward collided. The two players were badly shaken up by the collision, and it was fortunate that serious injuries did not result.

In the fifth, Fosston, on three hits, a walk, and four errors, scored four runs, to take a 10-4 lead.

The Thieves bunched three hits for three runs in the sixth inning, paring the Jets' lead to 10-7. And in the ninth, with two out, Ward beat out a hit down the third-base line, and Dick Williams had a hit when his pop fly fell safely behind the mound, with Ward moving to third on the play. Jensen banged a single to center field, scoring Ward and Williams, but Jensen, attempting to advance to second on the throw to the plate, was cut down at second on Dick Schuchardt's throw to Rasmus.

The idle Grygla Red Sox, with their game with the Plummer club postponed because of wet grounds, maintained their commanding leading in the Pen-Ro-Shall league standings. With but four games remaining to be played, the Grygla club can clinch at least a share of the league title by defeating the Thief River Falls Bums on Sunday.

Middle River defeated Greenbush, 12 to 0, in a game played at Middle River. And the winless Thief River Falls Bums dropped a 20 to 8 decision to Badger in a game played at Badger.

In other games on next Sunday's slate, Badger will play at Middle River, and Plummer will travel to Greenbush.

Robert Prestebak was reelected president of the Bit and Bridle club of Goodridge at the annual meeting of the riding club held Sunday at the Prestebak farm. Annual dues were set at $1 per member or $2.50 for families with children.

Other officers elected were Lynn Hanson, first vice president succeeding Donald Hanson; Lowell Swanson, second vice president succeeding Michael Scott; Miss Karol Sevre, secretary succeeding Mrs. Norma Hanson; and Miss Linda Swanson, treasurer succeeding Mrs. Harold Einarson.

Pot-luck dinner was served and the afternoon was spent in riding horseback. Next meeting of the club will be at the Lynn Hanson farm in August.

Getting Serious

That squabble between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union, over which organization is to have jurisdiction over track and other branches of amateur athletics, is getting serious. And not only is it a "battle to the finish" between these two athletic greats, but it is also involving other athletic organizations.

At its recent convention in Saskatoon, Sak., the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations voted, by an overwhelming 35-2 margin, to associate with the N. C. A. A. in the proposed federations, which are designed to end the A. A. U's control of track and gymnastics. The California and Colorado associations cast dissenting votes, and eleven state associations abstained from voting.

Louis Fisher, president of the A. A. U., scored the high schools' action as "extending and legalizing all the malpractices of recruiting athletes down to the grade school level."

He added, "It is shocking that the N. C. A. A. previously has seen fit to take over control of summer high school contests in football and basketball, which are restricted to graduated high school seniors. I question the legal right of the N. C. A. A. to administer high school games."

During the prolonged A. A. U.-N. C. A. A. controversy, the Armed Forces have indicated that they will remain with the A. A. U. as the internationally recognized governing body. In addition, the A. A. U. has been endorsed by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, which has more than 400 member colleges. The University of Minnesota is a member of the N. C. A. A., but the state's smaller colleges, Hamline and others, belong to the N. A. I. A.

The N. C. A. A. is a powerful group, and does have control of the major college stadia in the country, and will be able to put a boycott on the A. A. U.-sponsored track and field tournments.

It's a Must

Baseball fans should make note that the Grand Forks American Legion junior baseball team, perhaps the strongest club in North Dakota junior circles, will be here on Saturday night for a game against coach Ralph Skay's juniors.

In an earlier game between the two clubs, played at Grand Forks on June 13, coach Marv Skaar's Grand Forks club, getting a no-hit and no-run performance from lefty Bob Morstad, defeated the locals, 3-0.

The rivalry between the teams and the coaches has been intense, and the game should be exciting. That Grand Forks club, as are all of coach Skaar's teams, is very impressive physically. They are a big and strong outfit.

Game time is at 8:00 p. m. on Saturday.

This week's schedule will be highlighted by the All-Star game slated for the Fertile diamond on Thursday night, July 19. The North All-Stars, selected from Crookston, Fosston, Erskine, and Thief River Falls, will play the South All-Stars, named from players from Ada, Halstad, Twin Valley, and Fertile. Eagles Picnic for Children July 15

The Thief River Falls Eagles aerie will hold its annual picnic for members' children next Sunday, July 15, at the Connie Haugen place near this city. Games will be played, and free ice cream and pop will be served to all children of paid-up members, Lloyd Hogenson, chairman, announced. Coffee and lunch will be served to Eagles and their ladies.

Legion Jrs. Split 2 Tilts This Week

The local American Legion junior baseball club will close out its home schedule this week, meeting the Crookston juniors here this evening, Thursday, at 6:30 p. m., and the powerful Grand Forks juniors on Saturday night, 8:00 p. m. The local club will conclude its pre-tournament schedule on Monday evening when they meet coach Dick Werdahl's Fertile team at Fertile, with game time at 6:30 p. m.

It was a win and a loss in the pair of games played earlier this week. In an extra-inning tilt at Fosston on Monday night, an unearned run in the last half of the ninth gave coach Bob Rasmus' Fosston team a 4-3 decision. And on Tuesday evening, playing at Warroad, coach Skay's club defeated Warroad, 9-7.

In Monday night's extra-inning loss, Fosston's Mark Carlin, getting his second hit of the game, rapped a single into center field to score Jim Thoreen from second base with the game-winning tally with two out. Rick Jensen, pitching for the locals, struck out Anderson and Pearson to start the inning, then doled out a walk to Thoreen. Matson gained a "life" on an error, setting up Carlin's game-winning hit.

Paul Klungness and John Aune were the hitting stars in the locals' 9-7 conquest of Warroad on Tuesday evening. Paul racked up two hits in two tries, including a three-run triple, and scored three runs, while John had three hits in five tries, including a double. Righthander Tony Poole gave up six hits, and struck out ten in a route-going performance.

Afghanistan Student Seeks Knowledge Here

Ghulam Rashteenyar Rotary Club Speaker; Tells of Home Progress

STUDYING American methods in agriculture to bring more advanced ideas and an improved standard of living to rural people in Afghanistan is Ghulam Rashteenyar, shown above with Fred Sorensen, agricultural coordinator for the Thief River Falls area vocational school. Rashteenyar was extremely interested in the possibilities for honey production and is shown inspecting bee hives at the Clyde Christensen farm east of Thief River Falls.

Agriculture in Afghanistan and its importance to the people of that country were explained for the Thief River Falls Rotary club Monday noon by Ghulam Rashteenyar, one of more than 200 students from that country studying in more than 40 colleges in 27 states this year. He was spending four days in Thief River Falls as a guest of Fred Sorensen, agricultural coordinator for the area vocational school, who introduced him at the meeting.

Seventy per cent of the people in Afghanistan are agriculturalists and most of these live in rural areas and villages. Potatoes, wheat and cotton are the many crops produced in the country which has an area of 250,000 square miles of which about 100,000 are mountainous. Grazing for sheep and goats is found in the lower parts of the mountainous area.

Rural people in Afghanistan "want a kind of education which will improve their local agriculture, develop their economic conditions and raise their standard of living," Rashteenyar said. "To meet these desires, we have a separate independent department called the Rural Development Department. It has a major program with a big organization."

In the last four or five decades the country had done a lot of work in establishing colleges, vocational schools, teacher training schools, junior and senior high schools and elementary schools. Many new buildings have been built for colleges, high school, libraries and laboratories.

Community Schools

Many community schools have been established. Since most farmers do not live on their farms but live in towns of from 200 to 40,000 people, the community school answered the need for a cooperative educational center.

Such schools offer modern courses for the out-of-school youth and adults who, for some reason, have not learned to read and write or have a lack of knowledge about modern practices. Courses are being developed and improved according to the present and future demands of the modern world and in this way help to strengthen the knowledge of the community in general.

Also taught at the schools in addition to methods for improving local agriculture are weaving, tailoring, raising of cattle, sheep and chickens, building construction and improvement of health facilities. In addition to the Ministry of Education, each school is under the direction of a planning committee and a central committee. The planning committee is elected by the community.

Duties Explained

Duties of the planning committee are to study needs of the community, help the community curriculum workers in arranging and confirming the appropriate plans and programs, provide vocational or professional personnel such as trained teachers, take the responsibility of providing for finances and laborers for the construction of school buildings and maintenance, and make donations of teaching aids and materials such as weaving apparatus and tools.

"It is the teacher's duty to acquaint themselves with their respective communities and to show an attitude of interest and cooperation," the speaker said. "They should seek to discover the needs and problems of the people and of the community as a whole, and then they set up their goals for teaching. They should present their lessons in such a way that the needs of the community will be fulfilled and so that the students will learn the modern ideas about freedom and a higher standard of living. They should present their lessons with understanding and according to the maturity and aptitude of their students.

"The pupils," he continued, "should show their agreement with the works of the school and teachers, and should with sincerity and enthusiasm, do their best and devote most of their time to the improvement and advancement of themselves and of their school. They should not show any hesitation in doing their work, but they should participate in each problem theoretically and practically. In short, I should say, they must have a good, cooperative spirit with the school and with their community."

With the Moslem religion being the only one in Afghanistan, it plays an extremely important role in the thinking and conduct of the people. As a result there is a great desire for education among the people, little youth problem and a cooperative spirit for progress.

IN THE CITY the force of the storm was not felt as greatly as in the rural area but it was none-the-less evident. Hail stones, many of which were the size of golf balls, are shown on the Pennington county courthouse lawn in the above photo as cars splash through water at the intersection of Main avenue and First street. Hail fell heaviest without rain but was preceded and followed by wind-driven rainfall.

Making Proper Turns on Highways Is Plea

Most people wouldn't hesitate to do a good turn for a friend, neighbor or even a stranger in trouble. But how often do we do "good turns" on the highway, asks the highway department safety division.

Last year's drivers who made improper turns or failed to signal properly caused 7,109 reportable accidents, including 14 in which lives were lost.

What you do on the highway should not come as a surprise to other drivers. They want to know what you plan to do before you do it, and in time to react properly. Get into the proper lane for your turn well ahead of the place you plan to make it.

Signal for a turn at least 100 feet before you make it. Remember that a glaring sun may make your signal lights difficult to see. Add an arm signal during the daytime—up for a right turn, horizontal for a left, down for slowing or stopping.

But a signal isn't a substitute for common sense and judgment. A pedestrian may stumble in a crosswalk, children may dart across your path, another car may make a sudden wrong move — watch for quickly developing situations.

Your Minnesota Drivers Manual can give you more hints on making proper turns and signals. Get one at your nearest driver examining station or the Highway department office.

Dogs Kill 44 Deer in Anoka Refuge in Winter Months

Dogs killed 44 deer in the Carlos Avery wildlife management area in Anoka county, just north of the Twin Cities, during the past winter, according to Frank Kinneman area game manager.

The dogs did not get away unscathed, however, as 23 were shot by game and fish division personnel in the same period.

Kinneman said the deer are particularly vulnerable in the winter when deep snow slows their progress.

Because the wildlife area is long and narrow and is surrounded by habitations, control of the predator dogs is difficult.

July 20 Letting to Cost $11.5 Million

State Highway Dept. to Get Bids on Big Projects

One of the biggest state lettings in the history of the Minnesota highway department will be held at the Department's St. Paul offices on July 20. An estimated $11½ million in 14 trunk highway and Interstate highway improvement projects will be let at this time for work in eleven counties.

The construction, which consists of grading, gravel sub-base, gravel and crushed rock base, bituminous shoulders, plant-mixed bituminous surfacing, six bridges, concrete paving, fencing, channelization, traffic signals, slope protection, drainage revision and building removal, involving 46.9 miles of highways, will be especially heavy in Houston, Winona, Jackson, Nobles, and Mower counties.

Four of the six bridges will be included in the Houston-Winona project which will cover 8.6 miles of TH 61 between LaCrescent and Dakota, and will be the biggest single project in the history of the department. This narrow neck of the heavily traveled river route will be joined by Interstate 90 just north of LaCrescent and continue northward to one mile north of CSAH 16 at Dakota before turning westward and then southwesterly across the southern portion of the state. In addition to the bridges there will be grading, crushed rock base, concrete paving and plant-mixed bituminous surfacing.

Jackson and Nobles counties will have a 24½ mile plant-mixed bituminous surfacing project running in both counties between Worthington and Wilder on T. H. 16. This job alone will require around 60,000 tons of gravel sub-base before 98,580 tons of bituminous mixture and 83,690 gals. of bituminous material, plus 1,165 tons of aggregate for seal coat, is applied.

The third job of extensive proportions consists of gravel base, concrete pavement and bituminous shoulders on eleven miles of Interstate Highway 90 in Mower county between Dexter and the north county line.

Editorials . . .

"Intellectual culture consists not chiefly in accumulating information but in building up a force of thought which may be turned at will on any subject on which we are called to pass judgment. The force is manifested in the concentration of the attention, in accurate, penetrating observation, in reducing complex subjects to their elements, in diving beneath the effect to the cause, in detecting the more subtle differences and resemblances in things, in reading the future in the present, and especially in rising from particular facts to general laws of universal truths."

—William Ellery Channing

The Right Approach

The Ford Foundation will devote a larger share of its program to the needs of our country during the coming decade, the 15-member board of trustees announced last week. Pledging emphasis primarily on "the problems and needs of the United States, the report stated, "one of the most effective ways to contribute to world peace and the peaceful solution of international disputes is through the invigoration and enrichment of American society."

That is a very encouraging statement in that a responsible organization that has no political ties recognizes the fact that our first objective must be to remain strong. We must get our own affairs in order before we assume responsibility for more of our neighbors' problems.

The Ford Foundation has a net worth of more than $2 billion and in the 11 years ending last September 30 it had made grants and appropriations of more than $1½ billion. In terms of government expenditures that isn't a large sum, but it is reasonable to assume that the Foundation gets a much bigger return for each dollar it spends than does the government.

The keynote of the report, in the opinion of Peter Kihss of the New York Times, was the expression of the "conviction that mankind has the means to liberate itself progressively from poverty, disease, ignorance and devastating war and to reach higher levels of civilization."

We like this approach, suggesting that progress must come gradually and requires a self-help effort by those who wish to be liberated.

"Elder Statesman"

Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges is considered by many to be the elder statesman in the President's cabinet according to Hoard's Dairyman, from which we clipped the following interesting observations:

"In a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post, the Secretary scored the average citizen's knowledge of economics. He said, If ignorance paid dividends, most Americans could make a fortune out of what they don't know about economics. He went on to say that America may be the greatest industrial power on earth but, for all that most of us know, our greatness might depend on growing breadfruit trees. Fifty years ago our ignorance might have been excusable. Today it is intolerable.

"Citing a survey among some college-eligible high school graduates, Hodges said that "many think you can push up living standards simply by raising wages or increasing government spending."

"That sort of illiteracy, he said, causes us to choose paths that damage the nation.

"He went on to state that everybody should know that if we spend, we can't save; if we buy this, we can't have that; the more taxes we impose . . . the less money there is for private spending."

It is encouraging to know that there is a man of this type in the President's cabinet. He obviously is not a run-of-the-mill politician. It is almost unbelievable that he and Hubert Humphrey are members of the same political party and this fact points up how meangingless our party organizations have become.

Hodges was formerly a governor of North Carolina and is, of course, a conservative.

We Are Drifting

The strike that has kept the Minneapolis Star and Tribune Co. from operating since April 12, now three months, is a good indication of how strong big labor has become in the control of our economy. This particular strike is not large enough in itself to be considered an emergency that would justify government intervention. But a large number of relatively small strikes, supported by rich, national labor organizations, are serious in the aggregate, and in the aggregate they do justify strong government action.

President Kennedy has spoken out boldly against price increases. He has suggested to labor that they should be reasonable in their wage demands. The bold talk and the "please be nice" were prompted by a fear of inflation.

European countries, under strong leadership, took strong action to curb inflation and restore the strength of their currencies. They enforced wage and price "pauses", and those countries are now enjoying prosperity and full employment.

President Kennedy's weak approach is not working, and it will not work. His order to government agencies to buy steel produced in American mills is a good example of cause and effect. A recent navy order for 3,500 tons went to a German mill as the low bidder. Now a 2,000-ton order will go to an American mill regardless of what the foreigners may offer. This means that the government is now starting to subsidize our steel industry because the industry no longer is competitive.

We all favor American industry, but American industry cannot expand unless it becomes competitive, and government subsidies are not the right solution.

If the President is sincere in his expressed opposition to more inflation he will have to be firm with both labor and management in all segments of employment, large and small. He will have to show the courage that was displayed by European leaders in actually holding the line on wage and price increases.

And while the Star-Tribune strike is relatively unimportant by itself, as it effects the American economy, the outcome of hundreds of these relatively unimportant strikes are tremendously important.

The Teamster's Union no doubt could pay regular wages to its striking Star-Tribune members indefinitely without being in financial difficulties. And, presumably, with that power they could put the Star-Tribune out of business for keeps, under present laws as they are being administered.

Obviously no labor organization should have that much power. We must find a way to settle these matters reasonably, perhaps by neutral umpires. Once a decision has been made then the struck plant would be directed to resume operations and the striking workers would be ordered to return to work or consider themselves fired.

The present situation is intolerable and calls for strong leadership if we are to remain strong as a nation, in a world of nations, some of which are making progress faster than is our country.

Confused Counting

The following observations on the British monetary system by the editor of Printers' Ink is just as interesting as it is entertaining. It is easy for us to laugh at the British for failing to adopt the decimal system, but while we are chuckling about their backwardness lets keep in mind that our failure to adopt the metric system of weights and measures is just as ridiculous. But here it is:

"Common Market or no Common Market, the British will be throwing away one of their biggest trade advantages if they switch their currency to the decimal system, as they recently announced they may.

"Nothing in Britain, not even the weather, is so beautifully calculated to confuse the competition as the currency. The half crown, for example, is a common coin, but there is no crown.

"Price tags are frequently written in guineas, but there is no such coin or bill. (The guinea—one pound and one shilling—is used primarily to hook the type of housewife, who, in America, believes $2.98 is really less than $3. Her British sister believes there isn't much difference between ten pounds and ten guineas, though there is—ten shillings or about $1.40.)

"British accountants work by some system of black magic and even simple addition requires a faith in the supernatural. Consider this sum:

2 pounds 16 shillings 6 pence

"An American would simply add six and six and get 12, than 18 and 16 and get 34 and so on. Not so the Briton—he adds six and six, puts down zero and carries one; then he adds 16 and 18, plus the one, gets 35, so he puts down 15 and carries one again and so on until he gets his answer (see below). This system, backed by efficient armed forces, has kept Britian safe from invasion nine centuries.

"Recently the British have been streamlining their currency. They redesigned the wallpaper-sized five pound note, which was blank on one side and used to accumulate love notes, odd bits of poetry and lunch-table jottings as it circulated. Now they propose to make international trade more efficient, but much duller, by adopting the decimal system.

"We wouldn't presume to advise the British on their own economy, but they seem to be tossing away an asset. Right now, as the only people who can add, subtract or multiply their money, they go into international conferences in a state of one-upness."

(Answer: Six pounds and 15 shillings. Sixpence and sixpence equal 12 pence or one shilling, which is carried over to the middle column. Sixteen plus 18 plus the one adds up to 35 shillings, or one pound and 15 shillings, so the 15 is put down and the one pound, carried over to the left-hand column where, added to three and two, it totals six. The method of multiplication has never been revealed to any foreigner.)

Interesting Opinions . . .

"I believe that, just as the winds of change are glowing in Africa, in Latin America, in Asia, and in Western Europe, there are at least symptomatic breezes behind the Iron and Bamboo Curtains in the Sino-Soviet empire.

"I believe that 10, 20, or 30 years from now there will come changes in the internal and external attitudes of the Russian, the Chinese and the satellite leaders and in the attitudes of their peoples which will make peaceful coexistence a genuine condition and not the hoax or the fraud which it is intended to be today."

—Livingston T. Merchant, U. S. Ambassador to Canada

W.L.B. Said

"You might as well try to dam Niagara with a shingle as to attempt to hold a man back who thinks straight and works hard."

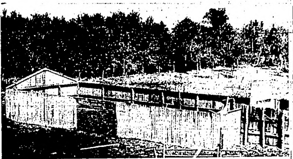
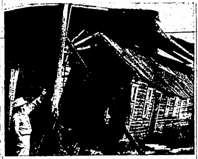
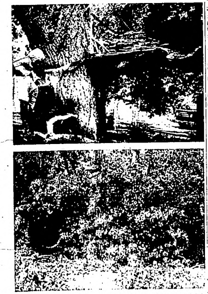
Storm Damage Review Through Times Camera



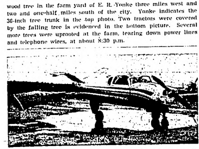
OPEN AIR cattle shelter is what this 26x60 shed on the Ole Bergland farm near the municipal airport looked like following Monday night's storm. Sheets of metal roofing were strewn through the yard in a southeasterly course. The Berglands have 120 head of beef cattle, and as a result of trees blowing across fences they have of necessity been placed in one pasture south of the farm yard. Considerable damage was done to trees at the farm, top of the silo caved in, electric lines were broken and several windows in the house were also broken.



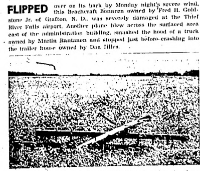
SMASHED into kindling was this barn roof at the Ray Krohn farm four miles west and one and one-half miles south of the city. Jim Krohn is shown pointing to the damaged structure. Light and telephone service was off, several trees blew down and the north wall of the house was bulged out by the severe wind. The Ray Krohn family is gone on vacation.



CRASHING down during the height of Monday night's storm was a large section of a huge cottonwood tree in the farm yard of E. R. Yonke three miles west and two and one-half miles south of the city. Yonke indicates the 36-inch tree trunk in the top photo. Two tractors were covered by the falling tree is evidenced in the bottom picture. Several more trees were uprooted at the farm, tearing down power lines and telephone wires, at about 8:30 p.m.

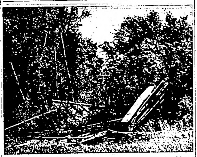


FLIPPED over on its back by Monday night's severe wind, this Beachcraft Bonanza owned by Fred H. Goldstone Jr. of Grafton, N. D., was severely damaged at the Thief River Falls airport. Another plane blew across the surfaced area east of the administration building, smashed the hood of a truck owned by Martin Rantanen and stopped just before crashing into the trailer house owned by Dan Illies.



TELEPHONE poles carrying Farmers Mutual phone lines south of the city were in some cases snapped like matchsticks as illustrated above. Poles were pulled out of the ground, bent and twisted by the storm. Seven to nine lines were out of service most of Tuesday. Frank Brown, acting service superintendent at NW. Bell office in Thief River Falls, reported little damage to that company's lines.

FORCE of the wind from Monday's storm was also notable in the city. This photo taken from the doorway of the Pennington county courthouse shows the wind-whipped tree in front of Carnegie public library and the battered flowers in the courthouse planter following early hail. The picture was taken about 9 p.m.



STANDING alone are several pieces of machinery which were housed in an 18x30 machine shed on the Albert Koop farm two miles south and one and one-half miles west of the city. The shed was scattered through the farm grove in a southeast path with one section of a wall hitting the northwest corner of the house. Some miscellaneous items, leaned against the walls while the shed was standing, were still in place when the walls came to rest in the woods.

UPROOTED by the force of Monday night's tornado was this large boxelder tree in the front lawn of the Edwin D. Hanson farm one mile east and one-half mile south of the municipal airport. Hanson said the wind seemed to blow from the southeast and then from straight north. This tree, which had provided shade for the house, a swing for the youngsters and base for a platform playhouse, fell nearly straight west, parallel with the front of the house.

Karlstad Girl, 17, Drowns Saturday

Linda Gorsuch Loses Life in Livestock Pond

Linda Gorsuch, 17, of Karlstad, drowned Saturday in a livestock pond on her father's farm while a younger brother and sister, unable to swim, looked helplessly on.

Linda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Gorsuch, drowned about 4 p. m. in a 12-foot-deep stock watering pond a quarter of a mile from her farm home. The Forsuch farm is five miles east of Karlstad.

Kittson county authorities, called to the scene, recovered the body shortly after 7 p. m.

A younger sister, Gloria, 10, and a brother, Earl, 9, watched as Linda dove into the water, went under and came up calling for help. Unable to swim, they raced to the farmhouse to call their parents.

The Gorsuchs spent a half-hour in a desperate attempt to locate their daughter, then called the Sheriff's office in Hallock. Sheriff's deputies dragged the 60 by 100-foot pond for more than an hour before locating the girl.

ONE REASON for damage being extensive to evergreen trees in the storm area Monday is in evidence in the above photo. The trees were heavily coneladen, making the tops very heavy and forcing the tips to snap when whipped by the tornadic winds. This tree tap was found in the Edwin D. Hanson farm yard southeast of the city where about 25 evergreen trees were broken.

North Central Lines Wins '61 Safety Award

North Central Airlines today received the National Safety Council's top award for its perfect safety record in 1961. The Council's coveted award of honor was presented to North Central in recornition of the airline's record of no fatal accidents during the calendar year and an accident rate lower than the average rate for its group in the preceding three years.

North Central has won a safety citation every year since it began scheduled operations in February, 1948. During this period, the Minneapolis-St. Paul-based local airline has flown 1,115,000,000 passenger miles and carried 6,940,000 passengers without a single fatality or injury to passengers or crew members."

Hal N. Carr, North Central president, said the airline's 2,100 employees could take personal pride in the company's outstanding safety record over the past 14 years by their careful attention to safety regulations and programs.

The company, which leads the nation's local airline industry in passengers, mail and cargo carried, was one of 13 United States airlines to receive the Award of Honor. The citation is given to domestic, territorial and overseas carriers flying passenger routes.

North Central serves 91 cities in 10 states and two Canadian provinces over a 7100-mile system.

FISHERMEN

Dad and Butch are both getting a big kick out of this. If Butch catches a fish — even a minnow — it's hard to say who will be the prouder.

We suspect, though, that it will be Dad. He'd probably give this little man all the fish in the ocean, if he could!

He is giving him things that really count. Good clean fun and happiness, a sense of sportsmanship, and that special man-to-man bond between father and son. And because his son means so much to him, Dad takes Butch to the services of their church each week.

Boys have to do a lot of growing to get to be men. It takes a lot to keep them growing the right way. Weekly church and church school attendance is a big step forward. Don't keep your child from taking it!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

TRF Employment Increases In All But One Category

Government Job Drop Caused by Teachers Gone During Summer

Employment in Thief River Falls for the second quarter of 1962 showed an increase in all but one group from the end of the first quarter, but that decrease was sufficient in number to result in a drop in total employment for the second quarter. Figures on employment by industry in the city were compiled and announced recently by R. S. Eldevik, manager of the Minnesota State Employment Service here.

As of mid-June, employment totaled 2,613 in comparison with 2,566 as of mid-March—a drop of 47 workers. Number of government employees, which includes teachers in public schools and all city, county, state and federal employees, dropped 144 from 481 to 337, due mainly to the end of the school term. All other types of employment showed a combined increase of 97 workers.

Increased employment is expected in the third quarter with turkey processing starting in July increasing as local projects are underway. Government employment will return to its peak when school personnel return in late August, Eldevik explained

"It is as yet unknown how much the loss of crop prospects in the area will tighten spending," the manager stated, "but it is expected to be considerable. The loss of income will be felt particularly in local wholesale and retail trade.

Worker Demand Light

"The demand for workers has been very light during the entire quarter. Most seasonally employed construction workers have returned to their regular employers, but several weeks later than usual. Supply of workers, particularly seasonal construction workers, has been very high; but toward the end of the quarter this supply has been reduced substantially by call-backs to road and building construction employers."

Employment by industry in Thief River Falls for the first two quarters and the number increasing or decreasing is indicated on the table below:—

Ind. Group	March 1962	June 1962	No. Change
Local Trade	960	979	19
Service	567	579	12
Manufacturing	191	213	22

Government*	481	337	—144
Construction	81	123	42
Finance	85	87	2
TOTAL	2,613	2,566	—47

Compared with the three-year average, employment at the end of the second quarter is down by 86 workers. This is due mainly to a change in turkey processing operations with hen birds being shipped to other plants rather than processed here. A comparative table is shown with this story.

Local Girl Among Scouts Attending Vermont Round-up

More Than 10,000 To Gather in Observing GSA 50th Anniversary

Acres of girls under tons of tents start celebrating an anniversary this week that ladies don't generally admit to—the Girl Scouts are 50 years old. Trudy Waale of Thief River Falls is one of nine girls from the Northwestern Minnesota Girl Scout Council attending.

And rather than hide their age, the girls are going to hold one of the largest female stag parties ever in order to mark the event. More than 10,000 members of the Girl Scouts of America from all 50 states begin a roundup July 18 that will run through July 31 and include, among other things, 432,000 meals and 14,000 campfires.

The roundup will take place at the Button Bay State Park in Vermont, about 25 miles south of Burlington on Lake Champlain.

To make a campsite for the young ladies, the state of Vermont installed a 250,000 gallon a day water system tapping the lake; the scouts built an outdoor arena for 10,000 persons, the Army supplied 100 tons of tents and a 100 bed field hospital and the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. built a microwave tower to handle long distance phone calls so the scouts can report home about it all.

Girl Scout headquarters says it will be the largest mass movement of Girl Scouts in the United

Two Hit-and-Run Accidents Noted by City Police

Several accidents, two of them involving vehicles which left the scene of the mishaps, were reported and investigated by the Thief River Falls police department during the past several days.

At 10:50 a. m. on Saturday, a car driven by Alfred B Stenberg of the city was traveling east on Eighth street when hit on the right front side by a car driven by Emil Anderson of Kennedy and traveling north on LaBree. Stenberg received bruises and Mrs. Anderson was treated and released at the local hospital. Charges against Anderson, who failed to stop for a stop sign, are pending by the local police department. Each car received about $400 damage.

On Friday afternoon a car owned by Lawrence Lasage of Winnipeg was parked at the rear of the Wetch hotel when struck by another vehicle which left the scene of the accident. About $35 damage was done to the car which was struck above the bumper and below the door lid.

At about 9 p. m. Thursday, a car owned by Marvin Lundin, city, was parked in the city parking lot near First street between LaBree and Horace avenues, when struck on the left front fender and headlight by a car which also left the scene of the accident. About $35 damage was done to the car and the case is under investigation by the local police department.

The department also reports the theft of two bicycles from the yard at 305 Kneale Av. N. One bike was a red English-made machine and the other a red Schwinn with front and rear baskets. Anyone noticing either of the bicycles is asked to contact the department.

EMCEE for the Marios Bros. Circus which will play Saturday and Sunday at the Pennington county fair will be Sammy Ross, a fine musician and comedian. Rep. Langen Files for Reelection

Congressman Will Seek Third Term in Office

Congressman Odin Langen, two-term Republican representative from Minnesota's Ninth district, announced Saturday that he will seek re-election in the newly formed Seventh district. Langen, in mailing his filing statement to the secretary of state in St. Paul, observed that it's an extremely satisfying experience to have the opportunity of responding th the many persons who have expressed the belief that the people of the new Seventh District want and need the seniority and service of an experinced representative in Washington.

Langen, a native of Northwestern Minnesota, said his campaign will be constructive and factual, based entirely on his record of loyal service to the people. "I have the greatest faith in the judgment of the electorate," said the lawmaker, "and it's a privilege to be able to submit that record for the people's judgment. We invite all persons in the new Seventh District to participate in the coming campaign, and invite their examination of our record in the hope that it warrants their favor and support."

Congressman Langen said that his personal campaigning this year may be delayed, since it seems obvious that Congress will remain in session well into the Fall season.

County Fair To Open In City on Thursday

Circus Acts To Be Presented on Saturday, Sunday

Circus acts of interest to young and old alike will be presented before the grandstand at the Pennington County Fair on Saturday and Sunday. Mario Bros. three-ring circus will play to fair crowds at 8 p. m. Saturday and 2 p. m. and 8 p. m. on Sunday and carries a full array of fine circus acts and animals.

Animal training in the truest sense will be exhibited in the act featuring Woodcock's performing elephants, billed as one of the finest elephant acts in the northern hemisphere. Trained and presented by Bill Woodcock Jr., his wife Barbara and 8-year-old son Bennie, the ponderous pachyderms present tricks in a fast and smooth manner, seemingly without effort. The group has appeared at all the larger Shrine circuses in the United States.

Nicolini's Chimpanzees is an act with a number of European triumphs and is now being presented in America. Originally from Madrid, Spain, the animal act is calculated to have the audience literally screaming with laughter and tricks that will have them exclaiming with amazement.

Two other animal acts are included in the circus, Sandra Jean and her military ponies and Pauline and her poodles. The former features a beautiful girl presenting the liberty ponies with finesse and distinction. The latter is an act of educated canines with unusual intelligence, indicating fine training from unusual tricks to "tail-wagging" comedy.

Other circus acts certain to be crowd-pleasers will be the following:

The Dukes juggling troupe, an internationally-known circus family, is one of the finest juggling troups in the circus world today. They keep the air filled with flashing, flying objects throughout their performance and add a touch of humor that is sure to please the most discriminating audience.

The Four Astleys will present intricate and fast-moving tricks in the art of Risley, that of juggling a human being on the feet, one of the most neglected of acrobatic skills since it equires hours of daily practice. The group has earned the constant reputation for pleasing audiences wherever they have appeared.

The Bounding Meldons is a high-flying troupe of trampline artists which performs an act expertly performed and gauged to have the audience gasping because of their breath-taking tricks.

The Flying Mores will demonstrate daring artistry and grace in a long-to-be-remembered act complete with somersaults and hand-to-hand catches with the greatest of ease. Precision and finesse combine in the thrilling and suspenseful performance.

Sammy Ross will be master of ceremonies for the show. A fine musician and comedian, the versatile young man is a fresh, new face in this part of the country.

THE DUKES juggling troupe will be a featured performance with the Mario Bros. Circus to play at the Pennington County Fair in Thief River Falls on Saturday and Sunday, July 21-22. Circus acts will be presented in front of the grandstand on Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon and evening. The Dukes group is acclaimed as one of the finest juggling troupes in the world today. They have appeared with the finer circuses, auditorium shows and show places throughout the United States and Canada.

Peter Prichard Burned When Hot Tar Pail Spills

Peter Prichard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Prichard of Thief River Falls, received facial burns Wednesday when a bucket of hot tar tipped and splashed in his face. The accident happened while he was working for Prichard Bros. Construction company on a roofing job at a service station in Roseau.

According to reports, Peter was working on the ground at the site of the roofing job and lost his balance, tipping the bucket of hot tar being used to repair the roof. Burns were severe on his lip and chin.

An honor student at Lincoln high school where he was among the top 10 students scholastically with this year's graduating class, he had been offered a freshman scholarship at the University of Minnesota. Since that time he has received an offer from Dartmouth which provides $1,100 per year for four years of schooling.

Stock Showmen Need Hay, Straw

All livestock exhibitors at the Pennington county fair this week are advised by Gordon Hunt, livestock superintendent, that they must furnish their own hay and straw for animals exhibited. The fair association will not furnish any hay or straw this year.

Emergency Group Enlarged Friday At Planning Meet

Some encouraging progress in measures for recovery in the Red River Valley disaster counties was reported Friday evening at Thief River Falls at a meeting of the area emergency planning committee formed following a conference here June 23rd.

In reviewing the current situation, it was reported that:

Authority for emergency grazing of soil-bank land has been extended

Congress has approved an extension of the law authorizing emergency harvesting of hay on soil-bank land and the 12 disaster counties have been re-designated for this program. The hay harvesting program has been extended to August 15th.

The Department of Agriculture has announced extension for another year of emergency credit at 3 per cent interest for 12 counties through Farmers Home Administration.

A request is being prepared by special cover crop practice under the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP).

Authority for sale of CCC feeds for livestock feeding is pending, and will be put into use if shortages develop.

New members are George Battles of Crookston, Meredith Haselrud of Roseau and Cy Carpenter of Thief River Falls.

The committee named Charles Kotaska as its chairman and Carpenter as its secretary.

Persons wishing to contact the committee may do so by getting in touch with Carpenter at 1101 N. Knight av., Thief River Falls.

Other members of the area emergency planning committee, who sponsored the June 23d conference and who are continuing to serve are Dr. B. E. Youngquist of Crookston, Odin Hanson, of Thief River Falls, George Bolto of Gonvick, Everett Battles of Roseau and Edwin Christianson of St. Paul.

Bank Debits for N.W. Area Towns Declined in June

A notable slump in business activity in Northwestern Minnesota in June is indicated in the Federal Reserve bank's monthly report of bank debits. Debits declined 12 per cent in Thief River Falls compared to June, 1961, while Crookston was down 20 per cent, East Grand Forks 9 per cent, Newfolden 26, Stephen 34 and Warren 13. Heavy spring rains, which prevented planting of crops, are held largely responsible for the falling off in activity. The state of Minnesota as a whole registered a four per cent gain in June, compared to the same month last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Reopelle and Margo spent several days at Cavalier, N. D. visiting friends and relatives.

Pennington 4-H Club Members To Compete in Showmanship Class

Pennington county 4-H livestock exhibitors will vie for showmanship honors at the county fair this year. Central Livestock Shipping association will present 4-H jackets to the top beef, sheep and swine showman. Every 4-H'er who feels he has a chance to win this contest will be asked to bring his animal into the ring after the judging is done for ribbon placing, states Paul Stelmaschuk, Pennington county agent.

4-H'ers would do well to give special attention to blocking their sheep and to clean and groom all their livestock and train them properly for the showmanship contest. The 4-H'er, too, needs to be properly groomed and neat while showing the animal. Jackets will be presented at the annual 4-H achievement banquet in the fall.

Top showman in the dairy division will receive a halter to be awarded by the American Breeders Service. The showman of the top calf at the fair will receive a blanket from Consolidated Breeders.

The 4-H club winning the most points in the dairy division will be awarded a calf. This is known as the Land O'Lakes calf award which was also sponsored by the Thief River Falls Co-op Creamery and Consumers Co-op. In turn the club decides which member is to receive the calf. The winning member returns a calf to a later fair for further presentation. This year's calf was bred and raised by Leslie Nelson of the Silverton 4-H Club.

Peterson-Wagner Wedding Vows Spoken At Holt

Miss Kathleen Peterson, daughter of Hartley Peterson and the late Mrs. Peterson, of Holt, and Ray Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Wagner of Middle River, were united in marriage in Nazareth Lutheran church of Holt in a June wedding. The officiating minister, Rev. Milton Wilson, performed the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated in white and mint-green.

Mrs. Orville Larson of Holt played the processional on the organ, and accompanied Miss Janice Olson in several vocal renditions, among them "The Lord's Prayer."

Given by her father in marriage, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white lace over taffeta, with a patterned overlay of net and satin, and featuring long fitted sleeves and a fitted bodice whose sweetheart neckline was sequin-trimmed. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a pearl and sequin-trimmed crown. Her bouquet was of sweetheart roses surrounded by white carnations on a background of greenery. Her jewelry was a single-strand pearl necklace, a gift from the groom.

Her sister, Miss Dianne Peterson, Holt attended her as maid of honor, with Miss Sally Hanson and Miss Sharon Anderson as bridesmaids. They wore matching ballerina-length sleeveless gowns of white lace over mint-green satin, with cummerbunds in the same shade, and matching headbands and elbow-length white gloves. The maid of honor carried an all-pink bouquet of carnations and roses, while the bouquets of the bridesmaids were of white carnations and pink roses.

Attending the groom was his brother, Virgil Wagner, Minneapolis; other attendants were groomsmen Archie Tanner and another of the groom's brothers, Kenneth Wagner, of Red Lake Falls. They were outfitted in white dinner jackets with black trousers, and wore carnations of deep pink in their lapels. Ushering duties were shared by Warren Sagstuen, the bride's cousin, and Kenneth Wagner, the groom's brother, both in dark suits and wearing white carnation boutonnieres.

The little flower girl, Julie Sagstuen, of Grand Forks, N. D., wore a white taffeta ballerina-length gown with lace overskirt, a mint-green bow in her hair, and little white gloves. In a basket of white lace she carried white carnations and pink roses.

Ringbearer was Scott Wagner, cousin of the groom, of Middle River, who carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

The guardian-mother of the bride wore a beige dress with matching accessories, and the groom's mother chose a beige dress also, with accessories in white. Their corsages were gardenias and yellow rosebuds. The groom's grandmother wore a corsage of yellow roses.

At the reception for approximately 200 guests, a four-tiered wedding cake, decorated in yellow and white, and baked by Mrs. Sannes of Thief River Falls, was featured; it was cut and served by Mrs. Louis Sagstuen and Mrs. Raymond Sagstuen, aunts of the bride. Mrs. Wayne Konickson registered guests, and Mrs. Byron Sagmoen and Mrs. June Thode had charge of the gifts. Mrs. Harold Sastad, the bride's aunt, and Mrs. Harold Peterson, poured. Another of the bride's aunts, Mrs. Dorothy Lindeman, and the bride's cousin, Miss Renne Sagstuen, served punch. Waitresses were Misses Sylvia Sorter, Carol Taggert, and Jeneen Sagmoen.

There were guests from Coon Rapids, Thief River Falls, Crookston, Roseau, Vergas, Pine Creek, St. Paul, and Minneapolis, Grand Forks, N. D.; Des Moines, Ia.; and Eugene, Ore.

The bride, a graduate of Newfolden high school, attended the area vocational school of nursing the past session. Mr. Wagner is employed in Minneapolis, at the Cedar Box Company. They are making their home in that city.

KITCHEN KARNIVAL

Features from the kitchen of
MRS. OLGA ERICKSON

An easy, wife-saving recipe for blueberry pie just as the berry season approaches, (one which takes little baking time) we thought would be a welcome suggestion at this time. Mrs. Erickson says that it is a "must" at their house each summer, and that now, with home freezing, it can be enjoyed at any time of year. It uses only a baked pie shell, so baking time for the entire operation is cut to only the time needed (about ten minutes, usually,) to bake the single crust.

FRESH BLUEBERRY PIE

4 cups fresh or frozen blueberries (if frozen, thaw them first)
1 cup sugar
3 tbsp. corn starch
¼ cup water
1 tbsp. butter
1 tbsp. lemon juice (to heighten the flavor of the berries).

Line cooled pie shell with 2 cups of blueberries. Mix the sugar, corn starch, and water until smooth. Add remaining berries, and cook the mixture over medium heat, stirring constantly to prevent scorching, until thick. Add butter and lemon juice. Cool. Pour over the berries in the shell. Chill until serving time. If desired, serve with whipped cream or ice cream.

Mrs. Erickson, a widow, lives on a farm northeast of Holt, where she raises turkeys. She has two sons and two daughters, Virgil, Floyd, and Violet, who are married and have homes of their own, and Ione, who is employed in the Twin Cities. Mrs. Erickson's hobbies include sewing and fancy work.

No Traffic Deaths In Pennington for 1962 1st Quarter

County Leads List with Most Accidents in Group On Population Basis

During the first quarter of 1962, Pennington county recorded no fatal accidents or traffic deaths, although it topped the list with number of accidents of Minnesota counties in the 10,000 to 14,999 population group. The county had 72 accidents in which 14 persons were injured in 11 non-fatal mishaps and 61 crashes involved property damage only.

Marshall county had a total of 29 accidents during the same period with five persons injured in three mishaps. Red Lake county had a total of 10 accidents with two personal injuries in one of the crashes. Polk county had one fatality in its 469 accidents in which 44 people were injured in 30 personal injury mishaps.

Thief River Falls itself recorded 65 accidents during the first quarter of 1962 with 11 injuries being sustained in nine accidents. Towns with the fewest mishaps in that population bracket were Eveleth and Shoreview with 19 each.

In 1961 Minnesota had 624 fatal accidents in which 719 persons were killed—one fatality every 14 hours— and 4,709 persons were injured. Traffic accidents cost the people of the state $125,000,000 and 346 one-car accidents accounted for the death of 412 people.

Of those killed in one-car accidents, 177 ran off the road, 122 pedestrians were killed, 20 died at railway crossings, 55 struck fixed objects, 12 rode bicycles to their deaths, 15 died in other non-collision accidents and one was killed when his vehicle struck an animal. The Library Corner

The literary world was deeply saddened last week with the irreplaceable loss of William Faulkner. Faulkner died of a heart attack in his beloved state of Mississippi where, for more than twenty of his 64 years, he reigned as one of America's greatest living novelists. Author of such famous books as "The Sound and the Fury" and "Sanctuary", he was awarded the coveted Nobel Prize for literature in 1949. Faulkner's Yoknapatawpha County will lie now forever fallow, but his literary legacy will undoubtedly become greater and richer with the passing of time.

Mrs. Gunder Legvold has provided the Carnegie public library with a very interesting display of souvenirs from her recent journey to the Hawaiian Islands. When I examined the display the first object that caught my eye was a small child's red doll, with flaming glass eyes. Actually this "little doll" is a sacrificial relic to the pagan goddess Madame Pele. According to an ancient Hawaiian legend, whenever the volcanoes erupted on their islands, Madame Pele was angry and was showing her wrath in fire and red hot lava. She could only be appeased by a sacrifice of suitable gifts, which had to be of a red color. Thus the appearance of many small red artifacts, including little dolls, throughout the islands. Another interesting souvenir is a bottle of orchid perfune. And as the name implies, it really is orchid perfume, because a dainty flower floats in the bottle. The next time you visit the library, be sure to remember to see this display. You'll be glad that you did.

Gladys Theodora Baker recently presented the library with a copy of her first published book, "How To Paint Photographs For Profit." Better known as Gla Baker, she was born in Oklee, Minnesota, and received her education in a country school. Long a student of the fine arts, she credits a large part of her commercial success to the public library, which she visited constantly as a young girl. The mother of two children, she makes her home in Solway, Minnesota.

What are the three greatest books ever written?

1. The Holy Bible.

2. "The Dialogues" by Plato, one of the greatest thinkers of all time. Like his immortal tutor, Socrates, Plato was a lover of wisdom, a crusader against error, and an enemy of falsehood. The voice of Plato is the most eloquent in the choir of philosophy, if not in the whole realm of secular literature. For the young and eager mind there is certainly no more inspiring approach to the great ideas than to hear them come to life as Plato speaks.

Plato was born about 427 B. C., the son of wealthy Athenian parents. At the age of twenty, he became a disciple of Socrates, the greatest intellect of the day. In the year 400 B. D. Socrates was executed on charges of corrupting the Athenian youth. Plato then left Athens and traveled widely abroad in the ancient world. He later returned to Athens to establish his famous Academy, the first University in Europe, where he taught until he died at the age of eighty-one.

Among the Platonic writings, the "Dialogues", of which about thirty-five have been preserved, are regarded as masterpieces. They reflect a mind of great dignity. They show broad vision. They mirror a man who lived a score of centuries ahead of his times.

3. "Faust" by Johann Wolfgang Goethe, one of the greatest poets and dramatists that the world has ever seen. "Faust" presents the philosophical problem of human damnation through desire for knowledge. This poem contains some of the most beautiful and aspiring passages in all literature. Faust's anguished cry for one moment in life which would cause him to desire its continuance is echoed throughout the ages in the emotions of all men of all times. The universal problem of Goethe's play renders it impossible to place the locale of the action or the time of the action, for Faust exists forever and everywhere.

States' history. There will be 11 special trains or coaches coming from all over the United States, 100 chartered buses and one hay wagon. The wagon will bring a group of girls from near by Rutland.

In charge of the girls will be 1,700 adults, but the scouts, 14 through 17 years of age, will do much of the work themselves.

Each patrol of eight girls will live adjacent to at least three other patrols from different parts of the country. Girls will rotate cooking over their own charcoal fires, getting supplies from the commissary and washing up "kapers" as the scouts call kitchen chores.

During the day the girls will meet in discussion groups centered on the roundup theme: "Honor the Past—Serve the Future." A mass campfire July 20 features a pageant of scouting while a second July 24 will have folk dancing and singing, awarding of 12 college scholarships and a two-tone birthday cake.

President Kennedy is going to send greetings and the post office is issuing a stamp commemorating the 50th anniversary. Each girl will also get a brand to take home from a mammoth birthday campfire.

Nine girls will represent the Northwestern Minnesota Girl Scout Council at the roundup. A patrol of eight girls left Thief River Falls on July 15 and one girl will go with the Red River Valley Council at Grand Forks. All these girls have trained diligentley for several months under the supervision of Mrs. Verner Carlstrom, roundup trainer, who lives at Fosston.

The girls want to express their deep thanks to all individuals and organizations who have helped in any way to make it possible for them to attend the roundup.

SUMMER TIME IS PLAY TIME IN MINNESOTA as it is in other parts of the nation. The only difference is that our bountiful and beautiful state offers greater opportunity for summer recreation than any other. Water sports, from fishing to water skiing to swimming to lounging on the warm beach, exist in abundance. Increasing popularity of water recreation is a boon to the state's economy.

Vacation time in Minnesota, no matter how close the traveling family lives to its point of destination, involves motor travel. With care properly exercised, the trip will be enjoyable. But a proper frame of mind is as necessary when driving as a tent is on a camping trip.

Annually the United States has 38,000 people killed in traffic accidents. It could be worse. The U. S. has 74 million motor vehicles. Compare our fatality rating with the following countries: France, 7 million vehicles and 8,000 fatalities; Italy, 3 million vehicles and 8,000 fatalities; and Germany, 5 million vehicles and 14,000 fatalities. It pays to put safety first. As the Minnesota Safety Council says, "It's bad enough as it is."

Milk has been discovered as a simple product for treatment of second degree burns. A woman accidentally scalded herself severely and plunged her burned hand into the nearest fluid—a pitcher of milk. The result was no blisters and only slight reddening of the affected area.

Tests have shown that if milk is used immediately, and compresses of cold milk are kept over the burn for the first 24 hours, the treatment is effective. Cold moisture of any kind reduces heat caused by a burn and alleviates pain. Milk's colloidal qualities make it adhere to the flesh without pressure and it contains protein similar to human tissue.

The man in the upper berth was awakened by a tapping from below. "Are you awake, Mr. Forsythe?" a feminine voice asked. "I am now," he said groggily. "It's frightfully cold down here and I wonder if you would mind getting me a blanket," she said. "I have a better idea, Miss," he suggested, "let's pretend we are married." "That sounds like a good idea," the voice giggled. "Good," the gentleman replied as he nestled into his pillow and closed his heavy eyes, "now you can go and get your own darn blanket!"

Man is a neglected soul. When he is born his mother gets compliments and flowers. When he gets married the bride gets presents and publicity. And when he dies his wife gets the insurance and the sympathy.

Don't forget the Pennington County Fair this week. Kids take advantage of reduced ride rates on Friday from 1 to 6 p. m. and get a chance to win a pony in the bargain. The circus on Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon and evening should be well worth attending. See you there—at the Fair. Also mark your activity calendar for August 3, 4 and 5, the dates of the Jaycees annual Aquacade. Queen pageant at 8 p. m. Saturday, August 4, should be a dandy.

POSITIVE IDENTIFICATION

I've finally found the solution
To a problem I faced every year.
It's hard on the wife's constitution
But I will set forth my plan here.

In past times my problem was this one,
When weeding in hard to spare hours—
In plucking the weeds out I'd miss one
For fear it was one of the flowers.

No longer do I fear the thistle,
The flowers or products of seeds.
I pick the patch clean as a whistle—
The ones that grow back are the weeds.

Postal Receipts Down Slightly in Past Fiscal Year

For the first time in a long period of years, the Thief River Falls postoffice failed to register a gain in receipts for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1962, it was announced today by R. J. Dryden, postmaster. He reported that receipts were down from $133,072.34 for fiscal year 1961 to $133,048.54 for 1962, a loss of $23.80.

What's The Difference?

The difference in price between today's prescriptions and those of 20 years ago can easily be figured. The difference is measured in dimes . . . sometimes even in dollars. But how can we measure the difference in results? Surely, no value can possibly be put on a life saved by a miracle drug that didn't exist 20 years ago!

Mr. M. R. Hankerson,
Supt. of Schools,
Thief River Falls, Minn.
Re: Washington School
Dear Mr. Hankerson,

Pursuant to a request from the Minnesota Department of Education, Building Division, an inspection was made of the above school building by Assistant State Fire Marshal Richard L. Braun. He was accompanied on this inspection by Fire Chief Roy Langevin.

It was found that this building is in a very dilapidated condition, with the floors sagging very badly, and the exterior walls cracked, and in one instance pulling away from the building. The interior stairway is badly sagged, and the fire escape from the second floor is accessible only through windows from one of the classrooms. Our deputy was informed that several years ago, when a fire occurred in this building it was necessary to rescue one of the teachers from the second floor by use of a ladder. With the present deteriorated condition of the building, it is felt that the second floor constitutes a serious hazard to the pupils now using it.

If this building is to continue in use after this school year it is requested that the use of the second floor be eliminated for classroom purposes.

There are a number of flammable sweeping compounds in a storeroom in the basement, which should be removed. The plaster is badly cracked throughout the building, which should be repaired so that in the event of fire it could not get behind the plaster and travel up the joists to other parts of the building.

If this building is to be repaired and continued in use it is recommended that an automatic sprinkler system be installed.

In summation it is requested that the first floor only be used for classrooms, and that a major rehabilitation program should be started within the next year or the building removed.

Anticipating your cooperation in the matter, I remain

Yours very truly,
E. L. WEBER,
Assistant Commissioner

Motion was made by Dr. Disse, seconded by Mr. Olson and carried that the following letters from the State Department of Education dated May 21 and May 29 be read into the minutes:

Mr. M. R. Hankerson,
Superintendent of Schools,
Thief River Falls, Minn.
Dear Mr. Hankerson:

I have now had the opportunity to weigh and evaluate the many notes I made in a rather thorough inspection of the 61 year old Washington Building.

From an educational standpoint this building is substandard with reference to fresh air supply through mechanical ventilation, poor artificial lighting, and general orientation due to exit circumstances. From a safety standpoint educationally too, it is an unsafe building because its interior structure is basically of combustible material, with open stairwells, wooden stairways and poorly located exit facilities from the second floor. I would believe also that the electrical wiring in this building does not meet present standards of the state and national electrical codes. I believe it reasonable therefore to conclude that this building has passed the stage where it can be considered educationally adequate.

From a structural standpoint I noted weaknesses, some of which I consider rather serious. The cracks showing up within the classrooms along the north wall are not new cracks, but from expressions of those who have helped maintain this building over the years, these cracks continue to reappear each year, indicating an outward movement of the wall and floor along this portion of the wall. The extensive sagging in the floor along this wall and in the northwest classroom especially indicates some structural failure that may be quite serious if this classroom is continued in use. The rather serious crack in the northwest corner of the building on the west exterior wall near the northwest classroom is quite large and represents a northward movement of the wall.

There are many and rather extensive sags on the second floor which represent support failures in several places. The second floor ceiling too represents extensive sagging in many places. Radiators indicate sagging of floors and lack of adequate floor support. For all of the above listed structural failures and other factors which cannot be fully ascertained visually at this time, there appears little doubt that this building, especially the second floor, has reached the stage where it is unsafe to continue it in use for classrooms or any other school use. In fact it appears to me along with the judgement of the structural engineer, that no part of this building should be continued in use beyond a reasonable time for [illegible] say two years at the most. I concur with the action taken by your school board in discontinuing the use of the second floor of this building beginning with the school year of 1962-63.

This building shows evidence of deterioration so far as windows and window frames, exterior roof trim, and certain interior areas to the point where it is economically unsound to make expenditures sufficient enough to place this building in good repair and educationally acceptable. Expending funds for remodeling a 61 year old building of this type of construction cannot be considered frugal.

I would believe that any patron of your district that is interested in good standards of education and the safety of the school pupils and teachers will agree that the time is at hand to demolish this building and to replace it with new construction at a more suitable location.

Very truly yours,
GUY O. TOLLERUD,
School Plant Planning

Mr. M. R. Hankerson,
Superintendent of Schools,
Thief River Falls, Minnesota
Dear Mr. Hankerson:

After reviewing again the needs of your district for new facilities, and considering seriously how best to provide for these needs and the expenditures necessary to construct them, I conclude that this construction should not take place on your present, very limited high school site. With an enrollment of approximately 850 in the junior high and 550 in the senior high, it is now a good time to separate the junior high school from the senior high school. This can now be accomplished by building secondary facilities on a new, well located site.

There is so much to gain in building these new facilities on an adequate new site that I would not want to approve plans for new secondary school construction on the present site.

The long range plan presently envisioned of building a new junior high school and a new elementary school on the new site, using the present high school for senior high school purposes for some years, then at the appropriate time to establish a junior college in the present high school building and building a new senior high school on this new site is a well-founded concept toward which your community and area can well move. It will have many advantages for your district and the northwest portions of the state. Doing this will produce a community college, including both the junior college and the vocational-technical school, which will have many advantages for pupils who will be attending and who will have reasons to transfer from one institution to the other in developing and finalizing their vocational plans.

This course is an important step, one having long range beneficial possibilities. It will present a challenge to the forward looking and constructive leadership among the school patrons of your district. I would hope that this challenge will invigorate this leadership.

You are fortunate in having available the site purchased in 1955, consisting of approximately 37 acres. You will need all of this space for the envisioned school complex.

It is always difficult to locate an ample site that does not at the time appear to be as centrally located as everyone would like with respect to the city of Thief River Falls, since however, approximately 70 per cent of the community school enrollment comes from families residing on this side of the river, and since this area shows growth through recent construction of new homes, this appears to be very well located. In time, as the people of your community become accustomed to this location, there will be considerable satisfaction over the location.

I hope the patrons of your school district will rally to the support of your school board and yourself in the forthright planning in which you are engaged in reaching toward this sound goal in educational planning.

Very truly yours,
GUY O. TOLLERUD,
School Plant Planning

Motion was made by Mr. Olson, seconded by Mr. Howick and carried that the cooks all receive a $5.00 per month increase in salary starting with the school year 1962-63.

Motion was made by Dr. Disse, seconded by Mr. Olson and carried that Mr. Stockman and Mr. Jones proceed with the elementary athletic and recreation program as presented at the meeting.

Motion was made by Dr. Disse, and seconded by Mr. Bredeson to accept the Jung's Bread Products Bid and the O'Hara Coal Bid. Motion carried.

Motion to contract for bulldozer to clear land on the new tract of land on the East side of town was made by Mr. Olson and seconded by Dr. Disse. Carried.

The minutes of the meetings of May 15, 1962, May 21, 1962 and June 4, 1962 were approved as read.

Motion was made by Mr. Olson and seconded by Mr. Bredeson that the following bills be paid. Carried.

Capital Outlay	353.57
Debt Redemption	12,816.96

Motion was made by Mr. Bredeson and seconded by Dr. Disse and carried that the resignation of Alan Staley be accepted.

It was moved, seconded and carried that the meeting adjourn.

Clerk
Approved: Lloyd Howick,
President

Thieves Edge out Twin Valley 9-8

The game-ending-out, on a play which found Marv Lundin fielding Don Wermager's ground ball and making a toss to Paul Klungness at second base to force Butch Johnson, closed out a hectic Norman-Polk league game at the Fair Grounds diamond Sunday night and gave manager Joey Poole's Thieves a 9-8 win over the second place Twin Valley Twins.

It was a crippled Thieves club that held off the rallying Twins in the game's final innings. Lefty Freddy Jensen, the locals' starting pitcher, came up with a wrenched back in the fifth inning and was forced to leave the game. Jerome (Tony) Poole came on in relief, and the youthful righthander gave up but one earned run, but was plagued by erratic support. And in the seventh inning, during wild throwing by the Thieves and strong base-running by the Twins, catcher Dennis Bakke suffered a neck injury and was taken to the hospital. Preliminary reports were that the popular Thieves' catcher had injured a vertebra.

The Bakke injury culminated some frantic baseball in the inning, and gave the Twins a pair of runs. With runners on second and third and one man out, the Twins' John Peterick poled a long fly ball to the fence in left-center. Joey Poole, on a backhanded catch, caught the ball up against the fence. The runners had left their bases, and a double play should have ensured, but three low throws, committed in the haste to double up the runners, caused the Twins to re-tag their bases, and then go on to score. And on a play at the plate, Bakke was hit as runner Santwire came in with a tally, and when the ball bounded to the backstop, Bob Knutson came in with another tally.

The Thieves rolled up their nine runs in three innings, scoring twice in the third inning, on a walk to Harlie Drees, a single by John Drury and a triple by Joe Poole, adding five runs in the fourth, and notching a pair in the fifth. The five-run cluster in the fourth drove the Twins' starter, Phil Peterick, off the mound and brought in Mickey Jolen as the relief pitcher.

Jensen, who started for the Thieves, and was pitching a nifty brand of ball, hurling two-hit and no-run ball for four innings, apparently aggravated a back injury. Jensen hurled the fifth inning, doling out a walk and being touched for three hits, but then his back became so painful that he was forced from the game.

The win boosted the Thieves' record to six wins and three losses. The locals are not scheduled to play until Wednesday, July 25, when the Fertile Independents will be here.

WINNER of the Region 2 Jaycee junior golf tournament held recently at the Thief River golf course was Ron Kvikstad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Kvikstad of this city. He fired an 18-hole total of 73 with steady rounds of 37 and 36 to win the event. Others advancing to state tourney play on July 19, 20 and 21 are Ed Sauer, Walker, 37-40 and 77; Jim Carlson, Bemidji, 41-38 and 79; and Steve Johnson, Moorhead, 39-43 and 82. Evan Anderson, the second Thief River Falls entry in the tournament, carded an 87. Kvikstad also represented the local chapter in the state tournament a year ago.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Worthy of Mention

There were a couple of plays during the week by members of coach Ralph Skay's American Legion junior baseball team that are worthy of mention.

First, perhaps, was the home run that David (Nobby) Erickson poled over the left field fence in the third inning of the Thief River Falls vs. Grand Forks game on Saturday night. Nobby, one of the younger and smaller players in American Legion baseball, really teed off on one of righthander Bill Howard's fast balls. The drive carried the left field fence by quite a margin, and it was a happy Nobby who received the congratulations of his team-mates and coach.

And on Friday night, in the first inning of the Thief River Falls vs. Crookston game, Paul Klungness made a clean steal of home, tying the game at 2-all. Crookston's pitcher, Roger Schmidt, took a full windup, and Paul, getting a good break, made a fine slide across the plate to avoid the tag. It was the first steal of home I have seen for several years.

And speaking of junior baseball, it must be reported that the local club suffered a player-loss this week when, on doctor's orders, Mike Aune was forced from the squad. Mike, who is one of the toughest and most stubborn competitors on the team, and who always puts out at 100-per cent plus, is suffering from mononucleosis. For the past couple of weeks, Mike has been below par physically, but he is not of the complaining kind and it was not until a laboratory analysis was made that a diagnosis was made. Mononucleosis is a blood disease, and is characterized by an excessive number of mononuclears in the circulation blood. Mike's loss will cause coach Skay to reshuffle the locals' lineup, especially the infield, for this week's sub-district play.

Softball Fireworks

The City softball league will probably put on a belated "fireworks" display when, on Wednesday evening on the East Side diamond, the Bridgeman's play the V. F. W.

The two teams have been rivals for the past couple of seasons, and at present they are sharing runner-up honors in the league standings, having four wins and two losses apiece.

But what will add interest and excitement to Wednesday's tilt (and the game has been moved up one day from its original Thursday evening date) is that Gary (Doc) Carlson will be in the Vets lineup.

Doc, a southpaw, had been on the roster of the Bridgeman's all season, and had turned in some fair games of hurling for the orange-and-black, but following last Thursday evening's game, which found the Bridgeman's defeating the Holsum Bread, 9-1, Doc asked for his release. This release was forthcoming, and Doc immediately signed with Wally Grovum's Vets. The Vets have been experiencing pitching trouble, with Wally Grovum and Joey Poole trying their hands at the job. Doc may give the Vets, who have some of the best softball players in the city on the roster, the boost they need.

A Good Umpire

The Norman-Polk league is operating on a home-and-home basis as far as umpires are concerned, ment is a working out well. The home team in the league contests will provide the ball-and-strike umpire, while the visiting team will bring the base umpire. There have been instances of griping and complaining, but for the most part the umpires have done a good job.

And the Thieves can boast of having one of the league's better umpires in Bobby Carlson. Bob had a tough game here Sunday night, with Twin Valley batting to stay in the pennant race, but Carlson handled the plate calls very well. And I'm sure that Les Holen, the manager of the Twins will not blame the loss of the game on the umpiring.

Hamm's Beer, 13, vs. V.F.W., 4
Bridgeman's, 9, vs. Holsum Bread, 1

Schedule this week:
Monday, July 16 — Thief River Grain vs Hamm's Beer
Tuesday, July 17 — Holsum Bread vs Hartz Stores
Wednesday, July 18 — Bridgeman's vs. V.F.W.

The Hamm's Beer team, behind the steady pitching of Frank Harger, and with Dale Glass contributing a home run to the attack, defeated Wally Grovum's V.F.W. team, 13-4, on Tuesday evening in the feature game of the week's city softball league schedule. The defeat drops the Vets into a 2-way tie for 2nd place, with the on-coming Bridgeman's, and left the Hartz Stores team, who defeated the Thief River Grain, 7-4, on Monday evening, in first place by a one-game margin.

This week's slate has been reshuffled somewhat, with a game being billed for Wednesday evening. On Wednesday the Bridgeman's will meet the V.F.W. squad in an important tilt. This game was originally slated for Thursday evening, but has been advanced by one day. Gary (Doc) Carlson, who has been pitching for the Bridgeman's, has secured his release from the latter club and has joined the Vets.

TRF Legion Jrs. Split Two Games

Coach Ralph Skay's local American Legion junior baseball closed out their pre-tournament schedule last week, posting a win and taking a loss. The locals were to have played the Fertile juniors at Fertile this evening, Monday, but the game has been cancelled.

On Tuesday, with game time at 3:00 p. m. on the Roseau diamond, the locals will meet the Midde River juniors in a sub-district tournament first-round game. Other first round games being played at Roseau on Tuesday will find Roseau meeting Warroad at 10:00 a. m.; Lake Bronson playing Warren at 12:30 p. m.; and East Grand Forks playing Crookston at 6:00 p. m. The semi-finals will be played at 3:00 p. m. and 6:00 p. m. on Wednesday; and the championship finals at 6:00 p. m. on Thursday.

In the schedule-windup games played here on Friday and Saturday, coach Skay's club defeated Crookston, 7-2, on Friday evening, and then dropped a 7-6 decision to the Grand Forks juniors on Saturday night.

On Friday evening, with the score knotted at 2-all moving into the last half of the fourth inning, Larry Poole drew a walk, advanced to second on a wild pitch, and then scored on Tony Poole's double to left field. The locals added two-run clusters in the fifth and sixth innings to score their 7-2 win over coach Rod Oistad's Crookston club.

On Saturday night, under the lights, the locals put on a four-run seventh-inning rally that just failed to tie the score and send the game into extra innings as coach Marv Skaar's powerful Grand Forks juniors edged out the locals, 7-6.

Grand Forks held a commanding 7-2 lead as the locals came to bat in the last half of the seventh. One of the locals' run had come as a result of home run over the left field fence by David Erickson in the third inning. In the seventh, with one out, Dick Johnson, Dave Erickson, Rick Jensen, and Gerry Erickson drew walks off starter Bill Howard, forcing in a run. Coach Skaar called in Gary Gillis for relief duty, and Gary Klungness greeted the young righthander with a triple to left-center. Gary was thrown out at the plate on a fine relay by shortstop Ron Bergh, the play going Jerry Hebert to Bergh to catcher John Nielson. Paul Klungness beat out an infield hit, and the locals were still alive, but John Aune lofted a fly to shortstop Bergh for the game-ending out.

At Norman Strand Home

Visiting Musicians Perform To Delight of Teenagers

By Marvin Lundin
City Eidtor

It's a safe bet that Norman Strand of 420 Kinney av. N. won't have to mow his lawn for at least a week. That is the length of time it will take for the grass to straighten up after hordes of teenagers danced to the music of Russ and Bob Costa, nephews of the Strands from New Bedford, Mass., who have spent the past week at the Strand home.

When at home in Massachusetts, the Costa brothers are half of a musical group known as The Darnels. Other members of the group include a drummer and a bass guitar player. To date their performances have been mostly at teenage dances, banquets and weddings. Night club work beckons to the group but they are too young to play in Massachusetts clubs.

One of their achievements has been playing for a record hop at Lincoln Park in Westport, Mass. The record hop offered a change of pace from the steady diet of big-name bands which play at the million dollar hall throughout the year. They also have played at a number of local events, including a large bowling banquet at Fairhaven, Mass.

Russ, who is only 16, handles the arrangements for the group. He has taken guitar lessons for three years and also plays the drums. Brother Bob, 19, has taken guitar lessons for a year and one-half and has played the accordion for eight years. While the boys prefer the beat of "rock and roll" tunes, they can play whatever type of music is desired for the occasions when they perform.

Make Up Own Songs

Proof that the boys play what they like to play, they pick up songs which they hear on records or make up tunes of their own. The song improvison from records is done by ear since they play without the benefit of printed music. Their own investment in electric guitars and amplifiers is more than $1,200.

When the boys don their black trousers, white shirts and black bow ties, plug in their instruments and mount a picnic table in the back yard of the Strand home, youngsters are drawn from blocks around like mosquitoes to a light. As many as 200 persons have stopped by in one evening during the past week to eavesdrop, tap toes or dance to the rockin' rhythm.

In watching the boys perform and in visiting with them, it is impossible to help but notice their unusually good manners. While the music is the same as that produced by many groups which add sense and excessive animation, the Costa's present it in a calm fashion which lets a person listen without being fatigued from watching.

At any rate, the Strand lawn will not be the same for some time after the boys have returned to Massachusetts.

ONE HALF of "The Darnels," a teen-age music group which has gained increasing attention on the East Coast, is currently visiting in Thief River Falls. Russ Costa, left, and his brother Bob, are visiting with their parents at the home of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Strand, at 420 Kinney av. N. The other half of the group, a drummer and bass guitar player, are waiting to fulfill engagements when the Costas return to their home in New Bedford, Mass.

Seven Aspirants Seek Sheriff Job in Polk Primaries

Crookston's Police Chief Harry Dillabough Wednesday announced his intentions of seeking the post of Polk county sheriff.

Dillabough, 43, is the seventh candidate to enter the race for sheriff. Carl Knutson, the present sheriff, has said he will not seek re-election to a third term.

Others who are seeking the endorsement of county voters in the primary are Deputies, Paul Caouette and Lyle Eisert, Rodney Olstad, Arthur Lufkin, W. A. Fitzsimmons, all of Crookston, and John J. Lawonn of East Grand Forks.

State Easter Seal Society Breaks With U.S. Ass'n.

Affiliation Terminated Due To Participation In United Fund Drives

Termination of affiliation with the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults by the Minnesota Society took place recently, according to a story appearing in the Minnesota Crippled Childrens News, publication of the state society. The break came as a result of the state group's joining United Fund campaigns in the state, contrary to the policy of the national organization.

"Our Society will continue to be known as the Minnesota Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc.," the article states, "and will continue to hold an annual campaign for crippled children in those areas where it does not participate in United Funds. However, it will no longer use Easter Seals or the Easter Seal symbol, nor will it be known as the Easter Seal Society."

Minnesota's new position also means that in the future all funds raised in Minnesota will be used entirely within the state in support of the Society's program. Although all bequests, memorial and special purpose gifts have always remained 100 per cent in Minnesota, the state society previously submitted about 10 per cent of its Easter Seal campaign income to the National Society in support of its program of research, education and consultative service.

David Wick, state president, said the saving of time and money through affiliation with United Funds and the resultant community endorsement and coordination should help "to provide the greatest amount of service to the greatest number of people."

The story did not state whether or not the national organization would sponsor an Easter Seal campaign in Minnesota.

Modest reductions in the cost of dairy products are anticipated. Reason is a cut in federal price supports to the minimum legal level.

New Tests Set for '62 Price-support Wheat

Farmers were reminded today that quality premiums for hard wheat placed under the 1962 price-support program will be based on sedimentation tests this year instead of on the protein tests used in previous years.

The sedimentation test is a part of the Department of Agriculture's effort to increase markets for U. S. wheat and to increase returns to producers on the basis of quality. While protein tests show the protein content in a specific lot of wheat, the sedimentation test better reveals the quality of wheat gluten, and this factor is more reliable in identifying wheat for production of better flour for commercial bread baking.

According to Edward A. Johnson, chairman of the Marshall county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee, the sedimentation tests will be made through the ASCS county office on all farm-stored hard red spring, hard red winter, and hard white wheat which is put under price-support loan from this year's crop. Settlement with farmers on 1962 crop farm-stored wheat delivered to the Commodity Credit Corporation under the price-support program also will be on the basis of sedimentation value.

Producers who take out loans on warehouse-stored wheat will be offered price-support loans on the basis of sedimentation values recorded on storage documents by the warehouseman.

The chairman explained that premiums under the price-support program are provided on hard wheats with sedimentation values of 40 or above on the quality scale. This is the wheat preferred for commercial bread baking. Premiums will be 3 cents per bushel for wheats testing 40, 41 and 42; plus 1 cent per bushel for each additional point of sedimentation value up to a maximum of 25 cents per bushel, which will apply to wheats with a sedimentation test of 64 or above.

The premiums will be added to the basic county or terminal loan rate to determine the specific 1962 support loan rate. Hard wheat with no test or testing below 40 will be supported at the base rate, with discounts or premiums for other factors.

The 1962 basic price support rate will be $2.12 per bushel and the terminal rate will be $2.35.

Job Holders in State Hit Peak During June

Minnesota nonfarm employment climbed to over 990,000 workers in June, a record for the month, according to Frank T. Starkey, employment security commissioner. Starkey predicted that the state's employed manpower will hit the million mark sometime within the next three months, barring a catastrophic decline in the state's economy.

The June level of 991,700 workers represented a gain of 1 per cent (9,700) over May, and a gain of 2 per cent (19,700) over June, 1961. All major industrial groups showed gains in June, with the exceptions of services and government.

The largest gains over the month were registered in construction (6,600), manufacturing (2,700) and transportation (1,300). Approximately one-third of the manufacturing gain occurred in the food and kindred products group as the vegetable canning season opened and breweries added summer workers. Railroads and Great Lakes shipping accounted for much of the gain in transportation employment.

For the first time this year metal mining employment rose above the comparable month of 1961. In fact, mining reached a level in June equal to the seasonal high point of 1961. Although this is an encouraging note, current reports indicate mining employment will stay at about the June level throughout the 1962 season.

Construction employment continued to trend upward in June with the main impetus coming from the highway and heavy construction segment. Present conditions indicate the construction industry should enjoy a much better season this year than it did in 1961. Currently, employment is 3,200 above the figure recorded a year ago.

Production workers earnings in the state's manufacturing industries rose slightly to an average of $102.8 8in June. The length of the workweek remained virtually unchanged over the month at 40.8 per week.

Unemployment in Minnesota declined to 68,000 persons in June compared to 72,400 the previous month. A year ago 90,500 persons were unemployed in the state. As is usual in June, a large number of teenagers entered the labor force seeking jobs; however, many of them had not as yet found work and were counted among the unemployed. In large part, this accounts for the apparent discrepancy between the gain in total employment and the relatively small decrease in unemployment.

The rate of unemployment shrunk to 4.3 per cent in June, compared to 4.9 per cent the previous month, and 5.8 per cent a year ago.

Traffic Deaths in State Total 263 in 1st Six Months

The safety division of the state highway department announced this week that a total of 263 traffic deaths was recorded in Minnesota for the first six months of 1962 thru June 30. This is 40 less than the 303 fatalities for the same period in 1961. Pedestrian deaths, however, totaled 51 for the first half of 1962, or two more than for the first half of 1961. No traffic deaths have been recorded in Pennington, Marshall or Red Lake counties.

'Survival' Held First Law for Motorists

Minnesota motorists appear to be doing little more than "holding the line" in the battle to combat traffic slaughter upon the highways, according to a report today by the Minnesota highway department.

At the end of May, the number of traffic deaths for the first five months of this year was 38 less than for the same period of last year. However, the 36,638 accidents reported so far in 1962 was a 24 per cent increase over the same period of 1961.

Pedestrian mishaps were about par with last year, but bicyclists suffered a great deal. Five bicyclists were killed and 107 injured in 106 mishaps during the first five months compared with two deaths, 90 injuries and 92 accidents reported during the same period of last year.

Drivers who failed to yield the right of way and "bumper-huggers" who would not allow an extra margin between them and vehicles ahead, were the leading causes of accidents during May. Close behind were the speeders and the improper passers.

Rural areas continued to be the "danger zone" for many. Of the 47 fatal mishaps occurring during May, 35 happened on rural roads or highways.

The increased traffic of the summertime tourist season makes it doubly important that Minnesota drivers comply with traffic laws and stay alert for the driving errors likely to be committed by visiting motorists who are not familiar with state laws. None should be forced to suffer a death penalty for driving errors, says the Highway department.

The highway department urged drivers to keep the "open road" safer by keeping speeds down, passing only when it is safe, keeping a safe distance when following, and overall, remembering that patience is a virtue during the "heat and demands of summertime driving."

"The main part of intellectual education is not the acquisition of facts, but learning how to make facts live. All fact collectors who have no aim beyond their facts are one-story men. Langen Files

Congressman Odin Langen has filed for reelection. He has served two terms in a creditable way and prior to that he served several terms in the state legislature where he was respected as one of the leaders of the outstate group.

Langen has now served his apprenticeship in Congress. It takes time for a new man to establish himself in a body of that kind. From now on, with each succeeding year of service, he will become better qualified as the representative of his district.

In a legislative body seniority is very important. There are times when changes are desirable but the disadvantages of frequent change should be recognized. It would definitely be in the best interests of our district to keep Odin Langen in Washington a long time.

Telstar Ahoy

Telstar is not much of a satelite in terms of size but for utility it certainly is one of the most usefull of the many man-made spheres that are whirling around the earth in orbit. A product of the Americn Telephone and Telegraph Company, Telstar inaugurates a new system of sound and picture transmission that, scientists agree, has great possibilities.

"Telstar, performed the same functions in space as the relay towers dotting the American landscape, which are carriers of TV programs, telephone and message traffic," stated Albert D. Hughes in reporting for the Christian Science Monitor.

Bell Laboratories engineers point out that Telstar is just the beginning of a series of experiments with communications satelites. It will not in inself lead directly to an operating system.

Well, it appears that they are off to a good start.

Guidelines

An extended study conducted by the National Education Association and the American Legion on how to teach about communism in our junior and senior high schools, has produced the following guidelines:

> "Use history in introducing the subject of communism.
> "Include "the philosophy and terminology of communism," such as the difference between the American word democracy and its communist use.
> "Study, compare, and contrast the economic system of Communist and non-Communist countries.
> "Study how Communists use the home, the church, and the school to achieve such Red goals as "the eventual elimination of religion."
> "Emphasize that while Communist goals remain constant, Red strategy and tactics shift frequently as expediency dictates.
> "Minimize the emotional aspects; maximize the factual aspects. Keep the material within "the range of knowledge, maturity, and competence of the students.
> "In general, avoid the bizarre, the headline-hunting type of activity which inflames a community."

We would like to make one addition to this good list. Let's keep in mind that our differences are with the governments and not the people.

Milk Barriers Out

The recent supreme court decision supporting the right of two Pennsylvania dairy marketing organizations to sell milk in New York and New Jersey areas that have been protected by marketing order barriers seems to have brought a state of confusion to the bewildered leaders of the dairy industry. Out of this confusion may come a better program of production and price control managed by the industry itself in the interests of all dairymen.

The two Pennsylvania dairy marketing organizations had maintained that the department of agriculture had no right to force them to contribute to a pool that would be divided among the protected members of the organizations normally serving those markets. As explained by an Associated Press report:

> "Under milk marketing orders, the agricultural secretary fixes the prices handlers pay for milk they buy. This money is passed on to farmers in proportion to the amount of milk they produce. But the department forces outsiders to make compensatory payments to keep them from undermining the market. The court said this is illegal."

In reply to a question as to what probably will happen within the industry if a new program is not adopted, a department official stated:

> "The immediate effect would be a drop in milk prices. This would tend to eliminate the marginal dairy producer and milk handler. Then, as shortages of milk appeared, prices would go back up, inducing increased production."

In other words there would be a return to normal marketing conditionsu nder which supply and demand would be the determining factor in establishing prices. But supply and demand would operate nationally rather than by protected areas. Under the system of area protection, as we have had it, the protected producers have received a price far above the national average for that portion of their milk that was needed for the grade A market, but they have contributed heavily to the industry's surplus problem nationally by producing a large volume of milk that is being dumped on the market for commercial purposes.

The supreme court decision is right and fair. Our constit ution provides that there should be no barriers to a free exchange of goods and services between the states. The milk barriers were imposed originally as essential to sanitation control, and probably were justified at one time. Now, with modern refrigeration and transportation facilities, and uniform quality standards maintained by the federal government, there is no good reason why Minnesota milk should not be made available anywhere in the country with the only price disadvantage being the longer-haul cost.

The changed situation calls for strong industry leadership, which has been lacking for some time. The new problems may make for national unity within the industry. In the past the protected groups have not been interested in a national approach. They have been happy within their own sheltered areas, with a government agency keeping out the competition.

Now that the barriers are being removed, and all producers will have a common interest in the national market, maybe it will be possible to get the harmony that will be essential to maintaining a strong, national production and marketing control program, managed by the industry and not controlled by politicians.

Another Deficit

Last year's deficit for our federal government is estimated at about $7 billion. At the beginning of the year, let it be recalled, we were promised a balanced budget. For the year ahead of us we are not promised a balanced budget. Estimates vary, but the official guess seems to be that expenditures will exceed income by about $4 billion.

In recent months there has been a big increase in the number of warnings about the progress of Communism in our country. The thing that would give Communism its greatest boost in this country would be the collapse of our economy. We are moving in that direction. The spenders in Washington are the Communists' best friends. As such they are our public enemy No. 1.

One of the danger signals that should restore a measure of common sense to those who manage our government is the growing weakness of the American dollar. Continuing deficits will not strengthen the world's confidence in our dollar. Foreigners already have a first mortgage on our gold reserves that exceeds the value of that gold at its present prescribed price.

Now there is serious talk of tax cuts. But tax cuts without cuts in spending could be disastrous. What we need is an actual holding of the line on wage and price increases—not just talk about it. And we need to start living within our means. Those things will strengthen the dollar and may avert economic disaster. But we can't put off recognition of the facts much longer.

Freeman Is Angry

Orville Freeman wasn't at all happy with the rejection of his production control plan for turkeys and has cancelled all purchases of turkeys by the government to bolster the market. During the past 12 months the government has bought 57 million pounds of turkeys compared to 19 million pounds the previous year. "But we're not going to buy any more just to bail 'em out of trouble" snorted a top Freeman aide when the result of the poll was made known.

So it seems that the turkey growers have offended Freeman and his helpers and from now on will receive no favors. This is a good example of what we are moving into as more and more we are being governed by a bureaucracy.

The Department of Agriculture officials were certain their plan would be approved. Under the terms of the referendum the 8,000 eligible voters represented only about 15% of all growers in the country. The other 85% are in the small producer class, marketing less than 3,600 pounds of turkeys a year. These growers would remain small under the pro visions of the proposal and it was supposed that they would have opposed the straight jacket.

But fewer than halfo f the 7,000 who did vote favored the plan, far less than the two-thirds majority needed. And Freeman, the terrible tempered Mr. Bang of Minnesota politics, is proty angry.

Interesting Opinions

"A citizenry that is fully determined not to lose the cold war must elect some of its best and wisest members to boards of education, members who will not adbicate to professional administrators their own responsibility for educational policy; members who will insist that their schools do the utmost to educate every student to the limit of his capacity to become an informed, competent, strong, responsible individual . . ."

Let's Go to the Fair!

To say, "Let's go to the Fair" can mean your local county fair or the Minnesota State Fair that will be opening in St. Paul on August 25.

First of all, I would like to salute the county fairs of our state. I have had occasion to attend many and look forward to visiting many more this summer.

The biggest feature of the county fair is the work of the young people. If anyone wants to be encouraged about the future of our exhibits, learn about the stake that young people have already earned on their own for the future, see the marvelous projects of the 4-H and FFA chapters, observe the fine sewing and other homemaking work the girls have done, and the handicrafts of the boys. It is a thrilling display of young talent guided into useful channels.

All this doesn't happen by itself or by the young people on their own. The County Extension Service is key to the program, the County Extension Agent, the Homemaker Agent, the County 4-H Leaders, and the Vo-Ag Instructors all do a tremendous job. I am sure they would be quick to say that their work would be impossible except for all of the volunteer adult leadership that devotes endless time in working with the youth in local organization units.

At the county fair there is fun for all in entertainment that is kept at a high level, chance for neighbors to get together to visit and compare notes, many open classes of exhibiting in cattle, crops, and hobby activities. Commercial and educational exhibits, particularly farm machinery are great drawing cards.

County fairs would soon fade were it not for the County Fair Board, many of whose members serve for long periods of time. At the end of each strenuous year there will be a big sigh and a feeling that maybe this ought to be the last year, but then as another year begins and there is such a demand for experience to carry on the program and the realization of how important it is in the life of the community, these faithful board members carry on.

Finally, I observe excellent support for county fair activities by the county boards of commissioners. They play a key role in seeing that financial aid, new buildings, and the necessary support is given to the County Fair Board and all of those who individually help to make it a success. Local merchants contribute prizes—almost everyone is involved some way.

The other night as I spoke to the grandstand audience at the Clay County Fair up at Barnesville I couldn't help but feel that on that county fair grounds, in the lives of all the people represented there, in their aims and aspirations, their self-reliant struggle against adversity, in all of these ways you truly find the heart of America easier in such a setting than you do on the sidewalks of New York or in most other big cities.

Give your county fair your support, make a point to attend this year, and get around to see all the exhibits. You will be amazed at the fine handicraft work, the new entomology collections that are growing in interest, the art shows that are more and more attractive, as well as all the usual attractions.

And then, come on down to the Twin Cities and visit the big State Fair and see the culmination of all the good work from all parts of our state. If you see me, give me a chance to shake your hand.
